Reply Unacceptable to Allies

NEEDS OF LOWELL DISCUSSED BY NOTED PLANNING EXPERT

John Nolen of Cambridge Addresses Members of Chamber of Commerce and Ad Club at Noon-day Meeting in Liberty Hall—Tells of City's Facilities, Shortcomings and Need of Modern Planning and Zoning Scheme

John Nolen of Cambridge, landscape architect, city planner, civic lecturer, writer and traveler, came to Lowell today at the invitation of the chamber of commerce, to be the guest of that organization and the Lowell Advertising club at a noonday luncheon held in Liberty hall at the Memorial Auditorium at 12.15 o'clock.

Not only was Mr. Nolen an honored guest, but also the principal speaker at the luncheon, which was attended by nearly 200 members of both organizations.

He prefaced his address at the Auditorium by a trip around the city with George F. Wells, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The trip was more or less of the sight-seeing type, inasmuch as Mr. Nolen never before

Member of Unconfirmed Board Says Published List Does Board Appointees an Injustice—Majority of Suggestions Beyond the Scope of Planning Board's Authority

A long list of suggestions, appearing in a morning paper today, purporting to come from the city planning board and dealing with multitudinous subjects that might have to do with the social, moral and economic development of Lowell, was repudiated almost instantly by one of the men recently appointed to the board, who emphatically states that the board has made no

LIPPS FOUND NOT GUILTY BIG AGRICULTURAL FAIR IN CHELMSFORD

Lowell Man Charged With Illegal Keeping Is Discharged by Court

Carl F. Lipps, who was arraigned in district court on Monday on the charge of illegal keeping of liquor and whose case was continued till today, was found not guilty by Judge Enright this morning. The court said that he was not satisfied on the evidence offered that Lipps was guilty. The liquor taken by the officers from Mr. Lipps' place of business will be returned to him.

In the trial of the case on Monday, members of the liquor squad testified that a garage on Moody street, where Lipps works in a repair station, had been under surveillance for some time

Turks Insist Upon Use of Straits to Transport Troops to Thrace Before Beginning Peace Conference

Unofficial Forecast of Nationalist Reply to Allies—Kemalist Army Refuses to Recognize Neutral Zone—Occupies Bigha and Massacres 900—British Preparing Three Lines of Entrenchment—Reinforcements on Way—Wireless to Chanak Prevented Outbreak of Hostilities

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27, 12.36 p. m.—(By the Associated Press)—It is unofficially forecast that the Kemalist reply to the allied peace note contains conditions unacceptable to the allies, in that the nationalists insist upon the use of the straits for transporting troops to Thrace before the beginning of the peace conference.

CONCENTRATION OF TURKISH TROOPS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press) While the Anatolian cabinet, sitting at Smyrna, is completing its reply to the allied note, the nationalist army continues its feverish concentration of troops on the island and Chanak lines. Mustafa Kemal Pasha now has 1100 men in Kum Kaleh, at the mouth of the Dardanelles; 5000 at Adramytti, 50 miles southeast of Chanak; 10,000 in the intervening Sanjak of Karassi and considerable forces in the other areas. The nationalist leader expects these

WILL UNDERGO SERIOUS OPERATION

Railroad men in and around Lowell today learned with sorrow that one of their number, John F. Manning, for the past 15 years in the employ of the Boston & Maine railroad, has been compelled temporarily to relinquish his duties as janitor of the Middlesex street station and will on Saturday next submit to a serious operation at the Lowell General Hospital. Mr. Manning's place at the station is being filled by an assistant. The janitor will probably have to remain away from his duties a month or more.

Manning is one of the really popular railroad men in this vicinity. He knows the Billerica car shop section intimately, being employed there more than seven years and making many friends. He has been janitor at the Middlesex station for the past two years, and he calls all trains. He has a wide acquaintance among railroad men, and has a splendid record as caretaker of the local station, having been complimented in an official order for his good work here not long ago. He is married, has a son and lives at 20 Barclay street.

VETERANS' POLL TAX ABATEMENTS

Any veteran who desires the $3 abatement on poll taxes in accordance with the law, must file his desire with the assessor before Monday, October 2 at 4 o'clock. Veterans who fought in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the World war are included in this tax abatement for the year of 1922. According to the law, the veterans have 30 days after the sending out of the tax bills in which to apply for abatement. The bills were dated July 1 and the time will expire Sunday, Oct. 1. The soldiers are given the extra day and Sunday is not included so that Monday will be the last day. The assessors' office calls attention to the fact that discharge papers must be presented at the time of the application. This is most important and should not be forgotten.

concentrations to be completed by Sept. 30, which date coincides with the time set for the final evacuation of refugees from Smyrna. It is considered significant here that Gen. Nouraddin Pasha, military governor of Smyrna, has declared he cannot guarantee the lives of the Christians in Smyrna after that date. "This is taken to mean that the Kemalists want to clear decks for action in the event the allies reject their reply."

The British are no less busy strengthening their lines and checking every move made by the Kemalists.

The Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus are dotted with the most modern warcraft. The British fleet now includes six dreadnoughts, seven battle cruisers, 20 destroyers and several submarines and giant aircraft carriers.

The sultan's cabinet met in special session yesterday and decided not to retire unless so ordered by the Kemal government.

REPORT 900 SLAIN BY TURKS AT BIGHA

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Turkish nationalists continue to menace the Straits of Dardanelles and are en-treaching in the neutral zone, which they refuse to recognize. The British military command has given them 48 hours in which to retire, and is preparing three lines of entrenchment in the region from Pundlic to Yarinli, along the Anatolian railway.

In addition to Eren Keul and Kum Kaleh the Kemalists are in possession of Bigha. A special despatch, not confirmed from any other source, says occupation of the latter place was accompanied by the massacre of the entire Greek and Armenian population, numbering about 900.

The British commanders are confident they can keep the Turks from crossing the straits or capturing Constantinople until the arrival of the formidable reinforcements now on the way.

The reply of the Ankara government to the joint allied note, outlining the conditions under which a peace conference could be held, is anxiously awaited, but it is feared that even an acceptance would not relieve the present situation to any great degree, as the Turks are understood to be preparing to demand freedom of military action during the conference.

The British government is watching

NEW TEACHERS ARE ELECTED

Salaries of Several Teachers and 10 Head Janitors Increased Last Night

Four new teachers for the continuation and vocational schools and three new janitors were elected by the school committee last night at its regular September meeting. Also, salaries were increased in several instances and Walter B. Jeyar was transferred from the work of physical education in the elementary schools to safety-first work.

It was another of those midnight sessions that seem to have attained such peculiar popularity with the press.

MANY ANXIOUS TO BECOME CITIZENS

When Assistant Clerk Charles T. Hughes of the superior court, and his staff of busy assistants complete their naturalization duties at the local court house this afternoon, they will have received approximately 160 applications for first citizenship papers, the initial step in pledging allegiance to the United States, and about 100 applications for second papers. Up to noon today, 12 women had taken out first, and a like number, second papers. Canada, Poland, Lithuania, Greece and Ireland figured most prominently in the applications during the three day session.

TEXTILE STRIKERS ARE REINSTATED

According to information given out at the textile strike headquarters today the matter of reinstating the strikers to their former jobs at the International Cotton mills, formerly the Bay State Cotton Co., has been practically settled, for only two or three of the large number who left their work on Feb. 13 as a protest against a reduction in wages have yet to be reinstated and it is understood that these people, who are out of town, will be given their former jobs as soon as they see fit to return.

ELECTION COMMISSION IS STILL RETICENT

"Nothing to say yet," is the report of the elections commission which is locked in the janitors' room at city hall and said to be verifying names attached to a petition filed in favor of Plan B charter.

About the only positive information that can be gleaned is that the commission is still in the little room. Even this is taking a bit of liberty for although the members of the commission were seen going in, there is no positive proof they are still there, for the room is said to have windows.

Now and then the door opens a crack, some member of the commission sweeps the corridor with a keen eye, quickly pulls open the door and nimbly jumps into the hall and, with almost the same movement closes the door. Some of them have got the procedure down to a point where the whole exercise can be made in one move.

As one member popped into the hall this morning he was asked how things were going.

The reply came back, "We have nothing to say." The newspaper men hung on and asked if the task would be completed today. The same answer was forthcoming. After several questions brought forth the same answer the reporters gave it up for a bad job.

The two clerks, John King and James Redmond, were appealed to and, whether it was from orders received or the fact that they might have been inoculated with the nothing to say germ, they turned the press with the well known expression, "We have nothing to say."

DOWNFALL OF GREEK GOVERNMENT—REPORT KING HAS ABDICATED

Revolutionary Movement Led By Gen. Gonatas Making Rapid Headway in All Directions—Warships Manned By Revolutionaries Advancing on Athens—Constantine Loses Throne For Second Time in Five Years

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Greece is in the throes of a revolution which has already caused the downfall of the government and according to several reports from Athens has forced is said to be led by General Gonatas is making headway in all directions but thus far without reports of bloodshed.

The insurrection which while not altogether looked for, broke out in formidable force with unexpected suddenness, had its inception among the vanquished troops brought from Smyrna to the islands of Mitylene and Chios, and among the soldiers at Saloniki. Strangely enough, however, these two revolts seem to have different objects—the former aimed at the overthrow of the government and King Constantine, and the latter at the defense of Thrace against the Turks.

At least part of the navy has gone against the government and several warships and transports manned by revolutionaries are believed to be advancing on the capital from the Aegean islands, where the revolt originated.

Direct advices from Athens are lacking, indicating that censorship is in effect.

Official circles here believe former premier Venizelos has had no part in the revolt. Because of his importance, however, and his large personal following in Greece, it is pointed out that he will hardly be able to avoid figuring in the subsequent developments.

WARRING FACTIONS IN GREEK COMMUNITY ARE RECONCILED

Bells Ring From Orthodox Church Steeple as Members Announce That All Past Differences Are Forgotten—Local Greeks to Aid Their Countrymen Who Are at War With the Turks

The erstwhile warring members of a portion of Lowell's widespread Greek community are smiling today under the bright banners of peace and good will.

The little "religious war" is over. Perhaps you heard the bells in the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church tower ring out last evening? The warring factions are now shaking hands freely and warmly—and they mean it—and they are promising each other to forget.

Peace has been declared once and for all time in the irritating controversial warfare long existing between these two religious factions in Lowell's active Greek community.

Now comes official announcement from church after church that the opposing clans, who have fought a vigorous fight as long as it lasted, and an open-handed one at that, are once more united under the banners of the holy church, and promising to be good friends and work together for the cause of the church and its loyal members in the future.

The leaders of the two old warring factions are responsible for the good news that spread rapidly through the business marts and homes of the Greek-speaking citizens today. It was announced that all members of the church were to be reconciled and more in the comforting folds of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church.

The reconciliation took place in formal shape and with much eclat at a mass meeting largely attended conducted last evening in the basement of the church on Jefferson street. Within a few minutes after announcement was made that the forces who have so strenuously opposed each other for several months past had come to an amicable arrangement for future work and practically joined hands for the good of the Greek community's religious life, word was sent to the janitor to ring the bells, and the notes of the tongues in the clanging bells sounded their jubilee hymn.

All differences have been adjusted most amicably; each side will let bygones be bygones; no rancor exists. The reconciliation of the warring is the talk of Lowell extensive Greek-speaking community today. Those bells told a story to them that is worth repeating, and all of them know it by heart now.

The trouble that caused the separation of two active bodies of the church occurred at a mass meeting of the Greek colony in Associate hall some months ago. The chief debate was

RADIO MAY RUN OUR LIVES

If radio keeps on developing much farther, we may find our lives being regulated by this new science from early morning until bedtime.

A glance at the programs of broadcasting stations already being followed lends one to this conclusion. Radio lectures of all sorts are sent out at 10 o'clock in morning, 2 in the afternoon and 8 in the evening.

There are talks during the day on fashions, on menus and recipes, child care, household economy, business psychology, besides the regular news, weather and stock reports. And the evening comes the entertainment—all by way of the radio transmitting and receiving stations.

When radio becomes popularized sufficiently to justify its adoption, some such program as this may result:

7 a. m.—Setting up exercises; health talks.

7.30 a. m.—Breakfast menus and recipes.

8 a. m.—Automobile pointers.

9 a. m.—Lecture, "Business Psychology."

9.30 a. m.—Market and stock reports.

10 a. m.—Lectures for the housewife.

12 m.—Noon concert or other entertainment.

1 p. m.—Stock and market reports.

2 p. m.—More lectures for the housewife.

3 p. m.—Closing stock and market quotations.

5 p. m.—Reports on places of amusement for the evening.

8 p. m.—Regular evening concert.

This is merely a rough outline of a more detailed program of the future. For example, there is no mention of news reports during the day. That, however, could be most suitably broadcast during the breakfast hour.

That is just the time when the business man wants his newspaper. Clipping the headlines to his cars, while munching his toast, he listens in on the happenings of the previous day. At the same time he may learn of the weather for the day.

He has not heard all the news during breakfast, he listens to it on his ride downtown. Yes, there are already convenient receiving sets for automobiles—those that need no aerial, batteries or other cumbersome attachments.

For Housewives

For the benefit of the housewife, her 10 o'clock lecture may be a talk on baby care, or on household economy, or menu list for luncheon. And recipes for new dishes could be included.

At 2 o'clock also, the housewife may listen in on suggestions for dinner, with new recipes. Latest fashion designs could be broadcast at that time. And, so that talks for the housewife may not be confined to the home alone, she may receive a daily educational lecture and late news reports.

Thus it will be that radio will include all possible activities of the housewife from morning until night. People who are staying at home, more than ever, for it will be there that they will know the world best.

RADIO ENTHUSIAST

Mr. Walfrid Olson of West Chelmsford has two of the best radio stations in the immediate vicinity of Lowell.

He has one at his home in West Chelmsford, where call is 1-AXI, and another at the Peabody salesrooms in Dutton street where he is employed. Mr. Olson has been interested in telegraphy for the last three years.

He is a charter member of the Lowell Radio club and is greatly interested in all radio work, possessing a commercial license, and is a member of the American Radio Relay League. He uses a 50 watt C. W. continuous wave transmitter and has sent voice messages as far as New York. He has sent messages in code as far as Rome, Ga., approximately 1000 miles from Lowell.

Mr. Olson has been able to receive voice messages from a greater distance, having received messages from Dayton, Ohio, giving him a receiving area of about 1500 miles. He uses a two-stage receiver.

At present Mr. Olson is setting up a special set with a loud voice device at his home in West Chelmsford, preparing to receive returns of the World Series. He has had a large audience at his home for the past two years at the time of the series, and they have received the news of the game, play by play, within a few minutes after it has taken place.

During the past few years he has received the radio reports of all the big sporting events such as the Dempsey-Carpenter fight, the Leonard-Tenille fight, and the recent Davis Cup championship tennis matches.

Mr. Olson says that he will be glad to send messages for any one who wishes and can send such messages direct over a 300 mile radius. As he is a member of the relay league he can communicate with stations nearby and messages can be sent even further because of the many members of this league who are spread throughout the country.

Many local amateur radio fans can listen in to phone talks between Mr. Olson and Mr. Taylor, the head of the radio club here, which take place almost every evening between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock on a wave length of 220 meters.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By The Theatre's Own Press Agents.

MEETINGS SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "White Satin Slippers," a notable dramatic production, starring Jack Holt, and "The Woman He Married," with Anita Stewart in the leading role. There will be a complete change of program tomorrow afternoon.

Manager Nelson will offer four big features for the Thursday, Friday and Saturday bill. First and foremost will come Charles Ray in "P. V. I." one of his most entertaining pictures; "The Siren Call," with Dorothy Dalton; Johnny Hines in his latest comedy, "Orange Blossoms," and a life instruction novelty, "A Trip Through Filmland."

Charles Ray has another sparkling comedy role in "P. V. I." This time the popular boyish star plays his pranks as an amateur artist who dares to paint in the streets and is caught only after he has run the gauntlet of trouble in trying to assure himself of three square meals a day with the help of his art.

The role fits the star like the evening clothes he wears. In the part of "Richard Morgan," who is constantly refusing financial assistance from

THE STRAND

The romance, the comedy, the drama and the human sympathy of our everyday American life is truthfully reflected in "The Wall Flower," the leading photoplay feature at The Strand, to be shown for the last time today. It's the story of a girl who thought herself a wall flower, but chance brought sunshine into her life. Colleen Moore plays the little role. Shirley Mason in "The Ragged Dicks," the romance of a poor girl who was rich is the other feature, to say nothing of the comedy and variety.

Beginning Thursday, and continuing through the remainder of the week, Tom Mix the cowboy star in "The Fighting Streak" and Marie Prevost in "The Married Woman" will be the attraction. The former offering is a characteristic Mix thriller, with new stunts and a new story. Marie Prevost's film is a comedy of the most appealing type of femininity known as "the flapper." The vivacious little star is seen at her best as a 100 per cent flapper.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Heading the splendid bill of vaudeville at the B. F. Keith theatre is the team of Marion Murray, a good actress, backed by C. Carroll, a comedian, in "Lilies and Daisies." It is an unusual comedy, with a certain study of human nature, and with it, it is filled with comedy. Crafts & Haley in a conventional skit are also prime attractions. And, as a special feature, a musical comedy, "The Flamingo," is being presented. The entire bill is exceedingly good. Among

CITIZENS' ALLIANCE HOLDS MEETING

Royd P. Doty of Boston gave an interesting lecture at the Citizens' Alliance meeting of the Citizens' Alliance, which was held at the Y.M.C.A. There was also an instructive discussion of the work of the alliance.

Mr. Doty, the principal speaker, said that, as the 18th amendment to the constitution was in active operation in all the states and territories of the country, with the exception of Massachusetts, it is only fitting that the laws of this state should be made to conform to those of the entire country. At the present time, he said, Massachusetts has no law in force which prohibits the manufacture, transportation or importation of liquor.

An important feature of the meeting was the choice of officers to conduct a campaign among the people of the city in order to get their support in behalf of a referendum that is to appear on the ballots in the state election in November. This referendum concerns law which was enacted by the state to enforce the provisions of the 18th amendment to the constitution. The officers chosen to conduct the campaign are: Chairman, L. A. Olney; vice chairman, E. A. Jenkins; treasurer, James Walsh, Jr.; secretary, Harold F. Howe; committee on publicity, Benjamin Pouzner, R. T. Drew, Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy and E. T. Shaw; committee in charge of enrollment and registration, Rev. W. J. Sotter and George Holden.

Samuel H. Thompson of this city, chairman of the state campaign committee of the Citizens' Alliance, outlined the work that is being carried on by the state organization and made several suggestions as to what course of action the local branch might take at the conclusion of the address by the two speakers, Mr. L. A. Olney, president over a meeting of the members present in regard to the method in which the proposed work might be carried out.

Your face, does it wear the contented expression of good health, or are the features drawn and pallid? In the latter case, your story is read by all who see you, and what woman of spirit wants to be pitied for her physical condition? There is a way to get the nervous, tired lines out of your face and the slump out of your body. This is the story of the remarkable remedy, Lydia E. FAIR-PRICE PROSPERITY

BECAUSE the woolen and worsted fabrics made by the American Woolen Company stand before the world as the best that can be made for the price, the American Woolen Company is able to provide for the happiness and prosperity of more than 35,000 workers by keeping them employed under pleasant, healthful conditions at fair wages.

The success of the company is necessary to the welfare of the workers. Contented workers, living and working under pleasant conditions, make the production of fine fabrics move more smoothly and efficiently.

It's a sort of endless chain of action and reaction—therefore, the American Woolen Company has been a leader in improving the living and working conditions of the worker just as it has led the world in the development of textile processes and the making of fine fabrics.

Rupture Kills 8,000 Annually

Eight thousand persons each year are taken to the hospital, suffering from "rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected their bodies and had allowed the muscles of the abdomen to become weak and flabby. The sign (swelling) of the affliction and taping to attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a tight, appliance or restrictive garment? Are you neglecting your health by allowing your muscles to become weak and flabby? The PIAPAO PAD is a mechanical support. The bandage pressure relieves blood circulation, thus restoring the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nutrition.

Just science has found a way, and all true sufferers in the land are invited to make a "PIAPAO PAD" test in the privacy of their own homes. The PIAPAO PAD cannot be obtained in the most scientific, logical and successful method—by mail. For rupture the world has ever known.

The PIAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot cause chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to wear—completely invisible. It is used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

LOCAL EAGLES ENTERTAIN HIGH OFFICIALS OF THE ORDER

Grand Secretary John S. Perry of Kansas City and Past President C. T. Laird of Boston Speak at Enthusiastic Gathering of 500 Members Last Night

John S. Perry of Kansas City, making his first trip east, must be greatly impressed with New England hospitality, such as was accorded him last night in Eagles hall, when as grand secretary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, he addressed 500 members of Lowell Aerie, 223, sitting forth the national features of the nation-wide membership being conducted by the organization. Past Worthy President Charles T. Laird of Boston, accompanied Mr. Perry to this city, and from the fine things he said about the local aerie the local membership has every reason to be proud.

Paid Respect

The Eagles organization has gained renown for the stellar social events they have held here in past years and the affair last night lived up to the others as far as a good time was concerned.

There was nothing formal to the event; it was just an assembly to pay respects to the high officials of the order and for the men to meet on a common footing and call each other "brother." It was easily the largest gathering of local Eagles in years and those who attended will long remember the affair as one of the most pleasant in the history of the local aerie.

Worthy President Timothy F. Perry called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock and introduced Hon. James E. O'Donnell as toastmaster for the occasion. He spoke in glowing terms of the work done by the local aerie and impressed upon the gathering the importance of having present two such esteemed members of the great order. He then introduced Mr. Laird as the first speaker.

Mr. Laird's address was based upon

MRS. H. A. TAYLOR

BACKACHE OR PAIN
OVER KIDNEYS?

Wonderful Relief Is Here Told.

Utica, N. Y.—"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets for kidneys and backache. I have never known a medicine that would give such quick relief. For some time past I had been suffering with kidney disorder, my back would be lame through the region of the kidneys and I also suffered with rheumatism and stiffness of the joints. Just recently I learned of Anuric and began its use. I have only taken it a very short time but have derived wonderful relief. My kidneys have become active and I am feeling in a normal state and I do not suffer with backaches and stiffness of the joints. To those who suffer as I did I would suggest Dr. Pierce's Anuric."—Mrs. H. A. Taylor, 903 Knox street.

This anti-uric acid remedy of Dr. Pierce's for backache and kidneys (called "Anuric") is now, but it can be had at your neighborhood drug store, or send 10c. for trial package to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

The old age pension feature of the organization and in the most simple and convincing manner he showed the great feeling of comfort an Eagle has in the realization that he will be taken care of in declining years if aid from other sources is not forthcoming.

Explains Pension

He first asked why an old age pension was needed at all and then answered the question by saying that no scientific system of work in old age or sickness had been devised. The speaker advanced many other reasons why the old age pension was a great institution and gave a most logical line of reasoning for its connection with the order of which he was one-time president.

Following Mr. Laird's talk a splendid program of music and reading was enjoyed. George D. Freeman entertained at the piano, Patrick T. Brady with a political stump speech, monologues, and Leo DeGeorge, James E. Donnelly, Francis A. Connor, John E. Devlin and Daniel J. McCaffrey with songs. A brief recess was held, during which time refreshments were served.

Mr. Perry was then introduced and spoke as follows:

"The Fraternal Order of Eagles is now in its 26th year. As it rounds out its quarter of a century of healthy, helpful existence, it finds itself stronger in numbers than it has ever been in its history, stronger in its financial status, stronger in the before good will of the communities which it strives to serve.

Its Beginning

"It had its beginning in Seattle, Wash., in a group of about a dozen men, who had banded together for companionship and mutual helpfulness. That little group has since become what is known as the Mother Aerie, numbering today approximately 7000 members. This human desire which held together the original group has become the inspiring motive of the half-million men who are now members of the order.

"Patriotism led the founder of the fraternity to adopt the name 'Eagles' after the 'Proud bird of our country.' Naturally, the societies in which the members gathered were named aeries, that is, societies' nests. The complete organization consists of subordinate aeries, or local societies, state aeries, having certain geographical jurisdiction, and a grand aerie, which embraces the entire order.

"Now if you ask any member why he has joined the Eagles, ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will tell you, with a certain approving emphasis, 'For the benefits.' These are the services of the aerie physician, the sick benefit and the funeral benefit, all of which are substantial. For the socially inclined—and the Eagles are famous for that inclination—there is also a year-round program of high class entertainment and wholesome recreation. Later, tens of thousands have joined the order, also because of its championship and active leadership of the movement to establish old age pensions.

"Although membership is confined to men, the benefits and the social life of the fraternity are extended in many ways to include the wives, mothers and children, and often the friends of members.

Social Benefactor

"The crowning achievement of this order in its role as social benefactor, however, this fair to be the early adoption in the strong Eagle states of laws establishing pensions for those

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA
OVERCOME

Victims of stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia and their allied complaints, find Tanlac an ever-ready source of relief and comfort. Thousands of people have re-found the joys of health by its use after everything else they tried had failed. Thomas B. Bradford, well-known salesman, of 319 Washington street, Boston, Mass., says: "It is really astonishing how quickly Tanlac restored my health. For four years everything I ate disagreed with me. My nerves were all undone and my strength seemed entirely gone. I am now on my fourth bottle of Tanlac and actually feel better than I did before my troubles began."

Tanlac helps the stomach digest the food properly and eliminates waste. Soon the whole system is built up, the entire body takes on new tone, vitality and energy. Get a bottle today and start on the road to health. For sale by all good druggists.—Adv.

longed to his children. But they could not be located.

After a long search, Howard S. Harrington, a young American lawyer, got a clue which led to a coal mine district in Wales. There he found a son, John Charles Gregory, working as a collier.

He had lost track of his family. But he thought he had a sister living somewhere in London. They finally traced Mrs. Young to her little home.

Her Dream Comes True

"When I was younger," she says, "I used to dream about riches and happiness."

"I never had much of either. As time went on, I stopped dreaming. It interfered with my work. My sister had died. My brother went away. I didn't see him for 44 years."

"Then suddenly he came with word of the fortune. All my hopes, dead for many years, were reborn."

"It seems that dreams come true—sometimes."

Mrs. Young is busy getting the documentary evidence to prove her right to the fortune. As soon as she completes these records, she will mail them to America, get her share of the inheritance.

"And keep on dreaming," she says, "if it isn't too late."

SPANISH INFLUENCE

At a fashionable wedding the bridemaids wore cream-lace Spanish mantillas draped over high combs and caught at one side with deep crimson roses. They carried bouquets of roses.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Elmer E. Anderson of Woburn and Miss Selma A. M. Reonsterna were married Monday at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Torsten T. Reonsterna, 43 Sidney street, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Edward Babcock of the First Baptist church. The bride was Miss Norma E. Reonsterna, a sister of the bride, while the best man was Mr. Paul Anderson, a brother of the groom. The couple will make their home in Arlington.

McLaughlin-Kane

The marriage of Mr. William McLaughlin and Miss Helen L. Kane took place Monday at the immaculate Conception rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I. Miss Kane was bridesmaid, while the best man was Mr. Frank Finnerty. The couple will make their home in Wellington avenue.

There were exactly 43 tickets left for the concert of Madame Galli-Curci in Memorial Auditorium, October 2, when the sale closed at Chalifoux's Tuesday. This small number is the remainder of 3635 tickets printed for the concert and handled exclusively by the Chalifoux Co.

The enormous mail order business done for the concert indicated a "sell-out" but no one anticipated that the enormous Auditorium would be sold out 10 days in advance of the concert. A number of temporary seats on the stage will be available later in the week, and these will be able to accommodate but a small fraction of the people who wished to hear the diva but who have postponed buying their tickets.

Under the contract as written for Madame Galli-Curci by her managers, Evans and Salter, the free list was entirely suspended for the concert. Ev-

ALLEGED HEN THIEF CAPTURED

The brilliant idea of a member of the pick and shovel fraternity that developed into a hen coop raid and the carrying away of four black Minorca chickens, was a dress suit case, was rudely punctured by Chief of Police Harry B. Whiting of Westford, when that worthy started on the trail of the hen thief.

The discovery that the quartet of chunky egg layers had been ruthlessly slain and deposited for safety-brat purposes within the slayer's suit case in preparation for transportation to Boston and a Sunday dinner of delectable quality was made by Chief Whiting only after diligent inquiries and ultra-stealthy tactics, which finally led the blue-coated officer to the right door.

In Ayer police court, where the alleged hen thief was taken, a gentleman giving his name as Arthur W. Jackson was found guilty of robbing a chicken coop belonging to one Mrs. Dow, a well-to-do housewife residing in the Forge Village section of Westford, and fined $15. The fine was promptly paid.

Jackson, so the police say, has been working on a Westford contracting job for some time. He boarded in town, but went home to Boston each Saturday night. He claims to live in the Jamaica Plain section of the city. Chief Whiting has had reports of hen robbing depredations frequently this fall, and has been energetically endeavoring to run down the thieves. In this case, however, the job of their catching was not so tedious.

LAKEVIEW AVENUE LINE

There will be a slight inconvenience in the electric car traffic over the Eastern Massachusetts rails in Lakeview Avenue for the next week or so. The length of the line depends on the time required to lay new rails on this street between Coburn and Bridge sts. The roadbed there is torn up as the city is making preparations to pave the street and the street railway has taken this opportunity to lay new rails there. Only one line of trucks will be running this repair period and both incoming and outgoing cars will use the same track. As soon as a crossover can be put in the inconvenience will be lessened to a great degree.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL

Vice President Lannon occupied the chair at last evening's meeting of the Building Trades Council, which was held in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. Practically all trades in the building line were represented at the meeting and reports of progress towards the organizing of the council were submitted. Routine business was transacted and it was announced that at the next meeting delegates will be elected to represent the council at the convention of the state branch, which will be held in Brockton next month.

revolutionary movement started on the islands of Mitylene and Chios among the soldiers and refugees from the Smyrna district.

All officers who refuse to join the movement are being arrested it is added.

The immediate cause of the revolt was an order for the demobilization of the soldiers who had been evacuated to these islands, the men wishing to keep their rifles as trophies or perhaps for personal protection.

The first intimation the authorities in Athens had of the movement was the appearance of an airplane over the city, which showered pamphlets drawn up "in the name of the army and navy and the population of Mitylene," demanding the resignation of the government and the abdication of Constantine.

Marital Law Proclaimed

PARIS, Sept. 27.—A Havas despatch from Athens, not timed there, received this afternoon, says:

"The insurrectionists, who have nine destroyers and naval airplanes, besides two warships, Kilikis and Lemnos, have landed troops at Cape Sunion (on the peninsula southeast of Athens). Gen. Papoulas has been sent to try to stop them."

"Marital law has been proclaimed. Gen. Koutzils induced the garrison here to adhere to the revolutionary movement."

Revolutionaries Hold Fleet

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press).—The Greek fleet has gone over to the revolutionaries, who announce that every officer and member of the crews is wholly with them, according to a Central News despatch from Athens. The movement, which is headed by Col. Gonatas, is making headway in all directions.

The despatch, which is dated Tuesday night, says the cabinet had been in continuous session for many hours. No official statements had been issued.

but it was understood that the ministers were drawing up a manifesto addressed to the people.

"Thus far, it adds, the revolution had been bloodless, despite the excitement of the people, who were surging through the streets and gathering outside the public buildings."

Accepts Cabinet's Resignation

ATHENS, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press) King Constantine has accepted the resignation of the cabinet, which quickly followed the reception of two ultimatums from the cruiser Lemnos.

In accepting the resignation the king said he entirely put aside any idea of resistance which would bring, as a result, civil war in Greece.

The crown prince has abandoned his proposed journey to Rumania for the royal marriage.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR DANCING

At last night's meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute, the ladies' night committee reported everything in readiness for tomorrow evening's dancing party, at which the members will entertain the organization's lady friends for the first time since the advent of the indoor season. John Conlin, John J. Brady, James Duffy, George Pollard and John Tighe constitute the committee in charge.

The coming observance on Oct. 10 of Father Mathew's anniversary was discussed at length, and the committee appointed to conduct the affair reported that a great deal of progress had been made in planning for the event.

The committee on bowling stated that a six-league team has been formed and will open its season at the Crescent alleys on Friday evening, Oct. 13. William P. Ryan has been elected president of the league, John J. Callahan, secretary, and James J. Campbell, treasurer. The teams and captains are as follows: Yankees, J. J. Callahan; Senators, John P. Sheehan; Browns, John P. Sheehan; Indians, George W. Bowers; White Sox, William P. Ryan.

Plans for the renovation of the lower and upper halls of St. John's T.A.S. building in North Chelmsford were discussed at a joint meeting of St. John's T.A.S. and the ladies' auxiliary, which was held last evening with Arthur Deane in the chair. Rev. Fr. Linsan was present at the meeting and he outlined a plan of improvements, which seemed to be favored by all present. The lower hall will be looked after first and it is expected that it will be ready for the winter season in a couple of weeks. The public installation of the recently elected officers of the society will take place next Monday evening and the following committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the event: Michael J. Scollan, Arthur McEaney and Henry Garvey. They will be assisted by Mrs. Bernice Whitehead, Mrs. Lilla Scollan and Mrs. Lena Rafferty.

TEXTILE SCHOOL REGISTRATION

As yet several upper classes have not reported at the Textile school and the exact registration figures are not available. It is practically certain, however, that the entering class will show an increase of 20 or more per cent. over last year's figures. That the textile industry is continuing the attention of the women of the country is evidenced from the fact that six or seven young women have enrolled in the local institution. They are taking courses in designing, decorative art, chemistry and dyeing.

The Sleur de Brex of Paris is said to have invented candle molds.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DOUBLE HANGING

GORHAM, Me., Sept. 27.—Mystery as to the identity of the two men whose bodies were found hanging from trees in dense woods near this town, yesterday by hunters, dead apparently in a suicide pact, remained as great this morning as when the bodies were discovered.

Efforts of Sheriff King F. Graham and his deputies to trace the movements of the men immediately prior to their deaths proved unavailing. Old residents of the town who have viewed the bodies cannot place them in their recollections as those of former residents.

At Sheriff Graham's office this morning it was said: "We have been able to make no definite progress towards identification. We have discovered no new clues to the identity of the men, but are still working to determine who they were and where they came from, and what was the motive for their act."

TALKED ON NORMAL SCHOOL EDUCATION

Yesterday afternoon at the State Normal school, Frank W. Wright of the state department of education delivered an interesting address to the students of that institution on the necessity of a normal school education, and told the large audience of prospective teachers that they were actually taking the prescribed course for the benefit of the children of the state, pointing out that the state provides this education in order that it might have trained teachers and good citizens.

Mr. Wright stated that the enrollment in the normal schools of Massachusetts had noticeably increased this year and that nearly 3000 students are now studying in the 10 state normal institutions.

FRIENDS SURPRISE MISS MARY LEE

Miss Mary A. Lee, registered nurse, who on October 11 will become the bride of Dr. Richard J. McCuskey, was pleasantly surprised by a large group of former classmates, of St. John's hospital at her home, 112 Bartlett street last night, where a miscellaneous shower was tendered. About 75 were present and Miss Lee received many novel and useful gifts. A most marriage, with Catherine Callery and Catherine Sullivan as the participants, preceded the program of entertainment. Plans for the wedding were rendered by Miss Mac Corey and songs by the Misses Callery and Mary Carolyn. Refreshments were served.

SIGN CHANGED
The sign in city hall marked "Commissioner of Finance," which has for a long time hung in the room now occupied by City Auditor Daniel P. Martin, was removed today and in its stead hangs a sign marked "City Auditor."

TREASURER OF EVERETT SUSPENDED BY MAYOR

EVERETT, Sept. 27.—Charging disloyalty to the city's chief executive, Mayor Christopher Harrison suspended City Treasurer Nathan Nichols yesterday for one week, with loss of pay. The news of the suspension came as a surprise although it was known that "diplomatic relations" between the mayor and city treasurer were at the breaking point because the mayor objected to the attitude of Mr. Nichols toward the public.

The suspension, according to the mayor, resulted from the call of a citizen at his office yesterday morning to make inquiry relative to the payment of taxes. The mayor called the city treasurer's office on the telephone to seek information.

Mayor Harrison says Mr. Nichols gave an evasive and discourteous reply and then hung up the receiver. The letter of suspension followed, whereupon Mr. Nichols called at the mayor's office to explain matters. It developed that he was not aware he was talking to the mayor.

The mayor stated that many complaints have come to his office of the discourtesy of the treasurer's office in dealing with the public and that the line came to put a stop to it when he found concrete proof that the complaints were justified.

Mayor Harrison placed Miss Snell, clerk in the treasurer's office, in charge temporarily. Mr. Nichols left city hall soon after his suspension and did not return until after city hall closed at 4 o'clock, then remaining only a short time.

City Treasurer Nichols has held that office ever since Everett became a city. He was also town treasurer for a few years. He comes from an old Everett family and although he has lived in Malden for several years with his son, he has retained a legal residence in this city.

There is considerable speculation as to the effect of the suspension as one of the city's taxes falls due in a few days and the weekly payroll must be made up. Mayor Harrison, however, feels confident he will be able to handle the situation.

The suspension of a city treasurer by the mayor is said to be unique. At the state house yesterday it was said that no previous suspension of such a nature had come to the attention of state officers in recent years at least.

WEEKLY PAYROLL Big Fair in Chelmsford

The weekly payroll for the week ending last Saturday amounts to $43,813.10. The previous payroll was $46,102.10. This is a decrease of $2,288.97.

More than 60 per cent. of the men students earn at least part of their expenses at the University of Wisconsin.

The decorations of the large hall above and below, were autumnal longes, gladiolas, asters, dahlias, hydrangeas, ranunculus and home-grown daisies. Golden rod and fern were used about the windows, stage and doorways, as well as the platform where the exhibits rested for inspection.

List of Planning Board Suggestions Repudiated

Reo station, throw three new bridges across the Merrimack and Concord rivers, make the Merrimack navigable from Lowell to the sea; erect three athletic stadiums, handle the unemployment situation, legislate public requests and urge the painting of all houses every three or five years, the appointees who took issue with the suggestions of the list, flatly stated that the board never has met together and that he is at a loss to know the source of the suggestions.

The personnel of the board, as originally appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council, consists of Jos. H. Gullett, Albert W. David, Charles E. Anderson, Mrs. Bertha A. Olney, Benj. S. Pouzner and the chairman of the public service board, board of assessors, board of health and park commission.

Commenting upon the suggestions, the appointees said:

"The list of suggestions lacks authorization. In the first place there is no planning board. The appointments were made by the mayor and confirmed by an ordinance that was made up and accordingly there is no planning board in existence. In order to create one it would be necessary to have a legally drawn ordinance. Then the mayor could make his appointments and these appointments would have to be confirmed by the council and the members would have to be sworn in."

"In addition to the above the individuals who were appointed to the board never have met and nobody is in a position to speak for them. This list of recommendations apparently was made up by some person, who may or may not be one of the appointees recently named by Mayor Brown and represents entirely his own ideas, but he had no right to speak for the board as a whole."

"In connection with recommendations themselves it is very desirable that the public should know of their unauthoritative character, otherwise such confidence as the public may have in such a pre-emptive board, is likely to be seriously undermined."

"A great many of the suggestions seem to be highly impractical," he continued. "Some of the suggestions made concern activities entirely without the scope of the authority of such a board. Take, for instance, suggestion number three concerning a new police station. It is not for a planning board to decide whether we need a new police station. It may be in a position to recommend where a police station should be located if it were decided to have a new one. It may even suggest the architecture in order to make it harmonize with a general plan for city development, but the need of a police station is beyond the scope of a planning board."

"Suggestion number six contains the recommendation that the Merrimack river be made navigable from Lowell to the sea. If such a plan of the Merrimack river were made navigable, it might concern the planning board. But whether it should be made navigable or not is exclusively a question of economics. It is desirable to have a stadium, but recommending them in such generous numbers at this time might give the public the impression that the planning board is fanciful and impractical and accordingly undermine the public confidence that such a board should command."

"Painting houses every three or five years and city farming are interesting subjects, but it is not for a planning board to recommend methods as to keeping houses in good condition or to advise citizens on farming. It might perhaps recommend where city farms may be located, but that is the concern of the public works department. The same is true of flower gardens and well kept lawns. If we had a city beautiful committee it might legitimately concern itself with such problems. Likewise the speed of automobiles, the number of plain clothes men, traffic officers, the amount of fire insurance to be carried, bringing new industries to Lowell, the unemployment situation, the fares to be charged by street railways, the relations between the public and the gas and electric companies, the matter of public requests, the membership of the chamber of commerce, Rotary and Advertising clubs are all matters beyond the concerns of a planning board. If a planning board is created, the board should be self-sustaining and practical, confining itself strictly to affairs relating to city planning."

"I do not know who offered these suggestions, but they are not the suggestions of any planning board, as no such board exists and the members appointed to the board that was illegally appointed have never met," he concluded.

List of Suggestions

List of Planning Board Suggestions Repudiated

Reo station, throw three new bridges across the Merrimack and Concord rivers, make the Merrimack navigable from Lowell to the sea; erect three athletic stadiums, handle the unemployment situation, legislate public requests and urge the painting of all houses every three or five years, the appointees who took issue with the suggestions of the list, flatly stated that the board never has met together and that he is at a loss to know the source of the suggestions.

The personnel of the board, as originally appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council, consists of Jos. H. Gullett, Albert W. David, Charles E. Anderson, Mrs. Bertha A. Olney, Benj. S. Pouzner and the chairman of the public service board, board of assessors, board of health and park commission.

Commenting upon the suggestions, the appointees said:

"The list of suggestions lacks authorization. In the first place there is no planning board. The appointments were made by the mayor and confirmed by an ordinance that was made up and accordingly there is no planning board in existence. In order to create one it would be necessary to have a legally drawn ordinance. Then the mayor could make his appointments and these appointments would have to be confirmed by the council and the members would have to be sworn in."

"In addition to the above the individuals who were appointed to the board never have met and nobody is in a position to speak for them. This list of recommendations apparently was made up by some person, who may or may not be one of the appointees recently named by Mayor Brown and represents entirely his own ideas, but he had no right to speak for the board as a whole."

"In connection with recommendations themselves it is very desirable that the public should know of their unauthoritative character, otherwise such confidence as the public may have in such a pre-emptive board, is likely to be seriously undermined."

"A great many of the suggestions seem to be highly impractical," he continued. "Some of the suggestions made concern activities entirely without the scope of the authority of such a board. Take, for instance, suggestion number three concerning a new police station. It is not for a planning board to decide whether we need a new police station. It may be in a position to recommend where a police station should be located if it were decided to have a new one. It may even suggest the architecture in order to make it harmonize with a general plan for city development, but the need of a police station is beyond the scope of a planning board."

"Suggestion number six contains the recommendation that the Merrimack river be made navigable from Lowell to the sea. If such a plan of the Merrimack river were made navigable, it might concern the planning board. But whether it should be made navigable or not is exclusively a question of economics. It is desirable to have a stadium, but recommending them in such generous numbers at this time might give the public the impression that the planning board is fanciful and impractical and accordingly undermine the public confidence that such a board should command."

TURKS RE-ENTER EUROPE

Nobody now living remembers an instance in which England backed down or reversed her warlike stand upon a vital international question so ignominiously as in her right about turn on the matter of permitting the Turkish nationals to re-enter Europe with the approval of the allies, but after a conference at which the whole question is to be definitely settled. Meantime the Turks are forbidden to invade the neutral zone and it is a disorderly violation of this condition that has brought an ultimatum from England. But this is merely a side issue.

England adopted a bold policy at first against any such advance by Turkey; but France standing firmly against her, Britain was left in the position of having to fight the battle against the Moslems alone, except for the assistance she might receive from Greece.

The situation was canvassed at home and in the colonies and there was a decided lack of enthusiasm all along the line on the question of another war. The Americans offered to assist in defense of the European control of the Dardanelles, but Canada did not care to offer assistance in a war ordered otherwise than by a responsible government after due deliberation. The labor hosts of England also protested so it came about that the British forces at the Dardanelles, to resist the Turkish advance, would have to meet the enemy without the prospect of the necessary backing. Europe stood aghast and France and Italy were opposed to starting war with the Turks. The bloody scenes enacted at Gallipoli in the World war were doubtless recalled and more vividly in the minds of the British than of the other nations; for it was there that several British regiments were cut to pieces while making a landing under the fire of the Turkish forts. That was the blunder of Winston Churchill and one of the most costly of the war.

It is very discouraging to find that the forces of Islam thus practically compel the Christian nations of Europe to concede their demands in spite of the horrors enacted at Smyrna and the traditional cruelty and merciless persecutions of defenseless peoples by the Turks. Other nations may oppress and persecute. The Turks try to exterminate, and that without either mercy or remorse.

The Turkish Nationals have won a peaceful triumph over the allies and now at a conference the terms will be agreed upon under which the Turk will resume control of Constantinople, Adrianople and part of Thrace. The Turks have regained practically everything they held before the war, and that without striking a blow excepting their conflict with Greece. Under the proposed arrangement the Straits are to be demilitarized and held open for world commerce. That is the only condition to be imposed upon Turkey in re-entering Europe. She will accept, knowing that she can violate it whenever she pleases. Turkey is to have a voice in the League of Nations and Russia will also demand admission and her wishes will doubtless be respected. Armenia and the other small nations that were promised their independence under the Versailles treaty are once more to be subject to the successful and brutal sway of the Turk. This for Armenia means starvation, torture and brutal persecution. The real intention of the allies in agreeing the future of small nations of Asia Minor are completely defeated and the status quo ante bellum is to be restored.

CENSORING THE MOVIES

It is expected that there will be an emphatic "no" given as an answer to the question on the ballot in November, relative to state censorship of the movies. The present law, if enforced, will serve all necessary purposes. It is as follows:

"Whereas as owner, manager, director, agent, or in any capacity, prepares, advertises, gives, presents, or participates in any low, obscene, indecent, immoral or impure show or entertainment, or in any show or entertainment suggestive of lewdness, obscenity, indecency, immorality or impurity or in any show or entertainment manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than $100, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

THE FORESIGHT

When the high tariff has had time to show its effect, consumers will discover that the tariff duties are added to what they pay for imported goods. That sets the price, and the seller who brought goods in ahead of the tariff in most cases can pocket the duty as an extra profit.

RESPONSIBILITY

A mother in an American city sued neighbors for $5000 damages, claiming they taught her child to swear. Rare cases like this are attempts to fix responsibility at its source. The idea could be applied in many ways and it should be.

MENTAL INDIGESTION

Carrie E. Scott, head of the children's department of Indianapolis Public Library, says there are too many cases of mental indigestion among children, due to choosing "all among candy and deserts" in reading. She sweetens a public library to strikingly compares a public library to a candy store.

THE HONEST DOG

Ernest Baynes listened in silence at a dinner party to the dog stories recounted by his fellow guests. The host finally related a story of dog honesty which Mr. Baynes felt obliged to say, "Yes, that was very honest dog." "I used to own a still more honest dog, a spaniel named Texer. Walking beside Lake Superior one day I felt a craving for a salmon haddock, so I threw a dollar in the lake and nodded to Texer significantly. The dog went plunging in, returned to my side with a two-pound salmon steak and 20 cents in change."

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Other people may have the same idea, but Steve Kearney, city engineer, was the first to express it within his hearing. At least, Steve thinks the Memorial Auditorium is a structure of which the city well may be proud, but he feels that there is just one more thing needed to complete the picture—a modern, excellent hotel. That hotel is shared by hundreds, of course. Mr. Kearney, however, traced out for me on a map in the engineer's office what he considers an admirable site, quite the most admirable one in the city, in fact, on which a hotel, worthy of the name, might be erected. The site is directly opposite the Auditorium, between the river and Davidson street and extending back to the river at the corner of the city. He points out that there is a splendid retaining wall already built on that side of the river and, all in all, he is considerably enthused over the idea.

WHY NOT?

BY BERTON BRADLEY

I gave the beggar fifty cents. From out my hard-earned competence, and I felt very virtuous about it; for there's joy to charity. Which warms the heart, as you'll agree. It does you good, there's not a doubt about it.

That night I drove my silver car. I hadn't run it very far. When I came to a splendid boat went by me; the man within the driver's seat was decked in costly garb and neat. And with averted glance I saw him eye me.

Then all at once it came to me. Just what that wealthy bird might be— I hadn't made me pretty sure. To think I'd given me my store. To me whose riches had me wholly faded.

I brooded on it for awhile. And then I smiled a subtle smile. Because an inspiration struck me. So now four hours a day I sit. With hat outstretched to catch each fly. I'm counting up some fifty dollars daily!

Meeting in Detail

The meeting was called to order at 10:40 o'clock.

Chairman James E. Riley asked Supt. Molloy for any recommendations he had to make to the committee.

Several new text books are adopted and placed on the approved list.

The Lowell Teachers' organization requested permission to conduct a teachers' institute at the Normal school on December 21.

A similar institute was held last year and proved most successful. The all-day program involved would mean closing the schools on that date. It was voted to allow the schools to close and the organization's request was granted.

It also was voted to allow the schools to close on the last Friday in October to allow teachers to attend a county convention to be held in Boston on that day.

First grade certificates were granted to George Keefe, Ralph G. Taylor, and Vincent McCurtin.

Mr. Molloy recommended that the salary of Miss Edith Marchant, teacher of drawing, be set at $1700. It was so voted.

ent committee. Adjournment was reached at 12:10 a. m.

New teachers chosen were the following: Academic, Continuation school, Walter M. Glashen.

Electrical instruction, Vocational school, T. B. Hutton.

New Janitors elected were Michael A. Molloy, Edward F. Doherty and Walter McEnerny. Ten janitors, designated as head-janitors, were given salaries from $1550 to $1700.

The salary of Robert Derbyshire, instructor of mechanical mechanics at the Vocational and Continuation schools, was raised from $1500 to $2000 and that of Miss Alice T. Lee, kindergarten and school garden supervisor, was increased from $1200 to $2250.

The meeting, the committee of other members as well and covered considerable territory. The committee voted itself a trip to other cities to study

Anniversary of Birth of Samuel Adams

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The 200th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Adams, patriot and orator of colonial days, was observed today. At Faneuil hall, an old fashioned town meeting was held with Senator Lodge, Gov. Cox and Mayor Curley taking part. Services were conducted in the Old South church, where a memorial address was given by Judge Michael J. Murray. A parade of 1000 United States army regular troops, American Legion members, Spanish war veterans and citizens was held through the city.

Platform Assails Tariff Bill—Favors Beer and Light Wines, Soldiers' Bonus, Retention of Direct Primary Old Age Pension System and Uniform Labor Laws

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 27.—The democratic state convention, one of the most harmonious in years, yesterday adopted a platform declaring that "in the interest of law and good health, of olive decency, as well as of true temperance," the party, "although opposed to the return of the saloon, believed in the legal use of beer and light wines." The platform assailed the "repulsive tariff act of 1922, condemning the betrayal of the American people," by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his leadership for the adoption of the bill, and favored the payment of adjusted compensation to World war veterans.

The report of the resolutions committee which was read to the convention late yesterday afternoon by Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, as chairman, was adopted without amendment or discussion. The report was submitted after a day of conferences among party leaders, including Senator David I. Walsh, who as permanent convention chairman arraigned the republican administration, and Col. William A. Gaston, candidate for the United States senate, and John F. Fitzgerald, gubernatorial nominee.

The platform, which was received with cheers, said that the democrats noted "with interest that the only worth while legislation adopted by the republican party in the past two years was that which they deemed unworthy when presented by our great leader, Woodrow Wilson, during his term of office."

Relief "from the constantly increasing tax burden on the small home owner and rent payer" was demanded. "The party was put on record as favoring retention of the direct primary with the abolition of party enrollment, and the adoption of a national old age pension system. The platform demanded that the leadership of Massachusetts in education 'shall not be beguiled by a centralized bureaucracy located in Washington.'"

Declaring in favor of larger returns to the farmer and lower cost to the consumer, the platform favored short time credits for the farmer, encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and the enactment of legislation to protect the milk producing farmers. Expressing itself "on true temperance," the platform said: "The traditional American respect for all law is today undermined by the lack of enforcement of the Volstead act. In the interest of law and good health as well as of true temperance, while we are opposed to the return of the saloon, we believe in the legal use of beer and light wines."

High Lights of Democratic Platform

Favors "legal use of beer and light wines."

Favors adjusted compensation for former service men.

Assails republican tariff act of 1922.

Demands relief "from the constantly increasing tax burden on the small home owner and rent payer."

Favors retention of the direct primary with abolition of the party enrollment.

Goes on record for adoption of national old age pension system.

Pledges support to program of legislation for proper hospitalization and care of former service men.

Demands immediate abolition by the Interstate Commerce commission of the present system of differentials in New England.

Favors workmen's compensation, payable from the date of injury, with an increase in the present rate of compensation for injury and death.

Favors establishment of institute of labor.

Demands amendment to the Constitution to procure uniform labor laws in all states to end child labor.

Favors short time credits to farmer, encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and enactment of legislation to protect the milk-producing farmers.

The platform assailed the "repulsive tariff act of 1922, condemning the betrayal of the American people," by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his leadership for the adoption of the bill, and favored the payment of adjusted compensation to World war veterans.

The report of the resolutions committee which was read to the convention late yesterday afternoon by Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, as chairman, was adopted without amendment or discussion. The report was submitted after a day of conferences among party leaders, including Senator David I. Walsh, who as permanent convention chairman arraigned the republican administration, and Col. William A. Gaston, candidate for the United States senate, and John F. Fitzgerald, gubernatorial nominee.

The platform, which was received with cheers, said that the democrats noted "with interest that the only worth while legislation adopted by the republican party in the past two years was that which they deemed unworthy when presented by our great leader, Woodrow Wilson, during his term of office."

Relief "from the constantly increasing tax burden on the small home owner and rent payer" was demanded. "The party was put on record as favoring retention of the direct primary with the abolition of party enrollment, and the adoption of a national old age pension system. The platform demanded that the leadership of Massachusetts in education 'shall not be beguiled by a centralized bureaucracy located in Washington.'"

Declaring in favor of larger returns to the farmer and lower cost to the consumer, the platform favored short time credits for the farmer, encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and the enactment of legislation to protect the milk producing farmers. Expressing itself "on true temperance," the platform said: "The traditional American respect for all law is today undermined by the lack of enforcement of the Volstead act. In the interest of law and good health as well as of true temperance, while we are opposed to the return of the saloon, we believe in the legal use of beer and light wines."

High Lights of Democratic Platform

Favors "legal use of beer and light wines."

Favors adjusted compensation for former service men.

Assails republican tariff act of 1922.

Demands relief "from the constantly increasing tax burden on the small home owner and rent payer."

Favors retention of the direct primary with abolition of the party enrollment.

Goes on record for adoption of national old age pension system.

Pledges support to program of legislation for proper hospitalization and care of former service men.

Demands immediate abolition by the Interstate Commerce commission of the present system of differentials in New England.

Favors workmen's compensation, payable from the date of injury, with an increase in the present rate of compensation for injury and death.

Favors establishment of institute of labor.

Demands amendment to the Constitution to procure uniform labor laws in all states to end child labor.

Favors short time credits to farmer, encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and enactment of legislation to protect the milk-producing farmers.

Platform Assails Tariff Bill—Favors Beer and Light Wines, Soldiers' Bonus, Retention of Direct Primary Old Age Pension System and Uniform Labor Laws

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 27.—The democratic state convention, one of the most harmonious in years, yesterday adopted a platform declaring that "in the interest of law and good health, of olive decency, as well as of true temperance," the party, "although opposed to the return of the saloon, believed in the legal use of beer and light wines." CARDS DROP TO FOURTH PLACE

Suffer Three Defeats in Four Games at Hands of Pennant Winning Giants

Nine Home Runs in the Three Major League Games Played Yesterday

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Free from pennant worries after one of the most strenuous campaigns in their careers, the New York Giants, 1922 National League champions, wound up the battle against western opposition by taking the final game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, behind Artie Nehf's steady twirling.

It was the third defeat in four games for the team which threatened the Giants' supremacy for a large share of the season, and showed the Cardinals back to fourth place while Cincinnati, trailing Philadelphia, 15 to 8, climbed to third position.

Nehf, although beaten twice by Walter Hoyt of the Yankees in last year's series, twirled brilliantly both times and in his third start turned in the deciding victory by outpitching the "boy wonder" in the eighth game, 1 to 0.

The Giants play a double header today with Philadelphia at the Polo Grounds and McGraw plans to call on his reserve forces after giving the regulars a brief workout.

The Yankees, within a game of clinching the American League title, hope to settle the race beyond all doubt by winning from Boston tomorrow in the first of a three game series with the Red Sox. They hold a lead of three and one-half games over the St. Louis Browns and with but four more contests to play, need only a single victory to eliminate the mathematical uncertainty of the title.

Dazzy Vance achieved his 15th victory of the season while Brooklyn pounded two Boston twirlers to win, 12 to 5, in the other major league game played yesterday.

Nine home runs in the three games played brought the season's total for both leagues up to 109, more than last year's record crop of 93 circuit blows.

HOME RUN HITTING IN WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Because of the enormous increase in recent seasons of home run hitting, begun by Babe Ruth and emulated by every player with a pair of clear eyes and strong shoulders, the coming world's series to develop into a contest of long distance batting, which a study of the statistics indicates is probable.

Not that the 1922 struggle between Manhattan's two representatives may not establish an imposing and new-to-the-world standard, but it will be a novelty. Neither participant is the leading club of its league in home run hitting.

The season of 1922 has been the most prolific of home runs of all time, the 490 mark being whizzed past by the slugging home run king, Babe Ruth, who has hit 35 in 1922, a record which he broke in 1921 when he hit 34.

In the last six world's series the American League has made more home runs than the National League, 21 to 19.

The records of Sept. 23 show Ruth and Bob Meusel to have been third and sixth, respectively, in the American League and Ed Delahanty and Geo. Kelly to have been fourth and fifth, respectively in the other league in "fence busting."

No player has made more than two runs in one game in a world's series and only three men have accomplished that.

They are Pat Dougherty of the Boston Americans in 1903, Harry Hooper of the Boston Americans in 1915, and Benny Kauff of the Giants in 1917.

LOWELL TEXTILE FOOTBALL TEAM

Coach Arthur Ball of the Lowell Textile football team put his charges through a stiff workout on the campus yesterday afternoon. As the opening game with Trinity college of Hartford is scheduled for Saturday of this week, the remaining practice sessions are due to be strenuous. Yesterday the squad was increased to the extent of 10 by promising candidates, most conspicuous of whom is Tayne Poon, Chinese, who aspired to the center position on last year's eleven.

Coach Ball is being ably assisted in rounding the team into shape by John Danahy, former star of Bates college. Among the new men showing up well in practice are Alex Stirling of Georgetown; Seed of Lawrence; Paulin from Maynard high; Antulonis of Stoughton; Bill Brosnan of Lowell and Sutcliffe of Worcester.

FAMOUS QUALITY

PREDICTS STYLE OF PLAY IN WORLD SERIES

This is the fourth of seven articles written for The Sun by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS
World's Greatest Second Baseman

In spite of the fact that there has been a decided revolution in the game of baseball in the last two years, and that now it's distinctly a game of swat, and hits and runs are of much more frequent occurrence, due, let's say, to simplify, to various causes, I am of the opinion the style of play in a world series will always have a tendency to be more along the old conventional conservative lines.

My reasons for this belief are several.

In the first place, opponents in a world series do not know each other, individually or collectively, as well as they know the teams they combat daily in their respective leagues, and the procedure is consequently slower.

Secondly, players on teams do not take the same chances, to begin with at least in a world series as they do in a regular game. The series is too short, the risk too great, and not worth it. As a last resort, when other means of making runs have failed, a manager may be forced to attempt anything.

For example, in 1911, when the Giants couldn't fathom the offerings of Bender or Combs with any degree of success, McGraw started his men on a base-stealing crusade. That year, if I am not mistaken, the combined steals of the New York club created a major league record which still stands. But after Jack Lapp had pegged out five in one game, that was stopped, too.

Base Stealing

Strange though it may seem, base stealing is an art and a practice that's played but a small part in the outcome of any world series.

In the 1921 pre-series predictions, the slowness of the Yanks and the deadness of the Giants was dwelt upon at great length. When the final count showed the National had seven stolen bases to the Americans' six, and I think I am safe in saying the six were better applied and counted for more than the seven.

Just so this year, I would be inclined to attach small significance to the fact that Sisler and Williams of the Browns had stolen more bases than the entire Yankee team.

From a fan's standpoint, as well as from a player's, I would be more interested in watching the Browns' style of play in a world series than I would in watching the Yanks. Understanding me, not that I believe they will be any more successful, but because of the fact that there would be opportunity for a greater variety.

The Yanks' style of play varies but little, and he is not an outguess, but sometimes you know how the coming off, it succeeds in spite of you.

Browns Mix 'Em

The Browns mix their plays better and oftener—their men more often assume the initiative and pull the unexpected. They are more careful in the execution of their plays, and their strength to better advantage.

Don't let me give the impression the Yanks are dumb and the Browns are smart. I have just as much respect for Miller Huggins as I have for Leo Fohl, and regard them both highly as baseball men. But they are along different lines, although arriving at the same end.

Possibly there is no set style of play that can be followed in a world series, but play must be adapted to conditions, and the team that can adjust its play to conform with those conditions that has the big edge.

When one method of attack fails, try something else.

"Mix 'em up," is the motto I like to follow.

Have the other fellow worrying about what you are going to do, and you'll be a jump ahead of him.

The edge is what counts in a short series—hustle!

BABE RUTH SAYS:

I see by the papers that Commissioner Landis is receiving many complaints about the umpiring in the major leagues this season.

That some of the American League gentlemen should be more efficient than others goes without saying.

Billy Evans are few and far between and I am not to be expected that every member of Ban Johnson's staff should be as capable as he. Some of the others are not so hot, and I am sure it is his peculiar notion that is the umpiring in the American League this year is better, on the whole, than at any other time within the span of my major league experience.

Evans has been called the "perfect umpire" and in my opinion he is all of that. His judgment makes a mistake in his judgment on strikes and balls, his calling of plays on the bases is practically 100 per cent perfect, and in his case, exceptional ability is coupled with splendid tact and a temperament worthy of a diplomat. Unlike some umpires, I could make a mistake when he makes one, but does it in such a way that it does not weaken his hold on the situation or impair the respect in which he is held by the players.

WOMEN GOLF STARS IN SECOND ROUND

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 27.—With the exception of Miss Marlon Hollins of Westchester, L. I., last year's champion, all of the better known stars contested for the national women's golf championship on the Greenbrier course here had won their way to the second round of match play.

Miss Glenna Collett, medal winner in the qualifying round, whose remarkably steady game triumphed easily in her first round match with Mrs. H. D. Sterrett of Hutchinson, Kan., was paired today against Miss A. E. Harding of Atlanta, three times national champion, who also played brilliantly yesterday, met Mrs. C. C. Alexander of Exmoor.

Bad Luck This Year, but Yankees' Pitchers Equal Any Major League Team

By BILLY EVANS

A year brings about some funny changes in baseball.

This time last season, as the Yankees were coming down the home stretch, Carl Mays and Walter Hoyt were carrying the burden of the pitching.

Mays finished the season of 1921 with 27 victories, Hoyt with 32.

New York, in order to win the American League pennant, registered 93 triumphs.

Mays and Hoyt scored 46 of the wins.

Some pitching!

In the world series these same pitchers were called upon to save the day.

Each pitched three remarkable games, Hoyt winning two and Mays one. The two defeats suffered by Mays and the one by Hoyt were heartbreakers.

Different This Year

There was every reason to believe that Hoyt and Mays would be equally successful this year. Thus, when Sam Jones and Joe Bush, the stars of the Boston staff, were sold to New York, it was only natural that the Yankees should concede the pennant to the Yankees.

Things have been mighty different this year with the two star pitchers of the Yankee staff. With four weeks of the season to go, Hoyt had 14 victories to his credit. Mays, on the other hand, had only 21 wins.

It is possible that Hoyt will come close to his 19 victories of last year, but Mays is certain to fall far below his mark of 27 wins for 1921.

Mack Needed Too

They do say that to be a winning pitcher, you must be blessed with luck as well as ability. Last year the Yankees made plenty of runs for Mays, this year they seem to leave their bats in the club house when he performs.

Hoyt's luck has been much the same. He has been the champion of a pitcher of much of his confidence. That, to a certain extent, has played havoc with the Yankees' pitching this year.

I can see very little difference between Carl Mays pitching this year and last. He seems to have just as much stuff, but he can't win with any degree of consistency.

Moody Worries Him

Mays is high-strung, temperamentally he lacks the poise that would enable him to throw off the hard-luck hoodoo. Instead, he worries over his failure to win, which, in turn, naturally affects his pitching.

Last year Sam Jones, pitching for Boston, won 26 games for a club that finished fifth. This year, with a month to go, he had only 11 games for the league-leading Yankees.

Joe Bush carried the Yankees' 1922 burden. With four weeks of play remaining, he had 22 victories to his credit. He should reach the 26 mark easily.

Bob Shawkey, who failed in the series, and was counted out by many of his old-time staff. Their failure to win is simply one of the many mysteries with which baseball is filled.

If the Yankees get into the big series the opposition certainly will be forced to look at some mean pitching. The staff boasts five regulars of class and experience.

COX WINS AT COLUMBUS WITH THE GREAT VOLO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27.—The Boston 4-year-old, the Great Volo, driven by Walter Cox, was the feature of the 2,125 mile race, which was held at the Columbus track yesterday, winning the stake for 2,000 trotters in straight heats from the Murphy star, Bill Sharen, and taking a record of 2:03.4.

In the second heat, the fastest by a 4-year-old this season.

The record, by the way, was protected by his owner and driver, as many watches outside the timers' stand caught the mile in 2:04.1.

It was a day for 4-year-olds, all four taking the card being won by horses of that age.

Cox, worthy, the leading money-winner, kept up his winning career, beating the 2:12 mile trotters, while the Ohio colt, Peter Henley, furnished an upset by beating the heavy favorite, Edna Early, in the stake for 2,000 paces.

The Great Volo $100, Bill Sharen $70, Prince Loree $50 and the field $12 was the auction market on the 2,038 trotters.

In all three heats the battle was between the Great Volo and Bill Sharen, the latter breaking early in the first heat, then coming on and landing second.

The finish between the pair was very close in the second heat, Prince Loree shifted to a pace at the quarter pole in the first heat and finished at the gate, being distanced.

Edna Early was a $200 to $140 favorite over the field for the 2,038 paces, but broke in the first heat and Peter Henley led all the way. In the second she raced him to the half in 1:00, but he cut her out and beat her out in 2:02.4, a new record for him, in the final heat he carried him to a break on the upper turn. Then the Pittsburgh stallion, Transpase, came on and won in 2:02.4.

Cox worthy was a $50 to $17 favorite for the 2:12 stake and was in front all the way in each heat, the animal right to his record of 2:03.4. The 4-year-old Billy Mearns, Guy, was the contender in the first two heats, with the 3-year-old Peter Henley, who won in the final the Great Volo forced Murphy's mount to a drive at the finish.

Clavara, the Hill & Dale farm 4-year-old, which was beaten by Alex Quest last week, turned the tables yesterday, winning from the gelding in straight heats, final in 2:06.4, a new record for him.

CANDIDATES FOR CHEER LEADER

Believing that moral support is an essential factor in the success of athletic teams, a call has been issued at the Lowell High School for candidates to direct the organized vocal efforts of the 1922 football supporters.

Several students have announced their candidacy for the position of cheer leader, among them being Harry Sargent, Edith Adler, Mary Twohey, Genevieve Callahan, Mary Bagley, James P. Henry, Margaret Chase, Alice E. Cheney.

A test of the ability of the above named students, to show their magnetism as directors, will be made at the football game at Nashua high school, at Spaulding park next Friday, and their respective merits voted upon at a meeting of the students next week.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Ramblers challenge the Uniteds to a game for Sunday on the South common, the same to be played for a side bet of $5 and a regulation National League ball. Answer through this paper.

The championship of Belvidere will be at stake when the Belvidere All Stars play the Yankees next Sunday afternoon at South common. The All Stars lineup will be as follows: Condon in, Turner, O'Brien, Doherty, C. Gibson, P. Condon, K. Kelley, D. Lind, say of Shaughnessy.

FOOTBALL NOTES

World Series Comparisons—Right Field

Ruth, New York American—Ruth is a mighty fine outfielder. He has all the not going as well as he did last year. His late start and several suspensions have held him back. Fitness and speed have been his strong points in affecting the big fellow's play.

Although he is well up in the list of home-run hitters, Ruth's swing lacks the punch and accuracy of last season when he hit all kinds of pitching over the fence and far away.

Babe's physical condition also has retarded his fielding ability.

In one department of play he is much improved. His throwing is far better than ever before. He has snuffed out the few home runs that have been his accurate heaves. This and throws left-handed.

Young, New York Giants—Young is a left-handed batter and a mighty fine outfielder. He has all the mechanical ability and, in addition, uses his head to advantage at all times. Only recently, in a game with the Phillies, he trapped a fly ball, which so confused the opposition that a triple play resulted.

Young is a left-handed batter and a mighty fine outfielder. He is a clever out-fielder and a good thrower. Taken all in all, Young comes very close to being the ideal outfielder.

There is little to choose between the two right fielders. Ruth is the demon that ever before. He has snuffed out the few home runs that have been his accurate heaves. This and throws left-handed.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Charlie Cardo of Boston, manager of "Willie" (Young) Gradwell, who is to meet Jimmy Duffy of New York in the feature bout of the Moody club show tomorrow night, sends along the following about the match: "Tell the Lowell fans that Gradwell is in top shape for the fight with Duffy. He is out to defeat the New Yorker decisively as he has many other matches on the program. He is to take a trip to the Pacific coast in November where he has been signed up for five fights. His opponents will be Jimmy Sacco, Phil Salvadore, Pugger Norton, Benjamen and Jack Joseph. His first fight will be in Los Angeles and from there he will work up to Spokane, Wash. That before he leaves for the Pacific coast he has several important matches in the east, providing of course he wins over Duffy. Among these are the sensational Boston lightweight, Young Tansey in Boston, and later the well-known Henry Valger at Holyoke, Mass. With so much depending on the outcome of Thursday night's fight, you can rest assured Willie will work as never before to triumph over Duffy."

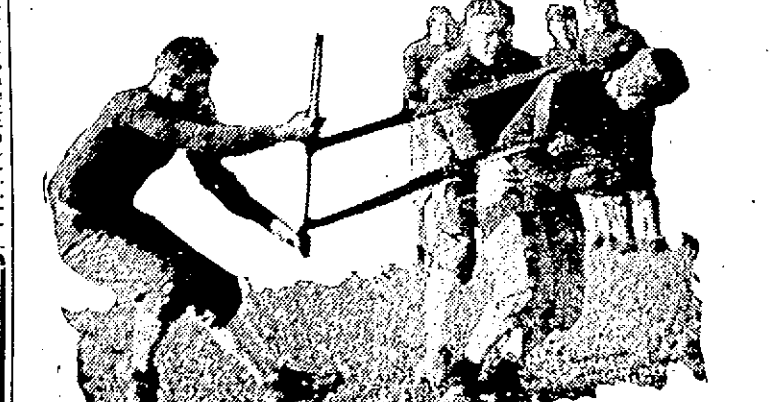

Duffy sends along the word that as he is planning to locate in New England in order to make himself solid with the fans in this section, he is out to whip Gradwell. He would like nothing better than to replace Gradwell with a bout with Tansey Valger, any other lightweight, and he will try his darndest to land the verdict tomorrow night. He declares he is in great condition for the battle.

Johnny Sunday who won over Jimmy Downes last week will enter the ring against Jimmy Manning tomorrow night with many local admirers cheering him on to victory. The Troy battle made a big hit here when he stepped forward against the victorious career of the local lad and consequently many will be "pulling" for him to win in his second local performance.

The bout between Lefty Williams and Whitley Walsh is expected to be a hummer. In the opening round, Lefty Purcell of Lowell will tackle Ray Courtney of Lawrence.

Jackie Williams, manager of Johnny Downes and "a hundred others," has written to The Sun relative to the recent Downes-Boyle clash and the possibility of future engagement. He writes the pair, his letter in the past is as follows: "Now that the wound is determined."

Lowell will be represented at the meeting of the newly organized Nation Roller Polo league in Boston Sunday afternoon. Much business of importance is expected to be transacted at the session. It is believed that some idea of just what men will be seen in action next season will be planned. Also it is expected a definite date for opening the season will be determined.

Third and Deciding Game of Series

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 27.—With one victory each in their series for the minor league championship of the east, the New Haven Eastern league team met the Baltimore club of the International league here this afternoon in the third and deciding game. The Eastern league champions defeated the Orioles yesterday, 11 to 7. The locals gave Johnny Cooney excellent support, while Baltimore was charged with four errors. The pitching selection for Baltimore today was believed to be between Lefty Groves and Harry Frank. Sterling Stryker was the probable choice for the locals. A number of big league scouts watched yesterday's game.

RUSH FOR THE NEW MOTOR GAS

(By N.E.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Substitutes for gasoline are still being used to relieve millions of the gullible of their life earnings.

That the number of victims has not been reduced, in spite of recent disclosures, is maintained by Dr. Raymond F. Bacon, formerly head of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh.

"In investigations of methods of charlatans and back-brained inventors in the petroleum field," said Dr. Bacon, "it has been generally found that whatever motor fuel there was produced was put into the apparatus by some sleight-of-hand process."

Peat Fuel
Motor fuel from peat has been the most popular goal of inventors. A useful oil can undoubtedly be obtained from peat, is Dr. Bacon's view, but it would cost several dollars a gallon. This has been the chief bait for the gullible and many have been caught in the net. Other kinds of fuel also have been "discovered," but they have all turned out to be impracticable or sheer frauds.

"Some of the inventors of gasoline processes foist upon the public a mixture of kerosene to which is added a little ether. The effect of the ether is to give a quicker ignition, but as this fluid is very costly, motor fuel of this kind really costs more than gasoline."

Chance for Change
"Undoubtedly, cheaper substitutes for gasoline will be made eventually. At the present time there are mixtures of alcohol and tar oils which, although more expensive than gasoline, have many good qualities."

"It should be borne in mind that all the large petroleum refining companies are spending many thousands of dollars in research work to find a lower priced motor fuel. Any inventor or dealer who is interested in the large corporations and reap a rich reward in royalties if he could convince them that his process would make gasoline at 18 or 20 cents a gallon."

"Any person who is considering the purchase of the patent rights of a process for making cheap gasoline would do well to consult a petroleum chemist."

INVENTION ENDS GAS PERIL

(By N.E.A. Service)
WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 27.—Peril of carbon-monoxide gas poisoning from the exhausts of automobiles will be eliminated with use of a machine invented by Guy B. Taylor, chemist of the Du Pont company, and H. S. Taylor, associate professor of chemistry at Princeton university.

Announcement of this invention has been made by the American Chemical society. The machine is designed for the detection of deadly gases. It is applicable especially to automobile exhaust.

Carbon-monoxide gas has been the cause of death to many a motorist. Working on the engine, with the gas fumes shut against fresh air, the motorist would be quickly overcome by the fumes. The gas is especially dangerous in that it cannot be detected by the senses.

The new machine, it is said, not only

REO PHAETON HOME CAR
"A delight to the eyes." That's what it is, this new first Reo Phaeton now on exhibition at the automobile of the Reo Service Station, 600 Middlesex street. It certainly is a revelation of how much $1646 can achieve when they are made to do their best. Artistic design and modern conveniences have been combined in the new Reo Phaetons, but it is not only its appearance and such that this new model appeals. The same mechanical perfection that has characterized Reo products in the past on which Reo has built its success, is still a predominant feature of the Reo Phaeton. With a capacity of four or five passengers it sure is a splendid appearing vehicle and a car that is without doubt appealing to the man who is conservative enough to still consider an old and reliable make. Every essential of comfort and enduring worth is there in heaped-up measure. The first Phaeton Reo is now on display, folks, at the Reo Service station, 600 Middlesex street, so drop in and see the latest achievement in Reo products.

SELF-COOLING PLUG

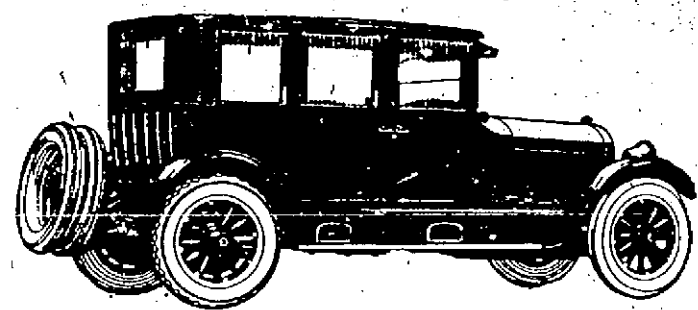

By the insertion of a tube down the centre of a new plug, air is drawn through at each intake stroke of the piston. That is just after the compression, when the sparking points are hottest. This, therefore, cools the points. It is claimed, also, that this prevents accumulation of oil, blows out the foul gases in the chamber of the plug and effects a saving in oil. This tube permits also of priming the engine directly through the plug.

30 Miles of Cadillacs In Massachusetts

IMAGINE, if you can, a line of Cadillac cars extending in solid, unbroken formation, from Tyngsboro to Boston. THAT is the number of Cadillac cars owned in Massachusetts today—

NINE THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE

Almost twice as many as the next popular high-grade car. About four times as many as the third ranking make. In fact, nearly as many as all other comparable cars combined!

What a record to look back on—after a continuous career of over twenty years! Twenty years of success founded upon a product of intrinsic excellence and a policy of leadership that has become more distinctive and definite with each succeeding year.

Nearly ten thousand discriminating Massachusetts motorists counsel your choice of the Cadillac as your next car.

ABOUT PUNCTURE PROOF TIRES

The famous puncture-proof tire is becoming known to a wide circle of motorists, and every motorist who has used this tire on his car is loud in its praise. The tire is impervious to punctures, due to its special construction, which naturally removes a considerable amount of worry from the enjoyment of the motorist. In addition to this big feature alone, Lee tires are also noted for the big mileage they deliver. Ed Braverman, the general manager of the Tower's Corner Auto Supply, distributors for these tires, says that the success with which Lee Tires are meeting with here in Lowell and surrounding towns is remarkable. Especially among the truck men is the tire very popular, and in the very short time that the Tower's Corner Auto Supply have had the equipment, the trucks of Camoron Brothers, The Lowell Beef company, and Lehrer and Wexler, The Yellow Cab company has also put on Lee Tires.

Applications for Series Tickets Pour In

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Deluged by applications for world's series tickets, the Giants today began accepting requests for the National league "home games" at the Polo Grounds, including the opening contest. The Yankees, although they have not yet definitely clinched the American league championship, also were being besieged by applicants but they were being held to await the actual winning of the pennant. Prices for the series are the same as a year ago, ranging from $1.10 for bleacher seats, to $6.60 for box reservations for single games. Tickets for the upper tier of the grandstand and for the bleachers, numbering 22,000, will be sold on the day of each game and only at the Polo Grounds.

WILL BUILD NEW CHAPEL IN SOUTH LOWELL

It is expected that work on the erection of a new chapel for St. Marie's parish in South Lowell will be started early in the spring. According to plans made by the pastor, Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.I., the new church will be much larger than the present building. It will be erected on land adjoining the present church site and the exterior will be of Kelloggston finish.

Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O.M.I., stated today that the present church building is inadequate and will be converted into a parochial school as soon as the other edifice is ready for service. A drive for funds for the new building is now going on and Saturday, Oct. 14, a bean supper will be served in Artisan hall. South Lowell, the arrangements being in charge of Thomas Theriault. On Oct. 30 the hope chest contest, which has been organized by Mrs. Rose Rouleau will be brought to a close and the receipts will be turned over to the church fund.

orous lecture on "The Drama as I See It." Wednesday, March 8.—Closing concert, by the Boston Symphony Ensemble.

The above program, no doubt, will be augmented as the season progresses. The lectures will be free to the Lowell public upon presentation of tickets which will be issued in seasonal and individual forms and can be had by applying at the Auditorium box office. The selection of seats will be optional as the doors will be opened early in the evening. It will prove advantageous, therefore, for persons to secure their tickets in advance.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Moses H. Cone Foundation, Inc., held yesterday afternoon in the mayor's reception room, the following program, to be given in the new Auditorium, was arranged:

Thursday, Nov. 2.—Concert by the Boston Symphony Ensemble—a section of the famous Boston orchestra—with explanatory lecture by Olin Downes, musical critic of the Boston Post staff.

Saturday, Nov. 18.—Travel talk, by B. M. Newman (illustrated with stereopticon and moving pictures) on the heart of the African wilderness, "from the Transvaal to Victoria Falls."

Saturday, Dec. 9.—Second talk by Mr. Newman, "Congo to Victoria Nyanza." Mr. Newman has recently returned from his explorations of the African jungle and his moving pictures of wild life are said to be uncommonly fine.

Thursday, Dec. 20.—Dr. Woods Hutchison of New York, "Making Health Contagious." To this it is hoped to add a second lecture by this well known writer on health subjects, at some date to be announced later, an important aim of the Parker Foundation being to spread the knowledge of hygiene among Lowell people.

Thursday, Jan. 4.—Travelogue by Burton Holmes (illustrated) entitled "Into China and Up the Yangtze-Kang."

Thursday, Jan. 11.—Second Travelogue by Burton Holmes, "Modernizing Korea and Manchuria."

Thursday, Jan. 18.—Third Travelogue by Burton Holmes, "Great Rights East of Suez." The illustrations of these lectures include both moving pictures and stereopticon views.

Tuesday, Jan. 23.—A costume recital of folk-songs, by Lorraine Wyman.

Thursday, Feb. 8.—Isaac P. Marcusson, "The German Collapse and World Security." If possible a second lecture by Mr. Marcusson will be arranged dealing with "The Changing East." Mr. Marcusson is a well known writer for the Saturday Evening Post and is probably the world's most accomplished interviewer at present, whose experiences afford most abundant material for interest.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Dr. Albert Abrams, California specialist, has refused to make a private blood test to determine whether John Tierman, Notre Dame law professor, is the father of his wife's baby boy who Mrs. Tierman says is the child of Harry Poulin, haberdasher, of South Bend, Ind. It became known today.

Dr. Abrams, in declining to take a part privately in the case, said he would make a test only in connection with court procedure, and only then with both Tierman and Poulin submitting to the test.

Local Eagles Entertained

who have told their due and yet found themselves at 65 without a competence in their old age. This undertaking came about in this wise: Early in 1921, subordinates and state aerics began to pass resolutions in favor of old age pensions, and in August, 1921, the Grand Aeris unanimously endorsed the proposition. Thirty thousand dollars was appropriated to defray the expenses of a year's educational campaign to inform and arouse public sentiment, and an old age pension commission of prominent members was appointed to conduct the propaganda.

"This commission at once entered upon an investigation of industrial conditions as affecting old age, especially the old age of the worker. It found that the high-powered, swift-moving machinery of modern factories not only requires keen eyesight, steady nerve and skilled hand, but tends to impair all these, so that the workingman's efficiency is destroyed at a comparatively early age. It found, too, that civilized states throughout the world are wrestling with the problem how best to care for the wornout veterans of their industrial armies.

"As a result of its painstaking investigation the commission was confirmed in the conclusion previously reached by the several aerics, that the old age pension is the most effective, and, on the whole, the least expensive, method of caring for the disabled toilers. Accordingly, it has, by the preparation and distribution of literature and through clubs and public addresses sought to create a public sentiment that will secure the enactment of laws providing old age pensions.

From the Record

"The Eagles have one other patriotic record of which they are very proud, and which is bringing into the order many thousands of the war veterans. They are proud of the fact that 45,000 of their members went into the military service of the country in the World War; and of the fact that the order led the way, even for the government, in providing adequately for the dependents of those who should lose their lives. Within 10 days after our country entered the war, the board of grand trustees of the Eagles proposed a plan, which the Grand Aeris enacted into law, by which a patriotic fund of one and one-half million dollars was established, out of which gratuities of $1000 each were to be paid to the dependents of those Eagles who should lay down their lives as the toll of that war.

"The order is forward in many other less conspicuous but not less worthy good works. Never do the aerics fail to distribute Christmas offerings and Thanksgiving bounties. Scarcely is there an aeris that does not support some charity—it may be a shoe fund for poor children, a charity ball, the baby clinic, the local branch of the

A 17th Record

"Now, measuring the capabilities of any organization in these times, its financial condition must also be carefully considered. The impregnable financial strength of the Eagles was demonstrated during the influenza years of 1918-19, when its sickness and funeral benefits ran into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Not one aeris defaulted or even delayed in making the payments required. This, it will be found, is an enviable record.

"In short, the Fraternal Order of Eagles stands forth among the first in the land as a patriotic, community and individual serving social welfare fraternity and institution, its strength and beneficial activities are succinctly set forth in the following official report of the grand secretary of June 30, 1921:

A membership of approximately 600,000.

Real estate valued at $845,000.00

Invested funds to the amount of $2,227,000.00

Cash on hand $2,134,000.00

Lodge furnishings and fittings $2,205,000.00

Total $18,412,000.00

The assets of the benefit fund used exclusively for the payment of sick and

funeral benefits $4,185,000.00

The F.O.E. paid out from the date of its organization, Feb. 6, 1898, to June 30, 1921:

For sick benefits $13,524,000.00

For funeral benefits $413,000.00

For medical services $5,810,000.00

Total $19,747,000.00

Increase for the year ending June 30, 1921:

In membership $2,189

In net assets $1,833,274.79

In value of property in the benefit fund $108,488.81

An informal smoker was held at the conclusion of Mr. Tierman's talk. It was announced that the local charter will remain open until December, during which time a campaign will be conducted for members. The following committee had charge of last night's reception and deserves much credit for its ability to make the affair a success:

Past Presidents Edward F. Flanagan, James F. Roarkie; Trustees William F. Carey, John J. Driscoll; Hon. Henry J. Draper, Chaplain Joseph Hughes, Inside Guard William A. Sheehan; Treasurer David J. WALSH FLAYS TARIFF LOCAL ROTARIANS HEAR ACT AT CONVENTION NOTED EVANGELIST

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 26.—Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, addressing the Democratic state convention here this afternoon, declared that the tariff act of 1922 was "the most colossal failure of the republican administration."

"The tariff law has so promiscuously and unselectively scattered protection over the nation, that these industries that may have a just claim to protection will receive little or no benefit because of its increase in costs of production as a result of tariff duties levied on every kind of material used in the manufacture of their finished products."

"Whether viewed from the standpoint of the manufacturer, the merchant, the explorer or the great consuming public, it is the most unsatisfactory, inequitable and injurious tariff legislation ever adopted. No scientific basis or standard was employed in its making; conditions existing throughout the world have been ignored. With our export business seriously impaired, the law is deliberately framed to destroy our commerce, the markets of the world."

"The result of these months of haggling and bargaining is that the American consumer is to be penalized as never before. The cost of living has been increased not by the billions but by the millions; or a generally accepted estimate being five billions of dollars."

"The best evidence that those who sponsored this bill have no conscience in it is that they have made provision for the executive to raise or lower the rates of duty to the extent of 50 per cent when he considers it necessary. What is the method of assessing duties and indeed to change all tariff classifications. What is this if it is not the inauguration of a policy of giving the executive the power to tax our citizens? The usurpation of the functions of the legislative branch of the government is charged by the public opinion against the former administration was at most the exercise of moral suasion."

Flays Records of Administration

"It violates in spirit if not in fact, the constitutional provisions set up by the founders of this republic to safeguard our liberties. It is a departure from democracy to autocracy."

"The record of the administration, Senator Walsh has said, has been approved by the public."

"I doubt if there has been an administration in the history of the country that so quickly and so completely has failed to meet the needs of the people. Disappointment has followed disappointment. Inaction has been substituted for action."

"The record of the administration to ultra-conservative capitalism, platitudes and failures are the three conspicuous achievements to date."

"The record of the administration to ultra-conservative capitalism, platitudes and failures are the three conspicuous achievements to date. The record of the administration to ultra-conservative capitalism, platitudes and failures are the three conspicuous achievements to date. The record of the administration to ultra-conservative capitalism, platitudes and failures are the three conspicuous achievements to date."

"The selfish and unscrupulous have clung on tenaciously and their active lobby has not been in operation without results. Whether viewed from the standpoint of the manufacturer, the merchant, the exporter or the great consuming public, it is the most unsatisfactory, inequitable and injurious tariff legislation ever adopted. The American consumer is to be penalized as never before. The cost of living has been increased not by the millions but by the billions."

"The veto of the bonus bill, Senator Walsh said, was a typical illustration of the extent to which the predatory financial interests have dominated this administration."

"At the direction of one of the leading representatives of the ultra-rich group in the United States, the present secretary of the treasury, the chief owner of one of the greatest monopolies of the world—the aluminum trust—every effort to adjust the compensation of the veterans of the war has been thwarted. A huge demand for more than any other person in this country, the bonus has been thrust aside by a presidential veto."

"Our soldiers might well be asked to absent themselves from home, to enter a hazardous occupation, to endure the monotonous life of long marches and drill, to bear the mental strain, exhaustion and horrors of trench life without compensation."

"Senator Walsh called the seating of Senator Newberry of Michigan 'one of the greatest election scandals in our generation.' He referred to the four power treaty negotiated at the Washington armistice conference as 'an old fashioned political and military alliance with the three largest militaristic and imperialistic nations of the world.' Attempts at the conference to limit armaments, he said, were 'farced.' All the conference accomplished was a rummage sale of obsolete naval craft. This may be commensurate so far as it goes, but it does not begin to reach the real evil, which is war."

"Referring to republican assertions of economy in the government, he said that in the light of comparison with expenses during other periods of peace, the republican administration had increased the cost of the government, there was an increase of more than $20,000,000 in the cost of civil administration over 1921-22. The $1,600,000,000 erroneously credited by Senator Lodge as being saved by the administration in the light of the reduction of expenditures, due almost wholly to shifting the military establishment of the nation from a war to a peace basis."

Col. Gaston speaks

Colonel William A. Gaston, the party's candidate for United States senator, referred in his address to the platform of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge at the republican administration had made a saving of $1,600,000,000 in the routine expenditures of the government.

"The facts are," said Col. Gaston, "that instead of saving an actual saving in the routine expenditures of the government, there was an increase of more than $20,000,000 in the cost of civil administration over 1921-22. The $1,600,000,000 erroneously credited by Senator Lodge as being saved by the administration in the light of the reduction of expenditures, due almost wholly to shifting the military establishment of the nation from a war to a peace basis."

BRITISH COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF SENDS ULTIMATUM TO TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26, 4:45 p. m.—(By the Associated Press)—General Harington, the British commander-in-chief here, sent an ultimatum today to Mustapha Kemal at Smyrna by wireless, giving him 48 hours from the receipt of the telegram, to withdraw his forces from Kum Kaleh (Kum Kaleh) at the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Warships in Secret Rendezvous

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 26.—Four battleships and more than a score of destroyers of the Atlantic fleet had a secret rendezvous today somewhere off the Virginia Capes in preparation for the mimic air attack to be made upon them tomorrow by naval torpedo planes. Under present plans the air forces will leave the Norfolk base at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning to seek out the fleet and "destroy" it.

Inquest Into Mrs. Pease's Death Complete

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The inquest into the death of Mrs. Sabra Maude Pease, whose body was found floating off Wintrop last week, was completed today. The report was not made public but Lieut. Frank Douglas of the Wintrop police said that officials were convinced the woman committed suicide. Arthur H. Pease, her husband, is being held on a charge of murder.

To Enforce Metal Door and Trim Decision

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Heads of 16 international building trades unions gathered here today to discuss means of enforcing the metal door and trim decision handed down two years ago by the national board of jurisdictional awards for the building industry which all trades have accepted except the carpenters. Pressure will be brought on the carpenters to accept the decision, it was said.

To Import 500 Cigarmakers From Cuba

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 26.—Officials of the Tampa Cigar Manufacturers' association announced today that because of a shortage of cigarmakers in the Tampa district, where every available workman now is employed, the association had requested permission of the bureau of immigration to import at least 500 cigarmakers here from Cuba. The association it was said, would pay the transportation expenses of those returning at the conclusion of the present rush of production in the industry.

"PAROLE" SYSTEM AT R. R. HEADS PROTEST CHICAGO COLLEGE

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Students commonly called as "slugs" in their studies and frequently denied a complete college course will be accepted under a "parole" system as Northwestern university, while select groups of more advanced students will be allowed to proceed as rapidly as they wish in their college work as their mental equipment will permit, according to Walter Dill Scott, president of the university.

A mark of 54 points is a passing grade in these tests. Students failing to score that high are interviewed and their high school records examined. If poor work in high school is found to be due to just causes, the student may enter the university on "parole" subject for himself a private tutor, who on approval by university authorities becomes the student's collegiate supervisor.

Many of those who have seen the motion picture films of the contest maintain that Carpenter was clearly tripped by his opponent, Victor Breyer, one of the judges, is one of those taking this view, but he expressed the belief that such a foul by Siki could not have affected the outcome as Carpenter was already a beaten man.

SAY PICTURES SHOW CARP WAS TRIPPED

PARIS, Sept. 26 (by the Associated Press)—The controversy over the dramatic battle of the Georges Carpentier-Battling Siki fight continues, and the former's manager, Deschamps, persists in his appeals to the boxing federation for a reversal of the judges' decision awarding the championship to the Senegalese.

Many of those who have seen the motion picture films of the contest maintain that Carpenter was clearly tripped by his opponent, Victor Breyer, one of the judges, is one of those taking this view, but he expressed the belief that such a foul by Siki could not have affected the outcome as Carpenter was already a beaten man.

MERGERS

—and other momentous developments that always exert a marked influence on the price of stock—most inevitably accompany (or precipitate) RAGS, BULLS, MARKETS, and generally the works of market operators, or groups of them.

A big business deal usually has a well defined market and—very necessary in order to provide the financial success—and an able operator or two in charge of the campaign.

This is often manifested not only in the financial world, but in the minor movements of the general list.

The outstanding feature of our weekly market news service just now is a series of intimate, human interest articles on "STOCK MARKET OPERATORS."

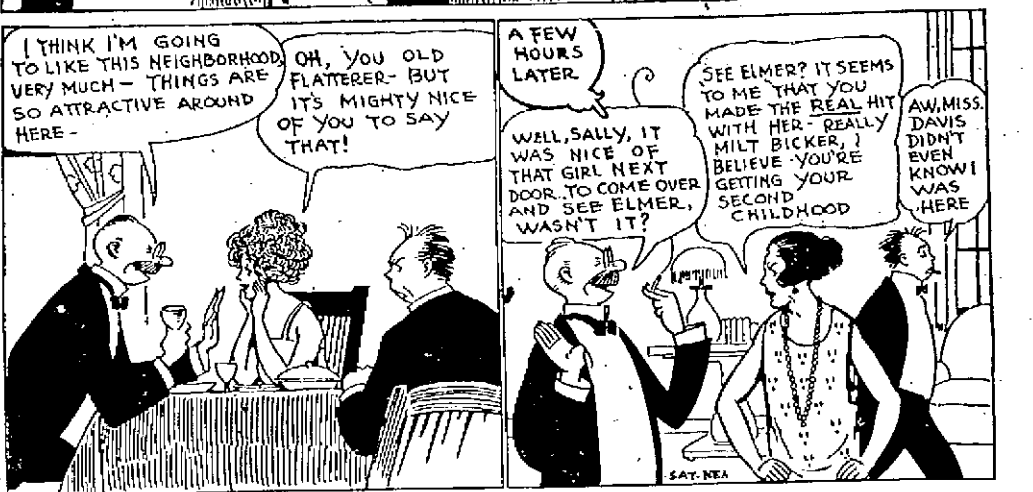

Sketching the careers of such men as James R. Keene, Jay Gould and others of heavy caliber in stock market battles, a study of these articles may be as profitable as any "news" in attempting to analyze the underlying reasons for market happenings.

With an excellent Market Letter with an unusually attractive feature. Copies on request.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

More Autoists Charged With Driving While Intoxicated
—Other Cases

William Lessard was found guilty on the charge of drunkenness in the district court this morning and was held in $300 bonds until tomorrow morning for sentence and Joseph P. Deard, who was charged with drunkenness and operating an automobile while drunk, was found guilty and held in $500 to the same date.

The men were arrested on Lakewood avenue after Deard, who was driving the car had broken a plate glass window in a market on that street. At the time Lessard had a 1921 chauffeur's license with him but did not have one for 1922. He told the police that he had been a license holder, but was not a driver at the time of the arrest.

The court, in the case of Deard, in order that they might investigate the man's statement as to such a case Lessard is responsible by statute for Deard's actions.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Owen P. McQuade, O.M.I. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara A. Kane and Mr. Frank Flinnerty acted as best man. After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin will make their home in Wellington avenue.

FALL RIVER KICKS ON HEATLESS SCHOOLS

FALL RIVER, Sept. 27.—Complaints from many schools about the cold and about illness to teachers and children resulting therefrom caused the municipal authorities yesterday to change the stand they had taken to provide no heat for the schools for sometime hence. Classes at the Watson school were dismissed on account of the cold. The situation on the other hand yesterday, it is understood, where heads of several schools reported to Supt. of Schools Bellis that they could assume no further responsibility unless heat were furnished in the buildings. Supt. Bellis got in touch with Supt. of Buildings Grant with the result that orders went forward to school janitors to turn on the steam.

MAYOR FAVORS NEW POLICE STATION

The next public building for Lowell will be a new police station at the plant as outlined this morning by Mayor Geo. H. Brown materialize. In a word the mayor says that he is working on some plan whereby a provision will be made in next year's budget for a new station. The mayor pointed out that it was too late this year to do anything, but assured something would be attempted next year.

An up-to-date station, with a gymnasium, improved guard room and a court room would be among the many features of the proposed new building. Sleeping rooms for 150 men would be provided which would give single men a chance to have a good gymnasium, home and headquarters all rolled into one. Police matters would be facilitated in this manner as there would always be a corps of officers on hand for any emergency that might arise.

The mayor said that he had thought of a new station for the department 24 years ago but throughout the span of years between then and now he had no opportunity to carry through his plan.

EVACUATION OF THRACE DEMANDED

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The Angora government has decided to send a note to the powers demanding the immediate evacuation of Thrace, according to a statement attributed by the Figaro to a Greek official. The note is expected to be held in exchange for Greeks made captive by the Turks.

Forid Bey declared the Turks had not recognized establishment of a neutral zone, and added, "If the Kemalists government accepts the zone you may accept it, but in any case, acceptance must coincide only with the meeting of the preliminary armistice conference where we shall demand evacuation of Thrace and restoration of the country to Ottoman sovereignty."

Funeral Director James W. McKenna to charge.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Lowell Council Plans Columbus Day Program Including Night Before Concert

The Columbus day program of Lowell council, No. 73, Knights of Columbus, was determined upon last night at an interesting meeting of the special committee, presided over by the lecturer of the council, John V. Donoghue. It was unanimously voted to open the festivities with a concert and appropriate exercises in the hall on the evening prior to the holiday. The program will embrace speech-making, smoke-inn, musical entertainment and a collation. As this will mark the first "night before" event ever held in connection with Oct. 12, the committee plans to make it worthy of the occasion.

Plans for the annual communion day of St. Peter's church where mass will be celebrated, the exact hour to be announced. Special music will be rendered during the services and, as of yore, a big attendance of Knights is expected.

MOVING TO THE NEW AUDITORIUM

Members of Ladd & Whitney Post, 155 G.A.R., are giving up their old quarters at 155 Central street, which they have been occupying for a great many years and today the furniture and other paraphernalia of the organization is being moved into the new quarters of the post in the Memorial Auditorium.

It may be stated that for the past three years the post, through the courtesy of the Trades & Labor council has had the free use of its hall in Central street. When the Trades & Labor council leased the two top floors of the Cook Taylor Co. building in Central street three years ago, Post 155 was occupying spacious quarters on the top floor of the building. Instead of notifying the post that it would have to seek other quarters, the council informed its officers that until further notice the veterans could hold their meetings and social gatherings in their hall and that the rent would be free.

Today Charles E. Anderson, president of the Trades & Labor council, received the following letter of thanks from the commander of the post:

Dear Sir:—As the Memorial Auditorium is finished and the quarters set apart for the G.A.R. are ready for occupancy, we will hold our next meeting on Thursday, Sept. 28, 1922, there. We are moving our furniture now and will vacate your rooms, that for so long have been a home to us, as rapidly as possible.

We wish to thank you very gratefully and, through you, the Trades & Labor council for the many courtesies received from you and them. The three flights of stairs and consideration for the infirmity of the comrades prompt us to move.

Agreeing to thank you and wishing you all possible success,
Yours sincerely,
FRANKLIN S. PEVEY, Commander.

NEEDS OF LOWELL DISCUSSED BY NOTED PLANNING EXPERT

John Nolen of Cambridge Addresses Members of Chamber of Commerce and Ad Club at Noon-day Meeting in Liberty Hall—Tells of City's Facilities, Shortcomings and Need of Modern Planning and Zoning Scheme

John Nolen of Cambridge, acknowledged city planning and zoning expert, came to Lowell today to point out to members of the chamber of commerce and Ad club wherein the city is at fault in its general lay-out, wherein its virtues lie and to stress the great need of a complete and thorough planning scheme for the municipality, to properly treat its life.

He spoke at a luncheon held in Liberty hall at the Memorial Auditorium—the first gathering to be held in that section of the beautiful building, by the way—and there were at least 300 men and women present to hear him.

Always directly to the point, whether or not it tickled the civic pride of many in his audience, Mr. Nolen bluntly classified many of the city's glaring faults. He said he did not believe he had been asked to come to throw bouquets and he did not toss any unless he believed they were richly deserved.

It was a cold, business-like analysis of municipal life embraced within the complex of the city as he has viewed it and he covered street conditions, taxes, valuations of property, parks and playgrounds, public buildings and the appearance and location of schools and other civic centers.

Of the Auditorium itself, he had but words of glowing praise, but said it should take the form of an illustration for still greater accomplishments in the future. It was his belief that the

LIST OF ALLEGED PLANNING BOARD SUGGESTIONS REPUDIATED

Member of Unconfirmed Board Says Published List Does Board Appointees an Injustice—Majority of Suggestions Beyond the Scope of Planning Board's Authority

A long list of suggestions, appearing in a morning paper today, purporting to come from the city planning board and dealing with multitudinous subjects that might have to do with the social, moral and economic development of Lowell, was repudiated almost instantly by one of the men recently appointed to the board, who emphatically states that the board has made no

NEW YORK "FLAPPER SHOP" FAILS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Long rows of the ground-ripper variety, cambric hats and all the other woman of the world type of female fittings broadcast from Paris late this summer are winning the battle against the sporty, short-skirted, dinky-pated apparels of flapperdom. It became apparent today with the announcement of the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against "The Flapper Shop," where Miss Fannie Lathall has been dispensing equipment to the fast disappearing flapper tribe.

The bobbed headed girls of Greenwich Village and Times Square changed their allegiance from New York to the Rue de La Paix so out-

Unofficial Forecast of Nationalist Reply to Allies—Kemalist Army Refuses to Recognize Neutral Zone—Occupies Bigha and Massacres 900—British Preparing Three Lines of Entrenchment—Reinforcements on Way—Wireless to Chanak Prevented Outbreak of Hostilities

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27, 12.35 p. m.—(By the Associated Press)—It is unofficially forecast that the Kemalist reply to the allied peace note contains conditions unacceptable to the allies; in that the nationalists insist upon the use of the straits for transporting troops to Thrace before the beginning of the peace conference.

CONCENTRATION OF TURKISH TROOPS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press) While the Anatolian cabinet, sitting at Smyrna, is completing its reply to the allied note, the nationalist army continues its feverish concentration of troops on the island and Chanak lines. Mustafa Kemal Pasha now has 1100 men in Kum Kaleh, at the mouth of the Dardanelles; 5000 at Adramytti, 50 miles southeast of Chanak; 10,000 in the intervening Samsak of Khrass and considerable forces in the other areas. The nationalist leader expects these

LIPPS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Lowell Man Charged With Illegal Keeping is Discharged by Court

Carl F. Lipps, who was arraigned in district court on Monday on the charge of illegal keeping of liquor and whose case was continued till today, was found not guilty by Judge Enright this morning. The court said that he was not satisfied on the evidence offered that Lipps was guilty. The liquor taken by the officers from Mr. Lipps' place of business will be returned to him.

In the trial of the case on Monday, members of the liquor squad testified that a garage on Moody street, where Lipps works in a repair station, had been under surveillance for some time.

VETERANS' POLL TAX ABATEMENTS

Any veteran who desires the $3 abatement on poll taxes in accordance with the law must file his desire with the assessors before Monday, October 2 at 6 o'clock. Veterans who fought in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the World war are included in this tax abatement for the year of 1922.

According to the law, the veterans have 30 days after the sending out of the tax bills in which to apply for abatement. The bills were dated July 1 and the time will expire Sunday, Oct. 1. The soldiers are given the extra day and Sunday is not included so that Monday will be the last day.

The assessors' office calls attention to the fact that discharge papers must be presented at the time of the application. This is most important and should not be forgotten.

concentrations to be completed by Sept. 30, which date coincides with the time set for the final evacuation of refugees from Smyrna. It is considered significant here that Gen. Nureddin Pasha, military governor of Smyrna, has declared he cannot guarantee the lives of the Christians in Smyrna after that date. This is taken to mean that the Kemalists want to clear decks for action in the event the allies reject their reply.

The British are no less busy strengthening their lines and checking every move made by the Kemalists.

The Sultan's cabinet met in special session yesterday and decided not to ratify unless so ordered by the Kemal government.

NEW TEACHERS ARE ELECTED

Salaries of Several Teachers and 10 Head Janitors Increased Last Night

Four new teachers for the continuation and Vocational schools and three new janitors were elected by the school committee last night at its regular September meeting. Also, salaries were increased in several instances and Walter R. Taylor was transferred from the work of physical education in the elementary schools to safety-first work.

It was another of those midnight sessions that seem to have attained such peculiar popularity with the press.

FIRE AT NEWPORT, R. I.

Blaze Broke Out in Ice House and Spread to 20 Buildings—Loss $50,000

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 27.—Fire breaking out at noon today, in a small stable owned by the Newport Ice Co. in the rear of the Newport Casino, rapidly spread to 20 buildings in a block surrounded by Merion road, Bath road, Freebody and Middlesex avenues, causing damage which will exceed $50,000. At 1:45 the fire was not under control, despite efforts of the entire Newport fire department, with aid of many volunteers. The fire was of a mysterious origin and followed another fire at the small stable several months ago.

Twenty families were forced to remove what personal effects they could save and three firemen were overcome by smoke, requiring medical treatment. Fireman John Doyle being sent to the hospital and Fireman Joseph Kerwin being ordered home.

trenching in the neutral zone, which they refuse to recognize. The British military command has given them 45 hours in which to retire, and is preparing three lines of entrenchments in the region from Pandik to Yurine, along the Anatolian railway.

In addition to Keni Keni and Kum Kaleh the Kemalists are in possession of Bigha. A special despatch, not confirmed, from any other source, says occupation of the latter place was accompanied by the massacre of the entire Greek and Armenian population, numbering about 500.

The British commanders are confident they can keep the Turks from crossing the straits or capturing Constantinople until the arrival of the formidable reinforcements now on the way.

The reply of the Ankara government to the allied note, outlining the conditions under which a peace conference could be held, is anxiously awaited, but it is feared that even an acceptance would not relieve the present situation in any great degree, as the Turks are understood to be prepared to demand freedom of military action during the conference.

ELECTION COMMISSION IS STILL RETICENT

"Nothing to say yet," is the report of the elections commission which is locked in the janitors' room at city hall and said to be verifying names attached to a petition filed in favor of Plan B charter.

About the only positive information that can be gleaned is that the commission is still in the little room. Even this is taking a bit of liberty for although the members of the commission were seen going in, there is no positive proof they are still there, for the room is said to have windows.

Now and then the door opens a crack, some member of the commission sweeps the corridor with a broom, quickly pulls open the door and nimbly jumps into the hall and, with almost the same movement closes the door. Some of them have got the procedure down to a point where the whole exercise can be made in one move.

As one member popped into the hall this morning he was asked how things were going.

"The reply came back, 'We have nothing to say.' The newspaper men hung on and asked if the task would be completed today. The same answer was forthcoming. After several questions brought forth the same answer the reporters gave it up for a bad job. The two clerks, John King and James Redmond, were appealed to and, whether it was from orders received or the fact that they might have been talking with the 'minding to say team,' they uttered the phrase with the well known expression, 'We have nothing to say.'

BIG AGRICULTURAL FAIR IN CHELMSFORD

Sixteen-foot corn, 20 ounces apples, Chelmsford-grown peapods and all kinds, four-crop alfalfa, highland rice, mangle beets as big around as a telephone pole and September strawberries and raspberries were only a few of the prize drawing cards for the annual fair and exhibition of Chelmsford Orange No. 241, in Chelmsford Centre, this afternoon.

Beginning at 3 o'clock, the grounds hall was a busy place with novel exhibits of all kinds, a wide variety of

DOWNFALL OF GREEK GOVERNMENT—KING'S ABDICATION CONFIRMED

Revolutionary Movement Led By Gen. Gonatas Making Rapid Headway in All Directions—Warships Manned By Revolutionaries Advancing on Athens—Constantine Loses Throne For Second Time in Five Years

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Greece is in the throes of a revolution which has already caused the downfall of the government and according to several reports from Athens has forced the unhappy Constantine to abdicate in favor of the crown prince, thus losing his throne for the second time in five years.

The revolutionary movement which is said to be led by General Gonatas is making headway in all directions, but thus far without reports of bloodshed.

The insurrection which while not altogether looked for, broke out in a formidable force with unexpected suddenness, had its inception among the vanquished troops brought from Smyrna to the islands of Mitilene and Chios, and among the soldiers at Saloniki. Strangely enough, however, these two revolts

Pope Appeals to Turkish Commander

ROME, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Pope Pius today telegraphed Mustafa Kemal Pasha urging that the Turkish commander adopt every possible measure to avoid further bloodshed.

Rebellion Breaks Out in Albania

ROME, Sept. 27.—Rebellion has broken out in Albania and the insurgents are marching from the south toward the capital at Tirana, according to unconfirmed reports received from Albania, via Bari. The government troops have been reported defeated. Steamer laden with refugees are said to have left Valona, bound for Brindisi.

Peasant Groups Set Upon Administration

SOFIA, Sept. 27.—Peasant groups continue to invade the villages and drive out the mayors and municipal officials. They have established municipal administrations of their choosing. Five former ministers were arrested last night in connection with the recent disorders. The ministers arrested were those who were attacked by peasant partisans last week. They had been held in custody by the peasants and later released.

TO PUNISH VIOLATORS OF INJUNCTION ORDER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 27.—Violators of the injunction order issued against textile strikers in the Pawtuxet valley will be punished but the Rhode Island courts will be used merely as a club to settle an industrial dispute. Justice Chester W. Barrows in superior court today told counsel when he granted continuance of two weeks to seven men and three women, cited to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt for alleged violation of the injunction as the result of a disturbance at the Valley Queen mill of H. B. & R. Knight, Inc., Woonsocket, on Sept. 15.

seem to have different objects—the former aimed at the overthrow of the government and King Constantine, and the latter at the defense of Thrace against the Turks.

It is pointed out that should the abdication of King Constantine become effective and should the crown prince refuse to serve, then the king's younger brother Prince Christopher, probably would be called upon to continue the dynasty. This assumption would place Prince Anastasia, the former Mrs. William Leedes, in the position of queen.

The report has been published here that Princess Anastasia some time ago, arranged for King Constantine to go to America to live in the event of his abdication.

At least part of the navy has gone against the government and several warships and transports manned by revolutionaries are believed to be advancing on the capital from the Aegean islands, where the revolt originated.

Direct advice from Athens are lacking, indicating that censorship is in effect.

Official circles here believe former Premier Venizelos has had no part in the revolt. His sense of his importance, however, and his large personal following in Greece, it is pointed out that he will hardly be able to avoid figuring in the subsequent developments.

Abdication Confirmed
LONDON, Sept. 27, 8.06 p. m.—(By the Associated Press) Confirmation of King Constantine's abdication has been received by the British foreign office. It was announced this evening.

Demand Pro-Entente Cabinet
ATHENS, Sept. 27. (By the Associated Press)—An ultimatum from the warship Lemnos, which arrived at Laurium, on the Peninsula southeast of Athens, with a strong force of troops, demanded the dissolution of the national assembly and the formation of a people's cabinet friendly to the entente.

A second ultimatum declared it was considered the national assembly had already been dissolved and it demanded the creation of a pro-entente cabinet whose members would be appointed by the revolutionaries.

Revolt Started on Islands
LONDON, Sept. 27 (By the Associated Press)—A number of Greek warships and transports manned by revolutionaries were reported to have left the islands.

Radio

RADIO MAY RUN OUR LIVES

If radio keeps on developing much farther, we may find our lives being regulated by this new science from early morning until bedtime.

A glance at the programs of broadcasting stations already being followed leads one to this conclusion. Radio lectures of all sorts are sent out at 10 o'clock in the morning, 2 in the afternoon and 8 in the evening.

There are talks during the day on news reports during the day. That, however, could be most suitably broadcast during the breakfast hour.

News Reports

That is just the time when the business man wants his newspaper. Clipping the headlines to his ears, while munching his toast, he listens in on the happenings of the previous day. At the same time he may learn of the weather for the day.

If he has not heard all the news during breakfast, he listens to it on his ride downtown. Yes, there are already convenient receiving sets for automobiles—those that need no aerial, batteries or other cumbersome attachments.

For Housewives

For the benefit of the housewife, her 10 o'clock lecture may be a talk on baby care, or on household economy, or menu list for luncheon. And recipes for new dishes could be included.

At 2 o'clock also, the housewife may listen in on suggestions for dinner, with new recipes. Latest fashion designs could be broadcast at that time. And, so that talks for housewives may not be confined to the home alone, she may receive a daily educational lecture and late news reports.

Thus it will be that radio will include all possible activities of humanity, from morning until night. Radio will be staying at home more than ever, for it will be there that they will know the world best.

radiating over a 300 mile radius. As he is a member of the League, he can communicate with stations nearby and messages can be sent even further because of the many members of this league who are spread throughout the country.

Many local amateur radio fans can listen in to the League. Mr. Olson and Mr. Taylor, the head of the radio club here, which take place almost every evening between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock on a wave length of 220 metres.

Mr. Olson has been interested in telegraphy for the last six years and has had a radio set for the last three years.

He is a charter member of the Lowell Radio club and is greatly interested in all radio work, possessing a commercial license, and is a member of the American Radio Relay League. He uses a 20 watt C. W. continuous wave transmitter and has sent voice messages as far as New York. He has sent messages in code as far as Rome, Ga., approximately 1000 miles from Lowell.

Mr. Olson has been able to receive voice messages from a greater distance, having received messages from Danvers, Ia., giving him a receiving area of about 1500 miles. He uses a two-tube receiver.

At present Mr. Olson is setting up a special set with a loud voice device in his home in West Chelmsford preparatory to his receiving returns of the World Series. He has had a large audience at his home for the past two years at the time of the series, and they have received the news of the game, play by play, within a few minutes after it has taken place.

During the past few years he has received the reports of all the big sporting events such as the Dempsey-Carpenter fight, the Leonard-Pendler fight, and the recent Davis Cup championship tennis matches.

Mr. Olson says that he will be glad to send messages for any one who wishes and can send such messages directly.

FAIR-PRICE PROSPERITY

BECAUSE the woolen and worsted fabrics made by the American Woolen Company stand before the world as the best that can be made for the price, the American Woolen Company is able to provide for the happiness and prosperity of more than 35,000 workers by keeping them employed under pleasant, healthful conditions at fair wages.

The success of the company is necessary to the welfare of the workers. Contented workers, living and working under pleasant conditions, make the production of fine fabrics move more smoothly and efficiently.

It's a sort of endless chain of action and reaction—therefore, the American Woolen Company has been a leader in improving the living and working conditions of the worker just as it has led the world in the development of textile processes and the making of fine fabrics.

ventually relatives in order to retain his independence, he has abundant opportunity to display the drill line of comedy for which he has become famous. He is assisted in his character by Harry Myers, who, in the role of Danny Pleading, is a bit more starved than the star.

From a humorous angle on the struggle of impoverished artists, the picture veers into the high-lights of society. Morgan and his clown stage their debut in the exclusive social set on a 50-50 basis, the split involving a division of the various appointments of evening dress, each one contributing about half the outfit.

Johnny Dalton is again a dance hall girl in "The Siren Call," the second feature for the week-end. She enacts a role similar to that which she played in "The Girl in the Picture of the Yucca." There is a bit more thrills in the action and Miss Dalton is the central figure of a sensational story. David Powell is the leading man.

"A Trip Through Filmland" tells the industrial story of the making of a film from the cotton grower to the studio. It was taken at Kodak park, Rochester, N. Y., and is believed to be the first production of its kind ever made. The picture takes the audience through every step in the process of film making. The Johnny Hines comedy and the latest International News will complete the bill.

THE STRAND

The romance, the comedy, the drama and the human sympathy of our everyday American life is truthfully reflected in "The Wall Flower," the leading comedy feature at the Strand. It is shown for the last time today. It's the story of a girl who thought herself a wall flower until chance brought sunshine into her life. Colleen Moore plays the little role. Shirley Mason in "The Ragged Dicks," the romance of a poor girl who was rich, is the other feature, to say nothing of the comedy and weekly.

Beginning Thursday, and continuing through the remainder of the week, Tom Mix the cowboy star in "The Fighting Striker" and Marie Prevost in "The Married Flapper" will be the attractions. "The former offering is a characteristic Mix thriller, with new stunts and a new story. Miss Prevost's film creation is a story concerning that appealing type of femininity known as "the flapper." The vivacious little star is seen at her best as a 100 per cent flapper.

H. K. REEFUS THEATRE
Heading the splendid bill of vaudeville at the H. K. Reefus theatre this week, is Marion Murray, a good actor, who has been backed by C. C. C. and Co. in "Lakes and Ditches." It is an unusual theme, with a careful study of human nature and withal, it is filled with comedy. Crafts & Hiley in a conversational skit are also prime entertainers, and Ben Smith, singer and monologist, also adds to the entire bill. It is exceedingly good. Among

CITIZENS' ALLIANCE
HOLDS MEETING
Boyd P. Doty of Boston gave an interesting talk last night at the organization meeting of the Citizens' Alliance, which was held at the Y.M.C.A. There was also an instructive discussion of the work of the alliance.

Mr. Doty, the principal speaker, said that, as the 15th amendment to the constitution was in active operation in all the states and territories of the country, with the exception of Massachusetts, it is only fitting that the laws of this state should be made to conform to those of the entire country. At the present time, he said, Massachusetts has no law in force which prohibits the manufacture, transportation or importation of liquor. An important feature of the meeting was the choice of officers to conduct a campaign among the people of the city in order to get their support in behalf of a referendum that is to appear on the ballots in the state election in November. This referendum concerns a law which was enacted by the state to enforce the provisions of the 18th amendment to the constitution. The officers chosen were: Chairman, L. A. Olney; Vice chairman, E. A. Jenkins; Treasurer, James Walsh, Jr.; Secretary, Harold P. Howe; committee on publicity, Benjamin Pouzner, R. T. Drew, Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy and E. T. Shaw; committee in charge of enrollment and registration, Rev. W. J. Setzer and George Holden.

Samuel H. Thompson of this city, chairman of the state campaign committee of the Citizens' alliance, outlined the work that is being carried on by the state organization and made several suggestions as to what course of action the local branch might take. At the conclusion of the addresses by the two speakers, Mr. L. A. Olney presided over a meeting of the members present in regard to the method in which the proposed work might be carried out.

THE FACE IN THE MIRROR
Your face, does it wear the contented expression of good health, or are the features drawn and pallid? In the latter case, your story is read by all who see you, and what woman of spirit wants to be pitied for her physical condition? There is a way to get the nervous, tired lines out of your face and the slump out of your body. The use of that standard remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will strengthen the nerves and tone up the system to resist that excessive fatigue. ADV.

Rupture Kills 8,000 Annually
Eight thousand persons each year are laid away—their burial certificate being marked "ruptured." Many of these unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the rupture as it came, without paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you waiting until you are so weak that you cannot support yourself by wearing a truss, appliance or whatever name you choose to call it? A false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, the truss is only a makeshift of that which they need most—circulation.

But science has found a way, and all true sufferers in the land are invited to make "Rupture Kills" their guide. It is their own homes. The PLAPAD method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful method for rupture the world has ever known.

PLAPAD PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or get out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. It is as velvet—easy to apply—comparatively inexpensive. To be used at night, you wear it whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

See how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture ceases to exist. Send for the PLAPAD PAD. 210 Street Bldg., St. Louis, Mo., for PLAPAD trial pads and instructive information.—(C) P.L.A.

LOCAL EAGLES ENTERTAIN HIGH OFFICIALS OF THE ORDER

Grand Secretary John S. Perry of Kansas City and Past President C. T. Laird of Boston Speak at Enthusiastic Gathering of 500 Members Last Night

John S. Perry of Kansas City, making his first trip east, must be greatly impressed with New England hospitality, such as was accorded him last night in Eagles hall, when as grand secretary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, he addressed 500 members of the organization, being conducted by the organization's Past Worthy President, Charles T. Laird of Boston, accompanied Mr. Perry to this city, and from the fine things he said about the local eagle the local membership has every reason to be proud.

Paid Respect
The Eagles organization has gained renown for the stellar social events they have held here in past years and the affair last night lived up to the others as far as a good time was concerned.

There was nothing formal to the event; it was just an assembly to pay respects to the high officials of the order and for the men to meet on a common footing and call each other "brother." It was easily the largest gathering of local Eagles in years and those who attended will long remember the affair as one of the most pleasant in the history of the local order.

Worthy President Timothy F. Parry called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock and introduced Hon. James E. O'Donnell as toastmaster for the occasion. He spoke in glowing terms of the work done by the local eagle and impressed upon the gathering the importance of having present two such esteemed members of the great order. He then introduced Mr. Laird as the first speaker.

Mr. Laird's address was based upon

MRS. H. A. TAYLOR

DO YOU SUFFER? BACKACHE OR PAIN OVER KIDNEYS?

Wonderful Relief Is Here Told.

Utica, N. Y.—"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Anuria Tablets for kidneys and backache. I have never known a medicine that would give such quick relief. For kidney disorder, my back would be lame through the region of the kidneys and I also suffered with rheumatism and stiffness of the joints. Just recently I learned of Anuria and began its use. I have only taken it a very short time but have derived wonderful relief. My kidneys have become active and seemingly in a normal state and I do not suffer with backache and stiffness of the joints. To those who suffer as I did I would suggest Dr. Pierce's Anuria Tablets. Mrs. H. A. Taylor, 302 Kane street.

This anti-uric acid remedy of Dr. Pierce's for backache and kidneys (called "Anuria") is now, but it can be had at your neighborhood drug store, or send 10c. for trial package to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

The old age pension feature of the organization and in the most simple and convincing manner he showed the great feeling of comfort an Eagle has in the realization that he will be taken care of in declining years if aid from other sources is not forthcoming.

Explains Pension

He first asked why an old age pension was needed at all and then answered the question by saying that no scientific system of wages to provide the working man against old age or sickness had been devised. This speaker advanced many other reasons why the old age pension was a great institution and gave a most logical line of reasoning for its connections with the order of which he was one-time president.

Following Mr. Laird's talk a splendid program of music and reading was enjoyed. George D. Freeman entertained at the piano. Patrick T. Grady with a political stump speech monolog, and Leo DeGeorge, James E. Donnelly, Francis A. Connor, John D. Devlin and Daniel J. McCaffrey with songs. A brief recess was held, during which time refreshments were served.

Mr. Perry was then introduced and spoke as follows:

"The Fraternal Order of Eagles is now in its 25th year. As it rounds out its quarter of a century of healthy, helpful existence, it finds itself stronger in numbers than it has ever before. Its history, recorded in its financial status, stronger in the before good will of the communities which it strives to serve.

Its Beginnings

"It had its beginning in Seattle, Wash., in a group of about a dozen men who had banded together for companionship and mutual helpfulness. That little group has since become what is known as the Mother Aerie, numbering today approximately 7000 members. This human desire which held together the original group has become the inspiring motive of the half million men who are now members of the order.

"Patriotism led the founder of the fraternity to adopt the name 'Eagles' after the Great Bird of our country. Naturally, the societies in which the members gathered were named aeries—that is, eagle's nests. The complete organization consists of subordinate aeries, or local societies, state aeries, having certain geographical jurisdiction, and a grand aerie, which embraces the entire order.

"Now if you ask any member why he has joined the Eagles, ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will tell you, with a certain approving emphasis, 'For the benefits.' These are the services of the aerie physician, the sick benefit and the funeral benefit, all of which are substantial. For the socially inclined—and the Eagles are famous for that inclination—the order is also a year-round program of high class entertainment and wholesome recreation. Later, tens of thousands have joined the order, also because of its championship and active leadership of the movement to establish old age pensions.

"Although membership is confined to men, the benefits and the social life of the fraternity are extended in many ways to include the wives, mothers and children, and often the friends of members.

Social Benefactor

"The crowning achievement of this order in its role as social benefactor, however, bids fair to be the early adoption in the strong Eagle states of laws establishing pensions for those

STARTED OUT TO SHOOT REDSKINS

Bill Hart and Jesse James, in the persons of two young boys, one seven years of age and the other nine, started out on an expedition yesterday to shoot a few redskins, armed with a 32-caliber bullet revolver, fully loaded. The two youngsters decided on a spot in the rear of the brewery as the scene of their battle and in the struggle with the "heavy varmints" fired the gun once. Motorcycles Officer Andrew Hunter was attracted to the scene by the noise of the shot and began an investigation. He discovered the two youngsters with the piece of heavy artillery, who had started from their homes in the quest of adventure with a capital A. They were taken from a bureau in their home and had started forth on an expedition to the wild and woolly land of adventure. When the children were searched at the police station the officers also discovered a large flashlight in addition to the gun.

developments closely, the cabinet ministers and defense experts meeting daily for consultation.

One battalion each of the Goldstream Guards, Royal Fusiliers and Rifle Brigade are leaving Aldershot today for the Near East and other troops will follow Saturday.

Naval reinforcement continue to stream toward the straits, sent of the heavier units including the dreadnoughts Revenge, Ramilies, Centurion and Malaya and the aircraft carrier Vindictive.

BRITISH COMMANDER MAKES DENIAL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—Gen. Harrington, the British commander, has issued a contradiction to the rumor circulating in Turkish circles to the effect that the British are recruiting Greeks and Armenians to fight the nationalists. This rumor, says the general, is characteristic of the mischievous disaffected elements who are putting such statements in circulation in order to sow discord.

8000 Troops Off For "Front"
ALDERSHOT, England, Sept. 27.—Nearly 8000 soldiers of all ranks left here today for embarkation to the Near East.

TURKISH REPLY EVADES QUESTION

LONDON, Sept. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, replying to General Harrington's ultimatum, evades the question of the withdrawal of the Turkish troops, as demanded, says a Reuter despatch from Constantinople, but declares that Kemal has no knowledge of a neutral zone. He complains of the action of the British in destroying buildings and roads, and concludes by saying he concurs with the allies in the desire to avoid incidents.

MORE TURKS INVADE CHANAK ZONE

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) More Turkish nationalist troops have drifted into the Chanak zone, according to official advice from Constantinople today. This is not regarded in authoritative quarters, however, as aggravating the situation much and the opinion was expressed in these quarters that trouble would be avoided.

No word has yet been received from Kemal Pasha in answer to the ultimatum giving him 48 hours for the removal of the troops in this area, but the British are inclined to give him all possible leeway to avoid a clash.

GREEK DIVISION ESCAPES FROM TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) An independent Greek division comprising 8000 men, has been landed at Rodosto, after a remarkable escape from the Turkish army in the Smyrna region.

U. S. TO CO-OPERATE WITH THE ALLIES

PARIS, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Declaration by Secretary Hughes that the American government favored protection of the racial and religious minorities in the Near East and the freedom of the Turkish straits was received most favorably by the French foreign office, although it had not been officially communicated to the government.

REPORT U. S. ADMIRAL TO DIRECT OPERATIONS

PARIS, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Vice Admiral Andrew T. Long, U.S.N., commander of the American naval forces in European waters, has gone to Constantinople to direct the naval operations should any become necessary in participation with the foreign squadrons. It was stated here today.

Vice Admiral Long's mission, it is explained, is quite apart from that of Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, the American high commissioner to Turkey, whose political jurisdiction will remain unchanged.

Washington Puzzled
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Paris news despatches announcing that Vice Admiral Long of the American navy had gone to Constantinople to direct possible "naval operations" were not understood in official circles here, where it was indicated that participation of American warships in any demonstration against the Turks was not a part of the present American policy toward the Near Eastern problem.

At the navy department it was said that so far as the Washington government had been advised, Admiral Long was on board his flagship, the battleship Utah, either at Lisbon or on the way to Gibraltar, where the Utah is due on October 2. It has been planned to go to Constantinople later, however.

but only for the purpose of observing conditions and co-operating with Rear Admiral Bristol in relief work.

The state department likewise was without official notification of any change in previous plans regarding the deployment of American warships in European waters and it was said that the policy of this government to confine its Near Eastern activities to relief measures, remained unaltered.

WIRELESS MESSAGE PREVENTED ATTACK

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) A wireless message sent to Chanak when the Turkish nationalists occupied Kum Kaleh and other points in the neutral zone was all that prevented an outbreak of hostilities between the British and Turks, it is learned.

Cel. Shuttleworth, commanding the British force in Chanak, was about to open fire on the advancing Kemalist cavalry squadrons when he received an urgent radio from Brigadier General Harrington in Constantinople instructing him to suspend the attack until all peaceful measures were exhausted.

In consequence a British officer was sent to the Kemalist lines under a white flag to inform the nationalist commander that unless he retreated the British would open fire. After further parleys the Turks were given 48 hours in which to withdraw beyond the neutral zone.

APPEAL TO WORKERS TO ACT TO HALT WAR

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Upon the heels of the Russian soviet note to the entente and Balkan states on the Near East situation, the Third International has addressed an appeal to the workers of the world urging them to do everything in their power to prevent the European imperialism, as the appeal expresses it, from taking up arms and plunging southeastern Europe into a new and far-reaching war.

The Turkish soldiers, inspired by the victories of the red armies, continue the appeal, have overthrown the allied designs for the enslavement of the Turkish people. It especially asks the workers of England, France, Yugoslavia and Rumania to use their efforts to force the entente to cease military preparations against the Turks, declaring this is part of the duty of the workers in the interest of the proletarian movement of the world.

LONDON COMMENT OF U. S. APPROVAL

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Secretary of State Hughes' formal assertion of the American policy toward the Turkish problem caused the Times in its late edition today to insert the following sentence in its editorial on the Near East:

"Knowledge that the allied policy has the approval of the United States may presently be held to counteract the influence of the European advisers of the Kemalists, whether in Moscow or Berlin."

TRIMMINGS

Needs of Lowell Discussed

Continued

Frank Ricard, president of the Ad club, George Wagner and Mrs. Bertha Olney, B. S. Pouszner, Albert W. David, Charles E. Anderson, and J. H. Guilford of the planning board, named but not yet organized.

An excellent dinner was served by the Page Co. Pleasing indeed were songs by Miss Sadie Sheehy and Charles Keyser, accompanied by George R. Smith. Mr. Keyser also led the singing of the Ad club's "Booster Song."

Edward Fisher, president of the chamber, as the presiding officer, expressed the gratification of the board of trustees at the particularly large attendance.

He spoke of the splendid facilities the Auditorium offers for meetings such as the monthly membership gatherings of the chamber and suggested the thought that today's meeting was in the form of dedicatory exercises for Liberty Hall.

Mr. Fisher then came to the purpose and idea of the meeting and prior to his introduction of Mr. Nolen, stressed the great need of proper planning and zoning in any modern progressive municipality.

"Lowell unquestionably, in this magnificent memorial stands at the threshold of a new era," declared Mr. Nolen, in opening. "This building either is to serve as an incentive to the accomplishments of city needs far beyond the scope of anything done heretofore, or it will cause a great deal of embarrassment, crying out for acts of civic worth, commensurate with its splendor and magnificence."

Mr. Nolen stated that he had made a trip about the city just before coming to the meeting.

"I received different impressions of Lowell," he said. "I fully realize the wonderful natural advantages you have. It is an ideal site for a municipality and there is no doubt of the stability and establishment of your industries, but also, ladies and gentlemen, there is no doubt of Lowell's shortcomings. In many respects, it is badly progressing along a wrong road, along a road that will exact a heavy financial toll in the end. It is being throttled where it should be given adequate elbow room."

Mr. Nolen spoke particularly of the arrangement and character of local business streets and said they give the impression of never having been studied. "They are made to a standard of 50 years ago and never have been altered with the advance of the times," he declared.

The speaker briefly outlined the ideas of zoning and planning and said that city planning today is simply an application of good business principles.

"City planning pays," he stated, "pays rich dividends both to individuals and to the city as a whole."

"City planning for Lowell, including a comprehensive plan of development, would not cost more than 10 cents per capita," said Mr. Nolen. Speaking particularly of Lowell, Mr. Nolen said he had not seen one public school in the city that answered the school problems.

"You have just completed a new high school costing two millions of dollars," he said, "but go over to it and look at the site and its location. Compare it with a new high school being built in East Northampton on a 10-acre tract of land. The site itself cost $150,000, but imagine, if you will, the wonderful advantages it will offer. It will be an inspiration. Does the site or location of your new school inspire you?" he asked.

Mr. Nolen spoke of Lowell's assessed valuation of land and buildings and said it is below the average, about 20 millions low.

Turning to Mayor Brown, he said: "So you see, Mr. Mayor, if your valuations were as high as they should be, with the present tax rate, you would have $600,000 in revenue to spend and no doubt you could find ways to spend it."

Mr. Nolen replied to the laughter that ensued by saying that he was not concerned with local politics.

In conclusion, he said Lowell needs a citizenship which will come by a unity of all factions, all people and all ideas.

Lipps Found Not Guilty

as it was suspected of being a transfer place for alleged illicit whiskey runners. Another member testified that the liquor officers had received a tip that there was to be a big transfer of liquor there on the night of Sept. 2.

A raid was made and a case of Scotch whiskey was discovered in the repair shop. The officers secured no other evidence and no transfer of liquor was made. The officers said that they believed that the men engaged in the business had been tipped off that a raid was to be made that night.

The officers arrested Lipps and took him to the station where, he was booked on the charge of illegal keeping of liquor.

In his defence Lipps testified that he had bought the liquor from a man who was known to him only by the name of "Joe" and that he had paid $76 for the case of whiskey. In answer to a question the defendant said that "Joe" often came to the garage for the purpose of selling liquor. On the date in question he said that he was approached by the unknown man, who is supposed to have come from Boston, and asked if he wanted to buy some liquor. Lipps asked the kind and the price and purchased a case of 12 bottles for $76, which the raiding officers found in his section of the garage. He maintained that he was not responsible for what was carried on in the other part of the building. He said that "Joe" came to the garage in a machine and that there were several other cases of whiskey in the back of the car. Mr. Lipps was represented by John A. Crowley, Esq.

MOLDED SALMON WITH PEAS
BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH, Of Columbia University.

1 pound salmon, freed from skin and bones
1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 1/2 cups thin cream or top milk
2 eggs, Slight grating of nutmeg
Turn into a buttered mold, set mold in a pan of water and bake until firm, about 20 minutes. Remove from mold and serve with one cup cream sauce to which has been added one cup cooked peas.

If this is baked in a border mold it is pretty to serve the peas in centre and sauce around the fish.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 27.—A second group of more than 60 former strikers was added to the force at the West Springfield Boston & Albany railroad shops today, making a total of 132 taken back to date, under the peace agreement.

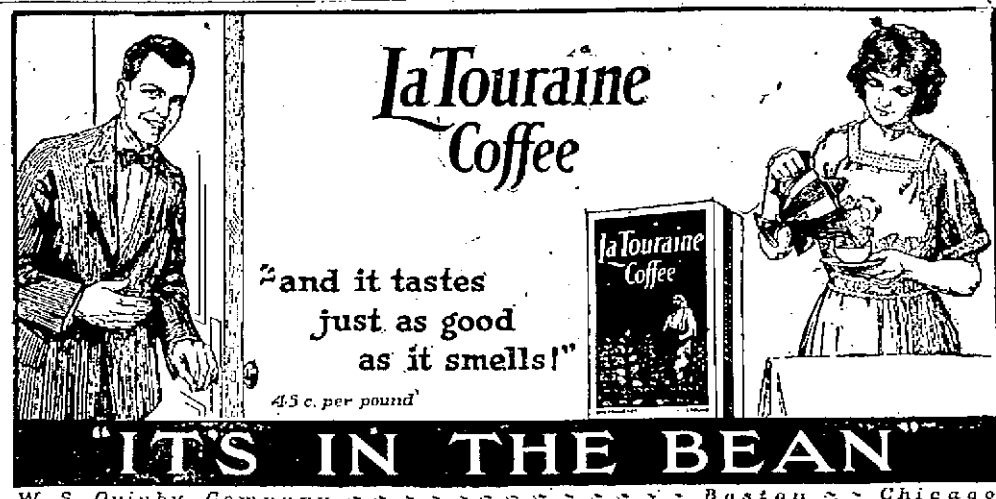

NOTHING NEW IN THE CAR SHOP STRIKE

Efforts on the part of the members of the executive board of the federated crafts of the Boston & Maine railroad at Billerica, to obtain a conference with officials of the Boston & Maine railroad, have proved fruitless, but nevertheless the strikers are in hopes that their grievances will be adjusted within a short time.

For the past week or so, the executive board of the crafts has endeavored to arrange for a meeting with President Emile and General Manager Pollock of the B. & M. as it was felt that the conference would hold an agreement of some sort could be reached. The officials of the road have refused positively to meet a committee of the workers on the ground that they had nothing to settle as everything at the big shop is going along all right. Word was received from Boston headquarters of the crafts this morning, that the board had another plan in mind to bring about a settlement and it is felt here that the new scheme will prove successful.

While negotiations for a settlement are going on, a committee of the local strikers, are working around through the courtesy of F. J. Roane, manager of the hall, an exhibition dance will be given by Jimmie Gray and Miss Sheeran. Tomorrow, the hardy guards "squad" headed by Chairman Walter H. Chandler of the crafts, will visit Marlboro for the raising of funds, and on Friday the "musicians" will go to Clinton. On Saturday, they will spend the day in Maynard and in the near future they plan to visit Fall River and New Bedford.

Young Girls Need Care

FROM the age of twelve a girl needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter make life easier for her.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions. It can be taken in safety by any woman, young or old.

Read How These Mothers Helped Their Daughters

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I can not say too much about what your medicine has done for us."

Mrs. Wm. S. Hughes, Greenville, Del.

Wauscon, O.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then, able to do any work she wants to do—and so well and strong. We recommend the Vegetable Compound to mothers with ailing daughters."

Mrs. A. M. Burkholder, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauscon, Ohio.

JUST ONE TABLESPOON

A single package does 44 washings—all the dishes for more than 2 weeks

For the average family of 4 or 5 persons just one tablespoonful of Lux—a whisk in the hot water—and you have the richest, most cleansing lather you have ever had for your dishes.

"Women themselves discovered this use for Lux. Women who for years had been getting such satisfaction from Lux for silks and woollens tried it for washing dishes.

Thousands of letters have come in to us saying that Lux suds leave your china beautifully clean and at no cost to your hands, and asking us why we never mentioned it.

Lux contains no free alkali. It is as gentle upon the skin as fine toilet soap.

Begin using Lux today for dishwashing. One box will last 44 dish-washings—more than two weeks. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

LUX

FOR WASHING DISHES

Lux won't redden or coarsen the hands. It rinses them for good. It's the three times a day in the dishpan look.

Lux leaves your glassware sparkling, without a trace of soapy film—your silver lustrous, your china spotlessly clean.

In Poverty 81 Years, Inherits Fortune

MRS. MARY JANE YOUNG

BY MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, Sept. 27.—A fairy tale come true—
That's what her neighbors down on Copenhagen street, one of the poorest and drabest quarters of gray London say about the good fortune of Mrs. Mary Jane Young.

After 81 years of drudgery and poverty, she will spend her last days in ease, living on her share of a half million dollar inheritance.
Four years ago W. T. Hicks of Jersey City, N. J., died leaving the fortune. His nearest known relative was an Englishman, Ephraim Gregory, long since dead. The money therefore belonged to his children. But they could not be located.

OVERCOME

Victims of stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia and their allied complaints find Tanlac an ever-ready source of relief and comfort. Thousands of people have re-found the joys of health by its use after everything else they tried had failed. Thomas B. Bradford, well-known salesman, of 849 Washington street, Boston, Mass., says: "It is really astonishing how quickly Tanlac restored my health. For four years everything I ate disagreed with me. My nerves were all undone and my strength seemed entirely gone. I am now on my fourth bottle of Tanlac and actually feel better than I did before my troubles began."
Tanlac helps the stomach digest the food properly and eliminate waste. Soon the whole system is built up, the entire body takes on new tone, vitality and energy. Get a bottle today and start on the road to health. For sale by all good druggists.—Adv.

After a long search, Howard S. Harrington, a young American lawyer, got a clue which led to a coal mine district in Wales. There he found John Charles Gregory, working as a collier.
He had lost track of his family. But he thought he had a sister living somewhere in London. They finally traced Mrs. Young to her little home.

Her Dream Comes True
"When I was younger," she says, "I used to dream about riches and happiness."
"I never had much of either. As time went on, I stopped dreaming. It interfered with my work. My sister had died. My brother went away. I didn't see him for 44 years."
"Then suddenly he came with word of the fortune. All my hopes dead for many years, were reborn."
"It seems that dreams come true—sometimes."

Mrs. Young is busy getting the documentary evidence to prove her right to the fortune. As soon as she completes these records, she will mail them to America, get her share of the inheritance.
"And keep on dreaming," she says. "If it isn't too late."

SPANISH INFLUENCE

At a fashionable wedding the bridesmaids wore cream-laced Spanish mantillas draped over high collars and caught at one side with deep crimson roses. They carried bouquets of roses.

There were exactly 43 tickets left for the concert of Madame Galli-Curci in Memorial Auditorium, October 8 when the sale closed at Chaffoux's Tuesday. This small number is the remainder of 3555 tickets printed for the concert and handled exclusively by the Chaffoux Co.

The enormous mail order business done for the concert indicated a "sell-out" but no one anticipated that the enormous Auditorium would be sold out 10 days in advance of the concert. A number of temporary seats on the stage will be available later in the week, and these will be able to accommodate but a small fraction of the people who wished to hear the diva but who have postponed buying their tickets.

Under the contract as written for Madame Galli-Curci by her managers, Evans and Satter, the free list was entirely suspended for the concert. Je-

ALLEGED HEN THIEF CAPTURED

The brilliant idea of a member of the flock and shrewd fraternity that developed into a hencoop raid and the carrying away of four Black Minorcas to a supposedly safe seclusion within the covers of a dress suit came, was suddenly punctured by Chief of Police Harry B. Whiting of Westford, when that worthy started on the trail of the hen thief.

The discovery that the quartet of chunky egg layers had been ruthlessly slain and deposited for safety-first purposes within the dress suit, came in preparation for transportation to Boston and a Sunday dinner of delectable quality was made by Chief Whiting only after diligent inquiries and ultra-sleuthing tactics, which finally led the blue-coated officer to the right door.

In Ayer police court, where the alleged hen thief was taken, a gentleman giving his name as Arthur W. Jackson was found guilty of robbing a chicken coop belonging to one Mrs. Dow, a well-to-do housewife residing in the Forge Village section of Westford, and fined $15. The fine was promptly paid.

Jackson, so the police say, has been working on a Westford contracting job for some time. He boarded in town, but went home to Boston each Saturday night. He claims to live in the Jamaica Plain section of the city.

Chief Whiting has had reports of henery depredations frequently this fall, and has been energetically endeavoring to run down the wily thieves. In this case, however, the job of their catching was not so tedious.

LAKEVIEW AVENUE LINE

There will be a slight inconvenience in the electric car traffic over the Western Massachusetts rails in Lakeview avenue for the next week or ten days. The length of the delay depends on the time required to lay new rails in this street between Auburn and Bridge sts. The roadbed there is torn up as the city is making preparations to have the street and the street railway line taken this opportunity to lay new rails there. Only one line of track will be used during this repair period and both incoming and outgoing cars will use the same track. As soon as a crossover can be put in the inconvenience will be lessened to a great degree.

revolutionary movement started on the islands of Mitylene and Chios among the soldiers and refugees from the Smyrna district.

All officers who refuse to join the movement are being arrested. It is added.

The immediate cause of the revolt was an order for the demobilization of the soldiers who had been evacuated to these islands, the men wishing to keep their rifles as trophies or perhaps for personal protection.

The first intimation the authorities in Athens had of the movement was the appearance of an airplane over the city, which showed the flag of the revolution. "In the name of the army and navy and the population of Mitylene," the demanding the resignation of the government and the abdication of Constantine.

Martial Law Proclaimed

PARIS, Sept. 27.—A Havas despatch from Athens, not timed there, received the following news:

"The insurrectionists, who have nine destroyers and naval airplanes, besides two warships, Kiklis and Lemnos, have landed troops at Cape Surlon (on the peninsula southeast of Athens). Gen. Papoulas has been sent to try to stop them."

"Martial law has been proclaimed. Gen. Koutzias induced the garrison here to adhere to the revolutionary movement."

Revolutionaries Hold Fleet

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press).—The Greek fleet has gone over to the revolutionaries, who announce that every officer and member of the crews is wholly with them, according to a Central News despatch from Athens. The movement, which is headed by Col. Gonatas, is making headway in all directions.

The despatch which is dated Tuesday night, says the cabinet had been in continuous session for many hours. No official statements had been issued.

Plans for the renovation of the lower and upper halls of St. John's T.A.S. building in North Chelmsford were discussed at a joint meeting of St. John's T.A.S. and the ladies auxiliary, which was held last evening with Arthur Beaulieu in the chair. Rev. Fr. Linnahan was present at the meeting and he outlined a plan of improvements, which seemed to be favored by all present.

The lower hall will be looked after first and it is expected that it will be ready for the winter season in a couple of weeks. The public installation of the recently elected officers of the society will take place next Monday evening and the following committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the event: Michael J. Scollan, Arthur McEnaney and Henry Garvey. They will be assisted by Mrs. Emma Whitehead, Mrs. Lilla Scollan and Mrs. Lena Rafferty.

but it was understood that the minis- ters were drawing up a manifesto ad- dressed to the people.

Thus far, it adds, the revolution had been bloodless, despite the excitement of the people, who were surging through the streets and gathering outside the public buildings.

Accepts Cabinet's Resignation

ATHENS, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press).—King Constantine has accepted the resignation of the cabinet, which quickly followed the reception of two ultimata from the cruiser Lemnos.

In accepting the resignation the king said he entirely put aside any idea of resistance which would bring, as a result, civil war in Greece.

The crown prince has abandoned his proposed journey to Rumania for the royal marriage.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR DANCING

At last night's meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute, the ladies' night committee reported every-thing in readiness for tomorrow evening's dancing party, at which the members will entertain the organization's lady friends for the first time since the advent of the indoor season. John Conlin, John J. Brady, James Duffy, George Pollard and John Tighe constitute the committee in charge.

The coming observance on Oct. 16 of Father Mathew's anniversary was discussed at length, and the committee appointed to conduct the affair reported that a great deal of progress had been made in planning for the event.

The committee on howling stated that a six-league team has been formed and will open its season at the Crescent alleys on Friday evening, Oct. 13. William F. Ryan has been elected president of the league, John J. Callahan, secretary, and James J. Campbell, treasurer. The tennis and capline are as follows: Yankes, J. Joseph Finnegan; Tigers, James McGovern; Senators, John P. Sheehan; Browns, John E. Eastham; Indians, George W. Bowers; White Sox, William F. Ryan.

TEXTILE SCHOOL REGISTRATION

As yet several upper classmen have not reported at the Textile school and the exact registration figures are not available. It is practically certain, however, that the entering class will show an increase of 20 or more percent over last year's figures. That the textile industry is commanding the attention of the women of the country is evidenced from the fact that six or seven young women have enrolled at the local institution. They are taking courses in designing, decorative art, chemistry and dyeing.

The Sleur de Brez of Paris is said to have invented candle molds.

Dr. Grady's Tablets

Never So Popular With the People as They Are Today

It would be difficult to overestimate the good which my tablets have done—or, the amount of happiness they have brought into the homes of America during the 30 years that have elapsed since I first offered them to the people and told them that they could prevent or cure most of the diseases which threaten the lives of parents and children. Every promise made for them has been kept, every claim established and today Dr. Grady's Tablets are recognized as standard, not only by the people but by physicians and the medical world in general. The best laxative and best stomachic nerve, general debility remedy known to science of the Materia Medica. With these remedies the dangers of sickness can be minimized and even death kept at bay. I urge all who are sick and ailing; all who are dependent or depressed to find their faith in Dr. Grady's Tablets. They have brought into the homes of the people, to all those I say with all the earnestness of which I am capable, my remedies will bring you health and happiness. Only the reckless can afford to doubt it.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DOUBLE HANGING

GORHAM, Me., Sept. 27.—Mystery as to the identity of the two men whose bodies were found hanging from trees in dense woods near this town, yesterday by hunters, dead apparently in a suicide pact, remained as great this morning as when the bodies were discovered.

Efforts of Sheriff King F. Graham and his deputies to trace the movements of the men immediately prior to their deaths proved unavailing. Old residents of the town who have viewed the bodies cannot place them in their recollections as those of former residents.

At Sheriff Graham's office this morning it was said: "We have been able to make no definite progress towards identification. We have discovered no new clues to the identity of the men, but are still working to determine who they were and where they came from, and what was the motive for their act."

TALKED ON NORMAL SCHOOL EDUCATION

Yesterday afternoon at the State Normal school, Frank W. Wright of the state department of education delivered an interesting address to the students of that institution on the necessity of a normal school education, and told the large audience of prospective teachers that they were primarily taking the prescribed course for the benefit of the children of the state, pointing out that the state provides this education in order that it might have trained teachers and good citizens.

Mr. Wright stated that the enrollment in the normal schools of Massachusetts had noticeably increased this year and that nearly 3000 students are now studying in the 10 state normal institutions.

At the conclusion of his address, Miss Dorothy Graham on behalf of the student body, thanked the lecturer for his instructive and interesting talk, which, she said, would give the students a clearer insight into the work they are about to undertake. The next lecture will be given at the school one week from today.

FRIENDS SURPRISE MISS MARY LEE

Miss Mary A. Lee, registered nurse, who on October 11 will become the bride of Dr. Richard J. McCluskey, was pleasantly surprised by a large group of former classmates of St. John's hospital at her home, 112 Harriet street last night, where a miscellaneous show, and useful gifts, a mock marriage, with Catherine Galloway and Catherine Sullivan as the participants, preceded the program of entertainment. Piano selections were rendered by Miss Mary Corey and songs by the Misses Galloway and Mary Carolyn. Refreshments were served.

SIGN CHANGED
The sign in city hall marked "Commissioner of Finance," which has for a long time occupied the room now occupied by City Auditor Daniel P. Martin, was removed today and in its stead hangs a sign marked "City Auditor."

TREASURER OF EVERETT SUSPENDED BY MAYOR

EVERETT, Sept. 27.—Charging disloyalty to the city's chief executive, Mayor Christopher Harrison suspended City Treasurer Nathan Nichols yesterday for one week with loss of pay. The news of the suspension came as a surprise although it was known that "diplomatic relations" between the mayor and city treasurer were at the breaking point because the mayor objected to the attitude of Mr. Nichols toward the public.

The suspension, according to the mayor, resulted from the call of a citizen at his office yesterday morning to make inquiry relative to the payment of taxes. The mayor called the city treasurer's office on the telephone to seek information.

Mayor Harrison says Mr. Nichols gave an evasive and discourteous reply and then hung up the receiver. The mayor immediately followed, whereupon Mr. Nichols called at the mayor's office to explain matters. It developed that he was not aware he was talking to the mayor.

The mayor stated that many complaints have come to his office of the discourtesy of the city treasurer in dealing with the public and that the time came to put a stop to it when he found concrete proof that the complaints were justified.

Mayor Harrison placed Miss Snell, a clerk in the treasurer's office, in charge temporarily. Mr. Nichols left city hall soon after his suspension and did not return until after city hall closed at 4 o'clock, then remaining only a short time.

City Treasurer Nichols has held that office ever since Everett became a city. He was also town treasurer for a few years. He comes from an old Everett family and although he has lived in the city for several years with his son, he has retained a legal residence in this city.

There is considerable speculation as to the effect of the suspension on one of the city's notes falls due in a few days and the weekly payroll must be made up. Mayor Harrison, however, feels confident he will be able to handle the situation.

The suspension of a city treasurer by the mayor is said to be unique. At that no previous suspension of such a nature had come to the attention of state officers in recent years at least.

WEEKLY PAYROLL

The weekly payroll for the week ending last Saturday amounts to $43,513.13. The previous payroll was $42,210.10. This is a decrease of $1,303.03.

Big Fair in Chelmsford vegetables and fruits of the finest growth and quality, and a poultry show that added to the list of attractions.

The decorations of the large hall rooms above and below, were autumnal leaves, gladiolus, asters, dahlias, hydrangeas, ranunculus and home-grown daisies. Goldenrod and fern were used about the windows, stage and doorways, as well as the platforms where the exhibits rested for inspection.

Among the best exhibits found on the white-topped tables were luscious Wolf River apples from the farm of Harold Erickson, Alexanders from John Lane's place, Folliwanger apples from the farm of Arthur Dutton, and overbearing raspberries grown by Edith Whitcomb and picked this morning.

Leroy Dutton had a pretty display of Northern Spy apples, William C. Tucker came in with Haskins and Wealtheis, with a few Baldwin of fine quality in the bunch; W. C. Tucker placed some fine seckle pears on display near the door, and Perley Kimball same along with four of the largest mango beets, over seen in or about Chelmsford.

Master G. Leslie Putnam of the Chelmsford Grange had several fine exhibits, including holly crabsapples, 11 in all—some large-sized parsnips and other delectable articles from his farm.

From the Chelmsford town farm came samples of potatoes of excellent quality and size, free from scab. Three Portuguese squashes raised by Fred A. Hazen attracted attention.

Gilbert F. Wright of Alalfa Gem farm was there, of course, with samples of his grasses. He obtained four crops of the alfalfa on some of his acres this year, and exhibited, specimens of the fourth collection.

The Children's Country club had one of the finest exhibits in the annual show. Phyllis Scoboria showed canned carrots for a change, and Dorothy Davis had exhibits of raspberries.

Over on the side tables were seen peanut plants big bunches of them, the peanuts right on them all raised on Chelmsford farms. The crop was obtained in one instance 90 days after planting the seed. The peanuts are large, clean and excellent eating. They are of the Spanish variety.

Sweet potatoes, some raised in Chelmsford this year both white and yellow varieties. Samples were shown. A sunflower blossom measuring 1 1/2 ft. in diameter stood at one end of the hall in its splendor. Pumpkins and squashes were all about the hall with rice plants and plants containing real alfalfa, the product of Chelmsford farms. One alfalfa root exhibited dried was said to be 15 years old, and was found in a heap of stones where it had flourished without nutrition of any sort usually given to grass crops.

C. J. Seales of Turnpike road had good displays of Rhode Island Red hens. The Jersey hens were shown by Ervin Smith. One long turkey strutted about the stalls, owner unknown. A pen of barred rocks also here no label. Abbott Russell exhibited a pair of Blue Andalusians and Harold C. Perham some brooding pigeons and ducks completed a fine collection of farm poultry and birds.

Numerous Lowell business men helped to make the Chelmsford fair a success. L. A. Derby presented the grammers with an electric boudoir lamp. Frank Pope gave two bags of best flour, the Adams Hardware Co. gave a Priscilla sewing screen. A. G. Pollard sent over a dozen bangles, aprons, Edward Freeman provided a manure set, C. M. Violette gave a can of peaches, Nichols & Co. provided free coffee, and Frederick Thingley closely sent over early in the day a hog of real coal.

Congressman John Jacob Rogers received an invitation to attend the fair this evening. If he can arrange the time, his invitation arrived late, but the congressman will try and get out to Chelmsford before the wind-up tonight.

There will be an old-fashioned supper at 6.30 tonight, in Grange hall, the subject of the entertainment will include singing, solo dances, monologues, sketches and speeches. A committee from the Middlesex County Fair bureau, headed by Robert Traub and Miss Marion Forbes will decide the winners of the prize food and farm products competitions.

The fair committees in charge of the fair and exhibits were as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Frank McLintock; Secretary, Miss Abbie Ford; Mrs. Edwin Perham, Mrs. Wilkins, Mr. Lupian; candy table, Mrs. Putnam; Luella Adams, Miss Allen; Helen Pearson, Lillian Pearson; upon table, Mrs. Lena Taylor, Miss Arnold; Mrs. Tucker; grab table, Mrs. Arnold; Mrs. John Emerson, Mrs. Frank Lupian, flowers, Mrs. Miss Adams, Mrs. Frank Dutton; vegetable table, William Belleville; fruit, Everett Whitcomb, Edwin Whitcomb; supper, Curtis Alken, Edward Perham, G. L. Putnam, E. Palmer, E. Swaleser, F. Fletcher; household table, Mrs. William Belleville, Mrs. Walter, fancy table, Mrs. Charles Hotelle, Miss Mae Piles, Miss Mabel Pearson; canned goods, Mrs. Spaulding, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Erickson; potato chips and peanuts, Mrs. Everett Whitcomb, Mrs. Ernest Hamman, Mrs. Edwin Whitcomb; Miss Evelyn Russell; ice cream, Miss Mildred Hoar, Donald Farrington; tonics, Mrs. F. A. Boyd; entertainment, Miss Elizabeth Hawkes; poultry, Perley Kimball, Abbott Russell; tickets, Frank McMaster, Fred Boyd; advertising, Isaac Stewart.

lice station, throw three new bridges across the Merrimack and Concord rivers, make the Merrimack navigable from Lowell to the sea; erect three athletic stadiums, handle the unemployment situation, legislate public bequests and urge the painting of all houses every three or five years, the appointed the took issue with the known author of the list, flatly stated that the board never has met together and that he is at a loss to know the source of the suggestions.

The personnel of the board, as originally appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council, consists of John H. Gullett, Albert W. David, Charles F. Anderson, Mrs. Bertha A. Olney, Daniel S. Pouzner and the chairman of the public service board, board of assessors, board of health and park commission.

Commenting upon the suggestions, the appointed said: "The list of suggestions lacks authorization. In the first place there is no planning board. The appointments made by Mayor Brown were made under an ordinance that was impossible to draw and accordingly there is no planning board in existence. In order to create one it would be necessary to have a legally drawn ordinance. Then the mayor could make his appointments and the appointments would have to be confirmed by the council. The members would have to be sworn in."

In addition to the above the individuals who were appointed to the board never have met and nobody is in a position to speak for them. This list of recommendations apparently was made up by some person who may or may not be one of the appointees recently named by Mayor Brown and represents entirely his own ideas, but he had no right to speak for the board as a whole.

In connection with recommendations themselves it is very desirable that the public should know of their unauthoritative character, otherwise such confidence as the public may have in such a prospective board, is likely to be seriously undermined.

A great many of the suggestions seem to be highly impracticable, he continued. "Some of the suggestions made concern activities entirely without the scope of the authority of such a board. Take, for instance, suggestion number three concerning a new police station. It is not for a planning board to decide whether we need a new police station. It may be in a position to recommend where a police station should be located if it were decided to have a new one. It may even suggest the architecture in order to make it harmonize with a general plan for city development, but the need of a police station is beyond the scope of a planning board."

Suggestion number six contains the recommendation that the Merrimack river be made navigable from Lowell to the sea. If the placing of the Merrimack river in the public domain, which might concern the planning board, but whether it should be made navigable or not is exclusively a question of economics. It is desirable to have such persons numbers at this time might give the public the impression that the planning board is fanciful and impractical and accordingly undermine the public confidence that such a board should command.

"Painting houses every three or five years and city farming are interesting subjects, but this is not for a planning board to recommend methods as to keeping houses in good condition or to advise citizens on farming. It might perhaps recommend where city farms may be located, but there is concern ends. The same is true of flower gardens and well kept lawns. If we had a city-beautiful committee it might legitimately concern itself with such problems. TURKS RE-ENTER EUROPE

Nobody now living remembers, an instance in which England backed down or reversed her warlike stand upon a vital international question so ignominiously as in her right about turn on the matter of permitting the Turkish nationals to re-enter Europe with the approval of the allies, but after a conference at which the whole question is to be definitely settled. Meantime the Turks are forbidden to invade the neutral zone and it is a disorderly violation of this condition that has brought an ultimatum from England. But this is merely a side issue.

England adopted a bold policy at first against any such advance by Turkey; but France standing firmly against war on the Turks, Britain was left in the position of having to fight the battle against the Moslems alone, except for the assistance she might receive from Greece.

The situation was canvassed at home and in the colonies and there was a decided lack of enthusiasm all along the line on the question of assisting in defense of European control of the Dardanelles, but Canada did not care to offer assistance in a war ordered otherwise than by a responsible government after due deliberation. The labor hosts of England also protested and so it came about that the British forces at the Dardanelles to resist the Turkish advance, would have to meet the enemy without the prospect of the necessary backing. Europe stood against and France and Italy were opposed to starting war with the Turks. The bloody scenes enacted at Gallipoli in the world war were doubtless recalled and more vividly in the minds of the British than of the other nations; for it was there that several British regiments were cut to pieces while making a landing under the fire of the Turkish forts. That was the blunder of Winston Churchill and one of the most costly of the war.

It is very disconcerting to find that the forces of Islam thus practically compel the Christian nations of Europe to concede their demands in spite of the horrors enacted at Smyrna and the traditional cruelty and merciless persecutions of defenseless peoples by the Turks. Other nations may oppress and persecute. The Turks try to exterminate, and that without either mercy or remorse.

The Turkish Nationals have won a peaceful triumph over the allies and now at a conference the terms will be agreed upon under which the Turk will resume control of Constantinople, Adrianople and part of Thrace. The Turks have regained practically everything they held before the war, and that without striking a blow excepting their conflict with Greece, in which they came out the victors. Under the proposed arrangement the Straits are to be demilitarized and held open for commerce. That is the only condition to be imposed upon Turkey in re-entering Europe. She will accept, knowing that she can violate it whenever she pleases. Turkey is to have a voice in the League of Nations and Russia will also demand admission and her wishes will doubtless be respected. Armenia and the other small nations that were promised their independence under the Versailles treaty are once more to be subject to the vengeance and brutal sway of the Turk. This for Armenia means starvation, torture and endless persecution. This the good intentions of the allies as regards the future of small nations of Asia Minor are completely defeated and the status quo ante bellum is to be restored.

Exports upon the estimated revenue to be derived from the new tariff law have practically agreed that while the amount of revenue that will be received by the government will not exceed $109,000,000, the increase in the cost of living throughout the country as a result of the tariff will probably be over four billion dollars. For every dollar of revenue received by the government, the people will have to pay $10.

Evidently the time has gone by when the Elks can hold a picnic with the same artificial inspiration as in former years. The descent of the prohibition crusader upon the Elks' excursion steamer undoubtedly spoiled the picnic of the thousand members of the order on their way back to Hoboken. If an excursion could be made to the prohibition law, it might well be provided for the Elks.

The new tariff is not likely to increase our foreign trade. On the contrary, it will put a damper on it. The high protective policy of the republic can partly be incompatible with the idea of a merchant marine. It was that policy that originally killed our merchant marine and banished our flag from the commercial ports of the world.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is the latest to refuse to settle the shipmen's strike by yielding on the question of seniority. The eastern roads hold out. The western have compromised. Meantime the strikers in the east stand firm.

Unless the government controls the price of coal, the speculators and manipulators will send it skyrocketing. As usual, in every conflict between the miners and the operators or between the railroads and their employees, the consumers—the public—are the chief losers.

With the threat of another European war, the United States navy expands sending their war vessels to the scrap heap, remembering that neither France nor Italy has ratified the four power treaty.

The fear of another war prevents the nations of Europe from overcoming the effects of the world war.

Adams is quoted as having said: "I should advise persisting in our struggle for liberty, though it were revealed from heaven that 1000 would perish and but 1 out of 1000 were to survive and retain his liberty." Adams resisted every effort of the British government to win him over by conciliation. He seemed to regard himself as having a mission to perform in advancing the cause of freedom for the colonies and he lived to see it crowned with complete success.

When the high tariff has had time to show its effect, consumers will discover that the tariff duties are added to what they pay for imported goods. That brought goods in ahead of the tariff in most cases can pocket the duty as extra profit.

Several hundred million dollars worth of foreign-made goods have been rushed into the United States and stored in warehouses "ahead of the tariff." This is foresight, the cunning ability that makes poor men rich and rich men richer. Foresight and luck build up out of ten of the big fortunes. Few realize this, because from youth we are raised on the false philosophy of platitude. Foresight comes usually by brain development, only occasionally as a natural gift. That's why no one can get too much of any kind of schooling.

The man who, crazed by bootleg liquor, commits a murder, may not be as guilty as the bootlegger who sold the liquor. The drug vendor, by all rules of common sense, is responsible for most of the crimes committed by drug addicts.

Inclining to crime is on a par with inclining to riot and the accomplice is usually held equally responsible with the person who actually commits the crime.

Carrie K. Scott, head of the children's department of Indianapolis Public Library, says there are too many cases of mental indigestion among children, due to choosing "all news and denials" in reading. She strikingly compares a public library to a cafeteria.

"Mental indigestion" is a word combination that covers the nation like the morning dew. The stomach is said to waste only nine out of each one hundred mouthfuls of food. The brain digests and stores nine and loses the rest. Usually it is into one ear and out of the other through the intellectual filter.

During the past week the citizens of Lowell have had an opportunity to see the realization of the movement started in the Memorial Auditorium. It is well to have an organization to get behind such movements occasionally and give them the initial impetus that assures their final success. That is what the chamber of commerce has been doing. It exists to promote the best interests of the city and the welfare of all its people.

When the high tariff has had time to show its effect, consumers will discover that the tariff duties are added to what they pay for imported goods. That brought goods in ahead of the tariff in most cases can pocket the duty as extra profit.

Exports upon the estimated revenue to be derived from the new tariff law have practically agreed that while the amount of revenue that will be received by the government will not exceed $109,000,000, the increase in the cost of living throughout the country as a result of the tariff will probably be over four billion dollars. For every dollar of revenue received by the government, the people will have to pay $10.

Nine Home Runs in the Three Major League Games Played Yesterday

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Free from pennant worries after one of the most strenuous campaigns in their careers, the New York Giants, 1922 National league champions, wound up the battle against western opposition by taking the final game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 3, behind Arlie Nehf's steady twirling.

It was the third defeat in four games for the team which threatened the Giants' supremacy for a large share of the season and showed the Cardinals back to fourth place while Cincinnati, trailing Philadelphia, 15 to 8, climbed to third position.

Nehf, although beaten twice by Waite Hoyt of the Yankees, turned in a brilliant performance, both times and in his third start in the deciding victory by outpitching the "boy wonder" in the eighth game, 1 to 0.

The Giants play a double header today with Philadelphia at the Polo Grounds and McGraw plans to call on his reserve forces after giving the regulars a brief workout.

The Yankees, within a game of clinching the American league title, hope to settle the race beyond all doubt by winning from Boston tomorrow in the first of a three game series with the Red Sox. The Yankees lead of three and one-half games over the St. Louis Browns and with but four more contests to play, need only a single victory to clinch the pennant.

Dazzy Vance achieved his 15th victory of the season while Brooklyn needed two Boston victories to win, 12 to 5, in the only other major league game played yesterday.

Nine home runs in the three games played brought the season's total for both leagues up 1028, close to 100 more than last year's record crop of 937 circuit blows.

HOME RUN HITTING IN WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Because of the enormous increase in recent seasons of home run hitting, begun by Babe Ruth and emulated by every player with a pair of clear eyes and strong shoulders, followers of the game expect the coming year's series to develop into a contest of long drive, rather than a study of the statistics entirely refutes.

Not that the 1922 struggle between Manhattan's two representatives may not establish an imposing and new total of four base aways, because it may, but if many home runs are hit it will be a novelty. Neither participant is the leading club of its league in home run hitting.

The season of 1922 has been the most prolific of home runs of all time, the 600 mark being whizzed past by the sluggers of both leagues as the autumn leaves began to fall. The previous record was in 1915, when 582 home runs were made in the two organizations.

Yet in all the world's series that have been played only once has the computation been made on the basis of most other world series discussion—beginning in 1903 when the Yankees and Giants evolved—only 32 circuit clouts have been clipped and George Herman Ruth has made but one of them.

In the last two American league series, the American league teams have made 111 runs, eight of them home runs at the National League have made 116 runs out of the 112 runs they have scored.

The records of Sept. 23 show Ruth and Ted Muesel to have been third and sixth, respectively, in the American league and Emil Meusel and Geo. Kelly to have been fourth and fifth, respectively in the other league in "home busting."

No player has made more than two runs in one game in a world's series and only three men have accomplished that.

They are Pat Dougherty of the Boston Americans in 1903, Harry Hooper of the Boston Americans in 1916, and Benny Kauff of the Giants in 1917.

LOWELL TEXTILE FOOTBALL TEAM

Coach Arthur Ball of the Lowell Textile football team put his charges through a stiff workout on the campus yesterday afternoon. As the opening game with Trinity college of Hartford is scheduled for Saturday of this week, the remaining practice sessions are due to be strenuous. Yesterday the squad was increased to the extent of 10 or 12 promising candidates, most conspicuous of whom, is Tayne Thom, Chinese, who aspired to the center position on last year's team.

Coach Ball is being ably assisted in rounding the team into shape by John Danahy, former star of Bates college, and Danahy, who is now showing up well in practice as Morley, formerly of Georgetown; Seed of Lawrence; Parkin from Maynard high; Antonious of Stoughton, and Broome of Lowell and Sutcliffe of Worcester.

FAMOUS QUALITY

PREDICTS STYLE OF PLAY IN WORLD SERIES

This is the fourth of seven articles written for the Sun by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS

World's Greatest Second Baseman

In spite of the fact that there has been a decided revolution in the game of baseball in the last two years, and that now it's distinctly a game of swat, and hits and runs are of much more frequent occurrence, due, let's say, to the opinion the style of play in a world series will always have a tendency to be more along the old conventional conservative lines.

My reasons for this belief are several.

In the first place, opponents in a world series do not know each other, individually or collectively, as well as the regular season. They are combined daily in their respective leagues, and the procedure is consequently slower.

Secondly, players or teams do not take the same time to begin with at least in a world series as they do in a regular game. The series is too short, the risk too great, and not worth the time and effort to begin with.

As a last resort, when other means of making runs have failed, a manager may be forced to attempt anything.

For example, in 1911, when the Giants couldn't factor the offerings of Bender or Coombs with any degree of success, McGraw started his men on a base-stealing crusade. That year, it was not mistaken, the combined teams of the New York club created a major league record which still stands. But after Jack Lapp had pegged out five in one game, that was stopped, too.

Base Stealing

Strange though it may seem, base stealing is an art and a practice that's played but a small part in the outcome of any world series.

In the 1921 pre-series predictions the slowness of the Yankees and the footness of the Giants was dwelt upon at great length. Whereas the final count showed the Nationals had seven stolen bases to the Yankees' one. And I think I am safe in saying the six were better applied and counted for more than the seven.

Just so this year would be inclined to attach small significance to the fact that Siler and Williams or the Browns alone total more stolen bases than the entire Yankees team. From a standpoint, as well as from a player's, I would be more interested in watching the "Browns" style of play in a world series than I would in watching the Yankees. Understand me, not that I believe they would be any the more successful, but because of the fact that there would be some hitting and a greater number of runs.

The Yankees' style of play varies but little, they are not hard to outguess, but oftentimes when you know what's coming off, it succeeds in spite of you.

Browns Mix 'Em

The Browns mix their plays better and oftentimes make more often an aggressive and aggressive play than the Yankees. They are more clever in their play, and make use of their strength to better advantage.

Let me give the impression the Yankees are dumb and the Browns vice versa. I have just as much respect for Miller Huggins as I have for Leroy Holt, and regard them both highly as baseball men. But they work along different lines, although arriving at the same ends.

Tossing their style of play, they can be followed in a world series, but play must be adapted to conditions. It's the team that can adjust its play to conform with those conditions that will win.

When one method of attack fails, try something else.

"Mix 'em up," is the motto I like to follow.

Have the other fellow worrying about what you are going to do, and you'll be a jump ahead all the while. The edge is what counts in a short series—hustle!

MADE RUTH SAYS:

I see by the papers that Comiskey is making a big fuss about the umpiring in the major leagues this season.

That some of the American league umpires should be more efficient than others goes without saying.

Billy Evans is a few and far between and it isn't to be expected that every member of Ben Johnson's staff would be as capable as he. Some of the others are not far behind, however, and it is my peculiar notion that the umpiring in the American league this year is better, on the whole, than at any other time within the span of my major league experience.

Evans has been called the "perfect umpire" and in my opinion he is all of that. He seldom makes a mistake in his judgment on strikes and balls, his calling of plays on the bases is practically 100 per cent. perfect, and in his case, exceptional ability is coupled with splendid tact and a temperament worthy of a diplomat. Unlike some umpires I could name, Evans will acknowledge a mistake when he makes one, but does it in such a way that it does not weaken his hold on the situation or impair the respect in which he is held by the players.

WOMEN GOLF STARS IN SECOND ROUND

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 27.—With the exception of Miss Marion Hollins of Westbrook, L. I., last year's champion, all of the better known stars contesting for the national women's golf championship on the Greenbrier course here had won their way today to the second round of match play.

Miss Eleanor Collett, medal winner in the qualifying round, whose remarkably steady game triumphed easily in her first round match with Mrs. H. D. Stewart of Hutchinson, Kan., was paired today against Miss A. E. Hardin of Baltimore, while Miss Alexia Stirling of Atlanta, three times national champion, played brilliant golf yesterday, met Mrs. C. C. Alexander of Exmoor.

Big Offer Made to Battling Siki

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 27.—Battling Siki, Senegalese light heavyweight champion of Europe, who defeated Georges Carpentier, was offered one million francs to fight in Helena, in a cablegram sent to P. K. Haller, Siki's manager at Paris, by the Helena Hand Ball Association, through President Lester H. Loble. The cablegram read as follows: "We offer 1,000,000 francs for a match in Helena, Montana, early date, preferably in November, between Siki and opponent to be selected by the Helena Hand Ball Association. Cable your answer."

CANDIDATES FOR CHEER LEADER

Believing that moral support is an essential factor in the success of athletic teams, a call has been issued at the Lowell High School, to direct the organized vocal efforts of the 1922 football supporters. Several students have announced their candidacy for the position of cheer leader, among them being Harry Sargent, Edith A. Adler, Mary Twohey, Genevieve Callahan, Mary Bagley, James P. Henry, and others.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The Foley A. C. football team of Methuen, Mass., would like to arrange games with any 135-140 pound team in Lowell, the O.M.T. Cadets of the Indian Falls, N.Y., or the St. Albans, Vt. team. Address: Al Jacobson, 36 Centre street, Methuen, Mass.

GARLIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Lowell Garlic Athletic Association held a meeting last night and outlined plans for the fall and winter activities. It was decided to conduct a social and ladies' night in the near future. At the election the following officers were chosen: President, William Ryan; vice president, "Bull" O'Connell; secretary, Michael O'Connell; treasurer, Philip Shannon; sergeant-at-arms, Timothy Duggan; and a number of other officers.

BOWLING

On Monday night the male room bowlers of the prominent St. Patrick's defeated the Salem Ave 1316 to 1290. The score:

Third and Deciding Game of Series

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 27.—With one victory each in their series for the minor league championship of the east, the New Haven Eastern league team met the Baltimore club of the International league here this afternoon in the third and deciding game. The Eastern league champions defeated the Orioles yesterday, 11 to 7. The locals gave Johnny Cooney excellent support, while Baltimore was charged with four errors. The pitching selection for Baltimore today was believed to be between Lefty Groves and Harry Frank. Sterling Stryker was the probable choice for the locals. A number of big league scouts watched yesterday's game.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS—Right Field

Ruth, New York Americans—Ruth is a mighty fine outfielder. He has all the not going as well as he did last year. His late start and severe appendicitis have held him back. Illness and injuries also have done their part in affecting the big fellow's play.

Although he is well up in the list of home-run hitters, Ruth's swings lack the punch and accuracy of last season when he hit all kinds of pitching over the fence and far away.

Babe's physical condition also has retarded his fielding ability.

In one department of play he is much improved. His throwing is far better than ever before. He has snuffed out several rallies in important games by accurate heaves. Bats and throws left-handed.

Young, New York Giants—Young is a mighty fine outfielder. He has all the mechanical ability and, in addition, uses his head to advantage at all times. Only in a game with the Phillies he was trapped by a ball which so confused the question that a triple play resulted.

There is little to choose between the two right fielders. Ruth is the demon swatter, Young the ordinary style batsman. If Ruth is in hitting mood, his great slugging would give him a shade. If he is in the throes of a slump Young would prove much more valuable.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Charlie Cardo of Boston, manager of Willie (Young) Gradwell, who is to meet Jimmy Duffy of New York in the feature bout of the Moody club show tomorrow night, is ready to resume following about the match: "Tell the Lowell fans that Gradwell is in tip-top shape for his bout with Duffy. He is not at all afraid of the New Yorker, and he has many other matches on the program. He is to take a trip to the Pacific coast in November where he has been signed up for five fights. His opponents will be Jimmy Sacco, Phil Salvadori, Puggy Morton, Joe Benjamin and Jack Joseph. His first fight will be on the 10th of October in Los Angeles and he will try to win it. He will work up to Spokane, Wash. But before he leaves for the coast he has several important matches in the east, providing of course he is able to get to the coast. Among these are the sensational Boston lightweight, Young Tawney in Boston, and later the well known Heavyweight, Mike (Lepke) Alaska. With so much depending on the outcome of Thursday night's fight, you can rest assured Willie will work as never before to triumph over Duffy."

Duffy sends along the word that as he is planning to locate in New England, in order to make himself available for the fans in this section, he is not to be taken for granted. He would like nothing better than to replace Gradwell in bouts with Tawney, Valger or any other lightweight, for he is ready to stand up to the verdict tomorrow night. He declares he is in great condition for the battle.

Johnny Sunday who won over Jimmy Downes here last week will enter the ring against Jimmy Manning tomorrow night with many local admirers cheering him on to victory. The Troy batter made a big hit here when he stepped forward and hit the victor's career of the local and consequently many will be "pulling" for him to win in his second local performance.

The bout between Lefty Williams and Whitley Walsh is expected to be a bummer. In the opening event Eddie Purcell of Lowell will tackle Ray Hancock of Lawrence.

Bad Luck This Year, but Yankees' Pitchers Equal Any Major League Team

By BILLY EVANS

A year brings about some funny changes in baseball.

This time last season, as the Yankees were coming down the home stretch, Carl Mays and Waite Hoyt were carrying the burden of the pitching.

Mays finished the season of 1921 with 27 victories. Hoyt with 26. The pair won the American league pennant, registered 98 triumphs.

Mays and Hoyt scored 46 of the wins.

Some pitching!

In the world series these same pitchers were called upon to save the day. Each pitched three remarkable games. The two defeats suffered by Mays and the one by Hoyt were heartbreakers.

Different This Year

There was every reason to believe that Hoyt and Mays would be equally successful this year. Thus, when Sam Jones and Joe Bush, the stars of the Boston staff, were sold to New York, it was only natural that the experts should concede the pennant to the Yankees.

Things have been mighty different this year with the two star pitchers of the Yankee staff.

With four weeks of the season to go, Hoyt had 14 victories to his credit. Mays, on the other hand, had only 21 wins.

It is possible that Hoyt will come close to his 1921 record of 27 wins, but Mays is certain to fall far below his mark of 27 wins for 1921.

Look Needed Too

They do say that to be a winning pitcher, you must be blessed with luck as well as ability. Last year the Yankees made plenty of runs for Mays this year they seem to leave their bats in the club house when he performs.

Hoyt has been much the same. Failure to get the breaks often robs a pitcher of much of his confidence. That, to a certain extent, has played havoc with the Yankees' pitching this year.

I can see very little difference between Carl Mays pitching this year and last. He seems to have lost as much stuff, but he can't win with any degree of consistency.

Worries Him

Mays is high-strung, temperamental; he lacks the poise that would enable him to throw the hard-luck hoodoo. Instead, he worries over his failure to win, which, in turn, naturally affects his pitching.

Last year Sam Jones, pitching for Boston, won 23 games for a club that finished fifth. This year, with a month to go, he had only won 14 games for the league-leading Yankees.

Joe Bush has carried the Yankees' 1922 burden. With four weeks of play remaining, he had 22 victories to his credit. He should reach the 25 mark easily.

Bob Shawkey, who failed in the series, a disadvantage out by many of the experts, ranks next to Bush in effectiveness.

Three Best Bets

Thus the three best bets—Mays, Hoyt and Jones—have not run true to form while Bush and Shawkey have bettered past performances.

However, despite the disappointments that have crept into the Yankee staff, I rate it as the equal of any in the major leagues. Hoyt, Mays and Jones have all their old-time stuff. Their failure to win is simply one of the many mysterious things about baseball.

If the Yankees get into the big series the opposition certainly will be forced to look at some mean pitching. The staff boasts two regulars of class and experience.

COX WINS AT COLUMBUS WITH THE GREAT VOLO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27.—The Boston 4-year-old, the Great Volo, driven by Walter Cox, was the feature performer of a star program at the Ohio State fair here yesterday, winning the stake for 208 trotters in straight heats from the Murphy star, Bill Sharen, and taking a record of 2:04.4 for the mile, the fastest by a 4-year-old this season.

The record, by the way, was projected by his own owner and driver, and stood outside the timber stand caught the mile in 2:04.4.

It was a day for 4-year-olds, all four races on the card being won by horses of that age.

Cox, the leading money-winner, kept up his winning career by beating the 2:12 stake trotters, by the Ohio colt, Peter Henley, furnished an upset by beating the heavy favorite, Anna Early, in the stake for 2:05 pacers.

The Great Volo $100, Bill Sharen $75, Prince Loree $50 and the field $12 was the auction market on the 208 trot. In all three heats the colt was the favorite, but he broke early in the first heat, the latter breaking early in the first heat, then coming on and landing second.

The finish between the pair was very close in the second heat. Prince Loree shifted to a pace at the quarter pole in the first heat and finished at the same being distanced.

Anna Early was a $200 to $140 favorite over the field for the 2:05 pace. She won the first heat and Peter Henley led all the way. In the second, she raced him to the half in 1:00, but the colt was game and held her out. In the third, a new record for him, he carried him to a break on the upper turn. Then the Pittsburgh stallion, Trampas, came on and won in 2:04.4.

Cox won a $50 to $17 favorite for the 2:12 stake and was in front all the way in each heat, the second right to his record in 2:04.4.

The year-old filly, Eleanor Guy, was the contender in the first two heats, with Walter Sterling also right at him, and in the third, the Great Volo forced Murphy's mount to a drive at the finish.

Finavara, the III, & Dale farm 4-year-old, which was beaten by Alta Quest last week, turned the tables yesterday, winning from the gelding in straight heats, the final in 2:06.4, a new record for him.

O.M.T. DEFEAT FAHNTOUNTS

In a fast and exciting game the O.M.T. Cadets of Lowell defeated the Fahntounts of Lawrence, 15 to 0, in the final game of the season. The winning score, a 28-yard drop kick by Capt. Dan O'Connor, was scored in the third period. The Cadets will like to arrange a game with the Tonies of Centralville or the Wildcats of Billerica for next Sunday. Will the managers of these teams communicate with J. O'Connor before Thursday?

RUSH FOR THE NEW MOTOR GAS

(By N.E.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Substitutes for gasoline are still being used to relieve millions of the gullible of their life earnings.

That the number of victims has not been reduced, in spite of recent disclosures, is maintained by Dr. Raymond F. Bacon, formerly head of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh.

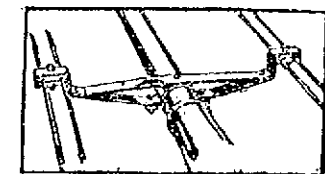

"In investigations of methods of charlatans and crack-brain inventors in the petroleum field," said Dr. Bacon, "it has been generally found that whatever motor fuel there was produced was put into the apparatus by some sleight-of-hand process."

Pent Fuel
Motor fuel from pent has been the most popular goal of inventors. A useful oil can undoubtedly be obtained from pent, is Dr. Bacon's view, but it would cost several dollars a gallon. This has been the chief bait for the gullible and many have been caught in the net. Other kinds of fuel also have been "discovered," but they have all turned out to be impracticable or sheer frauds.

Chance for Change
"Undoubtedly, cheaper substitutes for gasoline will be made eventually. At the present time there are mixtures of alcohol and tar oils which, although more expensive than gasoline, have many good qualities."

"It should be borne in mind that all the large petroleum refining companies are spending many thousands of dollars in research work to find a lower priced motor fuel. Any inventor could interest the large corporations and reap a rich reward in royalties if he could convince them that his process would make gasoline at 18 or 20 cents a gallon."

"Any person who is considering the purchase of the patent rights of a process for making cheap gasoline would do well to consult a petroleum chemist."

INVENTION ENDS GAS PERIL

(By N.E.A. Service)
WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 27.—Peril of carbon-monoxide gas poisoning from the exhausts of automobiles will be eliminated with use of a machine invented by Guy B. Taylor, chemist of the Du Pont company, and J. S. Taylor, assistant professor of chemistry at Princeton university.

Announcement of this invention has been made by the American Chemical society. The machine is designed for the detection of deadly gases. It is applicable especially to automobile exhaust.

Carbon-monoxide gas has been the cause of death to many a motorist. Working on the engine, with the garage shut against fresh air, the motorist would be quickly overcome by the fumes. The gas is especially dangerous in that it cannot be detected by the senses.

The new machine, it is said, not only

Artistic design and modern convenience have been combined in the new Reo Phantom, but it is not only in appearance and such that this new model appeals. The same mechanical perfection that has characterized Reo products in the past on which Reo has built its success, is still a predominant feature of the Reo Phantom. With a capacity of four or five passengers it sure is a splendid appearing vehicle and a car that is without doubt appealing to the man who is conservative enough to still consider an old and reliable make. Every essential of comfort and enduring worth is there in heaped-up measure. The first Phantom Reo is now on display, folks, at the Reo Service station, 600 Middlesex street, so drop in and see the latest achievement in Reo products.

SELF-COOLING PLUG

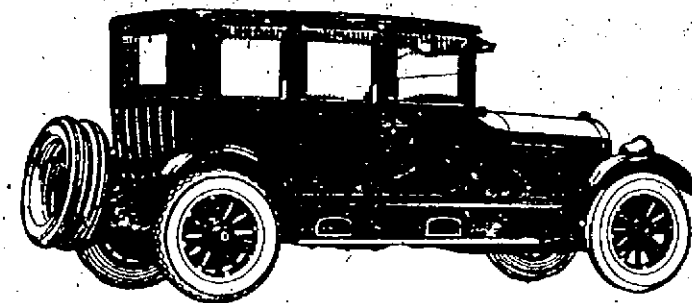

By the insertion of a tube down the center of a new plug, air is drawn through at each intake stroke of the piston. That is just after the compression, when the sparking points are hottest. This, therefore, cools the points. It is claimed, also, that this prevents accumulation of oil, blows out the foul gases in the chambers of the plug and affects a saving in oil. This tube permits also of priming the engine directly through the plug.

ABOUT PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES

The famous puncture-proof tire is becoming known to a wide circle of motorists, and every autoist who has used this tire on his car is loud in its praise. The tire is impervious to punctures, due to its special construction, which naturally removes a considerable amount of worry from the enjoyment of the motorist. In addition to this big feature alone, Lee tires are also noted for the big mileage they deliver. Ed Braverman, the general manager of the Tower's Corner Auto Supply, have had the agency for Lee Tires for these tires, says that the success with which Lee Tires are meeting with here in Lowell and surrounding towns is remarkable. Especially among the truck men is the tire very popular, and in the very short time that the Tower's Corner Auto Supply have had the agency for Lee Tires they have equipped the trucks of Camoron Brothers, The Lowell Beef company, and Lebar and Wexler. The Yellow Cab company has also put on Lee Tires.

WILL BUILD NEW CHAPEL IN SOUTH LOWELL

It is expected that work on the erection of a new chapel for St. Marie's parish in South Lowell will be started early in the spring. According to plans made by the pastor, Rev. Guillelmo Ouellette, O.M.I., the new church will be much larger than the present building. It will be erected on land adjoining the present church site and the exterior will be of Kelstone finish.

Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O.M.I., stated today that the present church building is inadequate and will be converted into a parochial school as soon as the other edifice is ready for service. A drive for funds for the new building is now going on and Saturday, Oct. 14, a bean supper will be served in Artisan hall, South Lowell, the arrangements being in charge of Thomas Tierman. On Oct. 30 the hope chest contest, which has been organized by Mrs. Rose Rouleau will be brought to a close and the receipts will be turned over to the church fund.

ARRANGE LECTURE

FUND PROGRAM

At a meeting of the trustees of the Moses Cleary Parker Memorial lecture fund, held yesterday afternoon in the mayor's reception room, the following program, to be given in the new Auditorium, was arranged:

Thursday, Nov. 2—Concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra—a section of the famous Boston orchestra with explanatory lecture by Olin Downer, musical critic of the Boston Post staff.

Saturday, Nov. 18—Travel talk, by E. M. Newman (illustrated with stereoscopic and moving pictures) on the heart of the African wilderness, "from the Transvaal to Victoria Falls."

Saturday, Dec. 9—Second talk by Mr. Newman, "Congo to Victoria Nyanza." Mr. Newman has recently returned from his explorations of the African jungle and his moving pictures of wild life are said to be uncommonly fine.

Thursday, Dec. 20—Dr. Woods Hutchinson of New York, "Making Health Contagious." To this it is hoped to add a second lecture by this well known writer on health subjects, at some date to be announced later, an important aim of the fund being to spread the knowledge of hygiene among Lowell people.

Thursday, Jan. 4—Travelogue by Burton Holmes (illustrated) entitled "Into China and Up the Yangtze-Kiang."

Thursday, Jan. 13—Second Travelogue by Burton Holmes, "Modernizing Korea and Manchuria."

Thursday, Jan. 18—Third Travelogue by Burton Holmes, "Great Sights East of Suez." The illustrations of these lectures include both moving pictures and stereoscopic views.

Tuesday, Jan. 30—A costume recital of folk-songs, by Lorraine Wyman.

Thursday, Feb. 8—Isaac F. Marcossion, "The German Collapse and World Security." If possible a second lecture by Mr. Marcossion will be arranged dealing with "The Changing East." Mr. Marcossion is a well known writer for the Saturday Evening Post and is probably the world's most accomplished interviewer at present, whose experiences afford most abundant material for interest.

Saturday, March 3—Stephen Leacock, of McGill university, in a humorous lecture on "The Drama as I See It."

Wednesday, March 8—Closing concert, by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The above program, no doubt, will be augmented as the season progresses. The lecture will be free to the Lowell public upon presentation of tickets which will be issued in seasonal and individual forms and can be had by applying at the Auditorium box office. The selection of seats will be optional as the doors will be opened early in the evening. It will prove advantageous, therefore, for persons to secure their tickets in advance.

AWAIT VERDICT
IN POULIN CASE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 27.—With hearings in the case of Harry Poulin, charged by Mrs. Augusta Tierman with the paternity of her 10 months old child, ended, persons interested in the outcome were marking time today, awaiting the verdict of Judge Chester L. Ducomb, which is scheduled to be announced Saturday morning. The hearings, begun more than a week ago, came to a close late yesterday.

The improbability of a woman in the position of Mrs. Tierman bringing before the public the story of her relations with another man unless the acts actually occurred, such as the plaintiff had done, was emphasized by Prosecutor Johnson in summing up the state's case. He asserted that it had been shown that Mrs. Tierman's motive in bringing the court action was to make Poulin acknowledge the paternity of his own child.

Refuses to Make Blood Test
CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Dr. Albert Abrams, California specialist, has refused to make a private blood test to determine whether John Tierman, Notre Dame law professor, is the father of his wife's baby boy who Mrs. Tierman says is the child of Harry Poulin, haberdasher, of South Bend, Ind. It became known today.

Dr. Abrams, in declining to take a part privately in the case, said he would make a test only in connection with court procedure, and only then with both Tierman and Poulin submitting to the test.

Local Eagles Entertained

who have toiled their due and yet found themselves at 65 without a competence in their old age. This undertaking came about in this wise: Early in 1921 subordinates and state agents began to pass resolutions in favor of old age pensions; and in August, 1921, the Grand Aerie unanimously endorsed the proposition. Thirty thousand dollars was appropriated to defray the expenses of a year's educational campaign to inform and arouse public sentiment, and an old age pension commission of prominent members was appointed to conduct the propaganda.

"This commission at once entered upon an investigation of industrial conditions as affecting old age, especially the old age of the worker. It found that the high-powered, swift-moving machinery of modern factories not only requires keen eyesight, steady nerve and skilled hand, but tends to impair all three, so that the working-man's efficiency is destroyed at a comparatively early age. It found, too, that civilized states throughout the world are wrestling with the problem how best to care for the worn-out veterans of their industrial armies.

"As a result of its painstaking investigation the commission was confirmed in the conclusion previously reached by the several aeries, that the old age pension is the most effective, and, on the whole, the least expensive, method of caring for the disabled toilers. Accordingly, it has, by the proposition and distribution of literature and through clubs and public addresses sought to create a public sentiment that will secure the enactment of laws providing old age pensions.

Record of Record
The Eagles have one other patriotic record of which they are very proud, and which is bringing into the order many thousands of the war veterans. They are proud of the fact that 45,000 of their members went into the military service of the country in the World war; and of the fact that the order led the way, even for the government, in providing adequately for the dependents of those who should lose their lives. Within 10 days after our country entered the war, the board of grand trustees of the Eagles proposed a plan, which the Grand Aerie enacted into law, by which a patriotic fund of one and one-half million dollars was established, out of which gratuities of $1000 each were to be paid to the dependents of those Eagles who should lay down their lives as the toll of that war.

"The order is forward in many other less conspicuous but not less worthy good works. Never do the aeries fail to distribute Christmas offerings and Thanksgiving bounties. Scarcely is there an aerie that does not support some charity—it may be a shoe fund for poor children, a charity ball, the

Salvation Army or of the Red Cross. A Fine Record
Now, measuring the capabilities of any organization in these times, its financial condition must also be carefully considered. The impregnable financial strength of the Eagles was demonstrated during the influenza years of 1918-19, when its sickness and funeral benefits ran into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Not one aerie defaulted or even delayed in making the payments required. This, it will be found, is an enviable record.

"In short, the Fraternal Order of Eagles stands forth among the first in the land as a patriotic, community and individual serving social welfare fraternity and institution. Its strength and beneficial activities are succinctly set forth in the following official report of the grand secretary of June 30, 1921:

A membership of approximately 500,000.
Real estate valued at $445,000.00.
Invested funds to the amount of $227,000.00.
Cash on hand $2,134,000.00.
Lodge furnishings and fixtures $2,200,000.00.
Total $13,112,000.00.

The assets of the benefit fund used exclusively for the payment of sick and funeral benefits $4,185,000.00.

The F.O.E. paid out from the date of its organization, Feb. 6, 1919, to June 30, 1921:
For sick benefits $13,534,000.00.
For funeral benefits $4,213,000.00.
For medical services $6,810,000.00.

Total $24,557,000.00.
Increase for the year ending June 30, 1921:
In membership 42,169.
In net assets $1,933,274.79.
In value of property in the benefit fund 498,453.51.

An informal smoker was held at the conclusion of Mr. Parry's talk. It was announced that the local charter will remain open until December, during which time a campaign will be conducted for members. The following committee had charge of last night's reception and deserves much credit for its ability to make the affair a success:

Past Presidents Edward P. Flanagan, James P. Roarko; Trustees, William F. Carey, John J. Driscoll; Hon. Henry E. Draper, Chaplain Joseph Hughes, Inside Guard William A. Sheehan, Treasurer David J. Hackett, Omer Larue, Hugh P. Gallagher, Frank J. McNabb, John F. McCarthy, Visiting Committee Peter P. Brady, David L. Loughlin, Thomas F. Quinn, John B. O'Loughlin, Secretary John M. Hogan, and W. President Timothy F. Barry.

Chaplain Joseph Hughes is chairman of the old age pension committee.

In Gulfstream Blue or Cuban Gray THE FIRST PHAETON REO

A revelation of how much 1645 Dollars can achieve when they are made to do their best

To delight the eyes, there are long low lines, —and then these a body of shining Gulfstream Blue or quiet Cuban Gray, a newly created Reo top, gray interior trimmings and upholstery, fenders of black and steel wheels of gray.

For crawls, and spurts in heavy traffic, for mud and sand in detour lanes, for hills and stretches of open roads, there are six Reo cylinders, with remarkable giant intake valves.

To defeat the shocks of a hundred thousand miles and more, there is the Reo double chassis, with its extra low-hung inner frame in which the power plant is suspended.

For the body's ease there are genuine Marshall type springs, low seats with deep cushions of genuine hand buffed leather, gray Dualtone finish, thick carpets fitted to the floors, and ample leg-room for six-foot men.

Every essential of comfort and enduring worth is there in heaped-up Reo measure.

D. E. McQUADE,
REO SERVICE STATION,

550 Middlesex Street.

Telephone 852

For protection against scar and mar, there are three-barred, full-nickel-plated bumpers front and rear — seven aluminum guard bars on the back panel — and, on the running board, step-plates and kick-plates of heavy aluminum.

To defy the weather, there are Reo-designed, clear-vision curtains — made to pack flat in a special compartment — a cleaner-equipped windshield with integral side-wings, and glass so clear that there seems to be none.

For light, there are nickel-balled headlamps of new design, small parking lights near the windshield braces to conserve the batteries, a special stop-signal and parking light at the rear, and a tonneau light with concealed wire long enough to serve as an extension inspection lamp.

A fully nickel-plated Moto-Meter keeps watch on the temperature of the motor.

Among the minor conveniences, there are two curtained compartments, in the backs of the front seats, for wraps and packages — between the two there is a disappearing vanity case — and on the dash, in addition to the usual equipment, an electric lighter and an eight-day keyless clock.

By providing these and many other things, we have striven to give the owners of the First Phaeton Reo, from the beginning, every desirable thing that the experienced motorist wants.

By getting them all at once and built in, he gets them at manufacturer's prices — so that even in little things every one of his dollars is enabled to do its very best.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

More Autoists Charged With Driving While Intoxicated
—Other Cases

William Lessard was found guilty on the charge of drunkenness in the district court this morning and was held in $300 bonds until tomorrow morning for sentence and Joseph P. McGehee, who was charged with drunkenness and operating an automobile while drunk, was found guilty and held in $500 to the same date.

The men were arrested on Lakeview avenue after Lessard, who was driving the car had broken a plate glass window in a market on that street. At the time Lessard had a 1921 chauffeur's license with him but did not have one for 1922. He told the police that he did have such a license. The case was continued at the request of the government in order that they might investigate the man's statement as in such a case Lessard is responsible by statute for the driver's actions.

The court remarked that he would like to impose a fine in such cases and let the superior court take whatever action on such a decision as desired. He said that it seemed as though the people were going mad driving machines while drunk.

In another automobile case, Joseph J. McGehee, of Boston, pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and Frank J. Holland, of Somerville, pleaded not guilty to the charge of drunkenness and operating a machine while drunk. Holland requested a continuance until October 1, which was granted and both were set at $500 on the operating charge and $100 on personal cognizance, on the charge of drunkenness. McGehee was held in bonds of $100.

The two men were arrested last night following a head-on collision between their machine and one owned by J. F. Lambert, of this city. In Gorham street, near Centre street, Mr. Lambert reported to the police that he was coming toward Lowell when at a point near Centre street he saw the other machine coming in a zig-zag manner. He pulled to the side of the road to avoid a collision but the other machine struck his car. Mr. McGehee was cut about the face and head by the flying glass from the broken windshield of the car he was in.

William Lessard was found guilty of the non-support for his wife and minor children and at the request of the defendant's attorney the case was continued to Saturday for the allowance of a settlement. Edward W. Paquette was found guilty on the charge of assault and battery on George Nichols and was fined $20. He was also placed under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for six months. Frank H. Haskins pleaded guilty to a plea to that of guilty when he was charged with the illegal sale of liquor and was fined $100. Michael Murray was found guilty on the charge of drunkenness and was sentenced to the house of correction for six months.

This sentence was suspended for two weeks as that Murray might go to the home of his relatives in Boston and bring his wife and children with him. The relatives are willing to care for the man's family. The case of Jacob Luz, charged with illegal keeping, was held over to Oct. 7 at the defendant's request.

MATRIMONIAL

Miss Helen L. Kane daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane of 333 High street and Mr. William McLaughlin, were united in marriage Monday afternoon at the Immaculate Conception church rectory. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Owen P. McDonnell, O.M.I. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara A. Kane and Mr. Frank Finnerty acted as best man. After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin will make their home in Wellington avenue.

FALL RIVER KICKS ON HEATLESS SCHOOLS

FALL RIVER, Sept. 27.—Complaints from many schools about the cold and about illness to teachers and children resulting therefrom caused the municipal authorities yesterday to change the stand they had taken to provide no heat for the schools for sometime hence. Classes at the Watson school were dismissed on account of the cold. The situation reached the stage yesterday, it is understood, where heads of several schools reported to Supt. of Schools Delella that they could assume no further responsibility unless heat were furnished in the buildings. Supt. Delella got in touch with Supt. of Buildings Grant with the result that orders went forward to school janitors to turn on the steam.

MASSON.—The funeral of the late Mary Masson took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from her home, 217 Liberty street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including a delegation from Lowell post, American Legion, consisting of Adjutant Robert J. Rutledge, John J. Donovan, George Walsh, William Carr, Joseph Connelly, John Gill, Joseph Ready and Bugler Eddie Lannan. Also the following delegation from Lowell Aerie of Eagles, of which deceased was an esteemed member, Thomas E. Ryan, Arthur Levesque, Lawrence Cavanaugh and Hon. Henry J. Draper. At 1:30 o'clock last evening members of the order gathered at the home of deceased and then proceeded to the funeral home where they were welcomed by the President Timothy P. Barry and staff. Charles Richard A. Griffiths rendered the word selections. A solemn high mass was sung at St. Margaret's church at 10 o'clock. Rev. Charles A. Galligan officiating, assisted by Rev. William Drannan as deacon and Rev. P. O'Brien as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Miss Katherine Hennessey sang the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Miss Hennessey and Mr. Cornelius Calman. Prof. Louis N. Guilbault presiding at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes and of spiritual incense. The bearers were Frank Bitters, James Plinder, George Plinder, Thomas E. Ryan, Arthur Levesque, the solos being sustained by the choir. The funeral is in charge of Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

KNOW.—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Knox took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the home of her widow, Mrs. Timothy J. Mullin, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The cortege proceeded to St. Michael's church where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Thomas Heneguy. The choir, directed by Mr. Thomas P. Boulger, sang the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Mr. Boulger and Miss Margaret Griffin. Mrs. Ella M. Kelly, organist presided at the organ. There were many beautiful floral tributes and many spiritual remembrances from sympathizing relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs. Jas. Kennedy, Thomas Kennedy, William Kennedy, James Leary, Sr., Michael Kane and Luke Duffy. Interment was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery where the Rev. P. H. Kelley conducted the committal prayers at the grave.

VERA.—The funeral of Algea Vera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Viera, took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her parents, Mountain avenue. A mass was read at St. Anthony's church by Rev. John P. Perry. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery, under the direction of Funeral Director Joseph Albart.

MAYOR FAVORS NEW POLICE STATION

The next public building for Lowell will be a new police station of the plans as outlined this morning by Mayor Geo. H. Brown, materialized. In a word the mayor says that he is working on some plan whereby a provision will be made in next year's budget for a new station. The mayor pointed out that it was too late this year to do anything, but assured something would be attempted next year.

An up-to-date station, with a gymnasium, improved guard room and new court room would be among the many features of the proposed new building. Sleeping rooms for 10 or 15 officers would be provided which would give single men a chance to have a good gymnasium, home and headquarters rolled into one. Police matters would be handled in this manner as there would always be a corps of officers on hand for any emergency that might arise. The mayor said that he had thought of a new station for the department 14 years ago but throughout the span of years between then and now he had no opportunity to carry through his plan.

EVACUATION OF THRACE DEMANDED

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The Ankara government has decided to send a note to the powers demanding the immediate evacuation of Thrace according to a statement attributed by the Figaro to Ferid Bey, Kemalist representative in France. This step had been decided upon, he said, because it was certain the Greeks were preparing for systematic destruction of the coast and had already arrested and sent to Greece a number of prominent Turks to be held in exchange for Greeks made captive by the Turks. Ferid Bey declared the Turks had not recognized the obligation of a neutral zone and added, "If the Kemalist government accepts the zone you may be sure it will respect it. In any case, acceptance might coincide only with the meeting of the preliminary armistice conference, where we shall demand evacuation of Thrace and restoration of the country to Ottoman administration and also the return of Constantinople, although perhaps our troops might not enter the capital."

FUNERAL DIRECTOR James W. McKenna in charge.

ROBINSON.—The funeral of Henri Leppin took place this morning from the home of his son, George Leppin, at 42 Delart street and was largely attended. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church 8 o'clock by Rev. Armand Gorman, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Emile Deschamps, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Charles Denizot, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The choir, under the direction of Joseph Parus, who also presided, rendered the Gregorian chant. The bearers were Alfred Herveux, Aurel Camille and Philippe Pochin of court, St. Louis, G.A.R., Zoe St. Hippolyte, St. Louis, G.A.R., and the chairman of Court Grand National, Eugene Denizot, Rural was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. J. Nolin, O.M.I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Amadee Archambault & Sons.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Lowell Council Plans Columbus Day Program Including Night Before Concert

The Columbus day program of Lowell council, No. 72, Knights of Columbus, was determined upon last night at an interesting meeting of the special committee, presided over by the lecturer of the council, John V. Donoghue. It was unanimously voted to open the festivities with a concert and appropriate exercises in the hall on the evening prior to the holiday. The program will embrace speech-making, snook-talk, musical entertainment and a collation. As this will mark the first "night before" event ever held in connection with Oct. 12, the committee plans to make it worthy of the occasion. Messrs. Patrick Nevin and George B. Delaney will arrange for the entertainment, while Daniel H. Quinn and Daniel P. Moriarty will serve as a sub-committee on music.

On the morning of the holiday, the members of the council will march to St. Peter's church where mass will be celebrated. At 10 o'clock a concert will be announced later. Special music will be rendered during the services and, as of yore, a big attendance of Knights is expected. Plans for the annual communion day of Bishop Dulany assembly, Fourth Degree were also perfected at yesterday afternoon's meeting. The Knights will attend mass at St. Michael's church on Sunday, Oct. 8, and every detail will be looked after in order to make an impressive appearance. After mass, the members will breakfast in their hall, following which an entertainment will be given. Arrangements are in charge of Rev. Francis J. Mullin of St. Michael's church who is also faithful pastor of the assembly. William St. Gallagher, faithful navigator and Arthur J. O'Neil, faithful navigator-elect are assisting Rev. Mullin in his plans. Bishop Dulany assembly is recognized as one of the largest and most progressive among the New England councils and a record attendance is looked for at the annual communion Sunday.

MOVING TO THE NEW AUDITORIUM

Members of Ladd & Whitney Post, 155 G.A.A., are giving up their old quarters at 235 Central street, which they have been occupying for a great many years and today the furniture and other paraphernalia of the organization is being moved into the new quarters of the post in the Memorial Auditorium.

It may be stated that for the past three years the post, through the courtesy of the Trades & Labor council has had the free use of its hall in Central street. When the Trades & Labor council moved the two top floors of the old Cook Taylor Co. building in Central street three years ago, Post 155 was occupying spacious quarters on the top floor of the building. Instead of notifying the post that it would have to seek other quarters, the council informed its officers that until further notice the "veterans" could hold meetings and social gatherings in their hall and that the rent would be free.

Today Charles E. Anderson, president of the Trades & Labor council, received the following letter of thanks from the commander of the post: Dear Sir:—As the Memorial Auditorium is finished and the quarters set apart for the G.A.R. are ready for occupancy, we will hold our next meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 4, 1922, there. We are moving our furniture now and will vacate your rooms, that for so long have been a home to us, as rapidly as possible.

We wish to thank you very gratefully and, through you, the Trades & Labor council for the many not less received from you and them. The three flights of stairs and consideration for the infirmity of the comrades promote us to the new quarters. Again thanking you and wishing you all possible success, Yours sincerely, FRANKLIN S. PEVEY, Commander.
